NEW YORK G.O.P. PICKS TUTTLE ON WET PLATFORM

Drys Will Put Own Ticket in Field.

Drys Will Fight

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Dry leaders decided here tonight to put a third party into the state campaign this fall. There was no decision as to the gubernatorial nominee.

The decision was announced in a statement which said the action of the Republican convention in nominating an opponent of prohibition for governor and in adopting a plank asking the dry law's repeal had "made it impossible for the dry forces to support the ticket."

Seven organizations were represented at the dry conference.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, state president of the W. C. T. U., said the drys were assured of plenty of money to finance their campaign.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The Republican party of this state today became officially wet in the most enthusiastic convention its ranks ever held. Charles H. Tuttle, former United States attorney and ardent anti-prohibitionist of New York City, was nominated by acclamation for governor to run on a platform advocating the repeal of the Volstead act.

The dry opposition that threatened to divide the party faded like fog before a stiff north wind and there was no fight over prohibition on the floor of the convention.

A dripping wet ticket, with one exception, was nominated without contest to run with Mr. Tuttle. Caleb H. Baumes, state senator from Newburgh and best known for the crime prevention laws that bear his name, was given the lieutenant governor's place. Mr. Baumes has been considered a moderate dry.

Frank Stand for Repeal.

With its frank stand for repeal of the prohibition law the Republican party in New York has attracted national interest and is being spoken of as having assumed the Republican leadership for the defeat of the Volstead rule. The wet stand was taken in opposition to the administration's wishes and in the face of national leaders, who had come to Albany to try to stem the wet wave.

The nomination of the red-haired New York federal prosecutor and the inclusion in the platform of a wet plank virtually had been assured for several days, but the huge majority of the anti-prohibition vote and the riotious reception of Mr. Tuttle surpassed the brightest hopes of the wet leaders and officially divorced the state party from its former consort, the Anti-Saloon league.

It was Mr. Tuttle's wet plank, Mr. Tuttle's slate and Mr. Tuttle's day in the crowded, flag-draped armory behind the capitol that served as convention hall.

A Tumultuous Demonstration.

There was a tumultuous demonstration this morning when the repeal plank was adopted by a vote of 733 to 253 without debate either on the platform or floor. There was a thirty minute parade when Mr. Tuttle's name was placed in nomination by Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord early this afternoon. County standards from several of the upstate districts wavered for a few minutes, but soon the aisles were crowded with Tuttle converts rushing up to follow the band.

Every one forgot about everything but the prohibition question and it became in reality a wet convention. While two bands were blaring the "Maine Stein Song," which has been more or less the convention's official hymn, the Erie county delegation which had been holding out for Attorney General Hamilton Ward of Buffalo as its candidate for governor climbed over a tier of chairs to join the Tuttle parade.

A few minutes later, after the noise had died down at command of Chairman Joseph A. McGinnies, Mr. Tuttle's name was put to the convention. A booming roar of ayes answered the question, and the New Yorker was declared unanimously nominated for governor. He will oppose Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, also a wet, who will be renominated at the Democratic convention in Syracuse next Tuesday.

Mr. Tuttle had remained outside the hall upon his arrival shortly after noon, but upon receiving word of the nomination the wet leader was escorted down the aisle through a cheering mob to the speaker's platform. Visibly excited and buffeted by well

CHARGE CAPONE CENSORED COPS' GANGSTER LIST

Alcock Seeks Spy in Detective Bureau.

Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock yesterday took up a search for a spy in the detective bureau accused of delivering into the hands of Capone gangsters a secret list of notorious hoodlums slated for prosecution by the police for vagrancy.

Although no formal announcement was made by Acting Commissioner Alcock concerning an impending shakeup of the personnel at the detective bureau, it was conceded as certain that there will be a shakeup.

Meanwhile charges came out of the investigation that not only was there a spy in the police department but that the list had been deliberately taken to members of the Capone gang, perhaps to Scarface Al Capone himself, and that it had there been censored.

Eight Marked in Deletion.

Eight names were marked for deletion from the list of those scheduled for prosecution and, according to the charges, influence was exerted sufficient to cause a new list to be prepared omitting the eight names, and two others. Each of the eight is known as a Capone follower; some have records as Capone killers, and all of them are admitted by the police to be among the worst criminals on the entire list. No names left on the list are recognizable as those of prominent Capone gangsters.

These charges were denied by Chief of Detectives John Norton and his deputy chief, John Ryan. They asserted, and were supported by the word of Ryan's secretary, Patrolman William Balswick, that the original list was stolen from Balswick's desk, and that when Balswick made up the new list, he did so from memory. He happened not to remember the names of the eight Capone gangsters, Balswick said.

"I am not getting a square deal on this matter," complained Chief Norton. "The public is being led to believe I am dealing with gangsters, but it is not so.

Thief Is Not Known.

"I am in charge of the detective bureau, but I am not responsible for picking all the men who are assigned here. I don't know who stole the list. Maybe some newspaperman took it from Balswick's desk."

The missing list was found by federal operatives raiding a Capone hangout, the Carleon hotel at 2138 South Wabash avenue. The list came forth when a federal agent slipped his hand under the pillow of Tony Tagenti, known as a Capone bondsman, who was lying abed ill. The agent had expected to find a pistol, but the list was there.

In their investigation to determine the responsibility for the list having been in the possession of a Capone hoodlum, the police neglected to question Tagenti, who possessed it.

Capone Bondsman Is Freed.

Chief Norton made no attempt to talk to Tagenti it was reported, and ordered his release when a hasty trip through the bureau of identification revealed that Tagenti had no criminal record. Tagenti went through the bureau in less than three hours, along with eleven other men seized by the federal raiders, and all but two of the dozen prisoners—the two having been found with criminal records—were released by Chief Norton's orders.

It appeared that the only questioning of Tagenti on the subject of the secret police list was done by Clarence Converse, ace of the federal special intelligence unit, to whom the gangster professed complete ignorance of how the list came to be nestling under his own pillow. No extended questioning of Tagenti was ordered, it was learned.

All of these facts, it was announced by Acting Commissioner Alcock, will be thoroughly investigated.

The original list of hoodlums scheduled for vagrancy prosecutions was prepared Sept. 17, after Chief Norton had informed Deputy Chief Ryan that Acting Commissioner Alcock desired to wage a war of his own on gangsters, and had ordered the preparation of a list of likely hoodlums to be prosecuted by the police. This followed the inauguration of the vagrancy drive against criminals by Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and Judge John H. Lyle.

Thumbing through the pictures of notorious gangsters, bound in special volumes at the detective bureau, Ryan and Balswick prepared a list of 41 names. The list was submitted to

WHEN IT IS POLITICALLY ADVANTAGEOUS TO RETARD THE PATIENT'S RECOVERY

DAYLIGHT TIME GOES BACK ONE HOUR TONIGHT

Chicago tonight gets back the extra hour of sleep it lost last April when 1930 daylight saving time went into effect.

Advanced time ends officially at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning, and all clocks should be turned back one hour either before or at that time. Household clocks will, for the most part, be turned back at bedtime tonight. The change is effective throughout the country where advanced time has been used. The 2 a. m. hour is selected because at that time less confusion in industry, railroading, and commerce will result.

All railroads operating suburban trains in the Chicago area will conform to central standard time. The Chicago and North Western railroad, which ran on standard time throughout the summer, will change its schedule one hour. That is, trains which departed at 4 o'clock during the summer will now leave at 5 o'clock, and so on. In this way commuters accustomed to leaving Chicago at 5 o'clock, or whatever hour it may have been, may still do so. The Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad will also conform to standard time, but with no change in schedules. Five o'clock trains will leave at 5 o'clock, and so on.

Found Dead in Auto with Motor Running

Vernon Beam, 56 years old, was found dead of carbon monoxide fumes last night in his car, the motor of which was running, in the garage in the rear of the apartment building in which he lived at 133 North Victory street, Waukegan. Beam was a plumber. A neighbor, John Betell, found the body.

Grain Board Bars Russia's Short Selling

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Soviet Russia yesterday was barred as a short seller of grain on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The directorate of the board, after hearing a report from a committee which had just returned from a conference on the Russian situation in Washington, passed a resolution in which it was stated:

"The board wishes to show every effort of coöperation in the protection of the American farmer in the free grain markets. It is the conclusion of the board that the selling of futures upon our exchanges by any foreign government is a new development of commerce of seriously objectionable character and it must be brought to an end."

Rule Aims at Russia.

As the Russian government is the only government which, of its own accord or through recognized subsidiaries, has ever engaged in the practice of short selling, the resolution at present applies to it only. It is, however, broad enough to be invoked against any other foreign nation that may attempt such operations in the future.

Trading in the wheat pit while the board of directors was considering its resolution was marked by lack of confidence on the part of buyers and the close found wheat prices lower than at the end of any other day since the downward movement of grain prices started this month. September wheat closed at 76⅝ cents, December at 80⅝ to 80½ and 80⅝ cents, March at 84¼ to 84¾ cents, and May at 86⅝ to 86⅞ cents. Declines for the day ranged from 2 to 2½ cents.

Traders said that the phraseology of the board of directors made its plain that in the future no brokerage house would be regarded as ethical if it accepted any short selling order from the soviet government or its agents. It was added that this was sufficient in itself to guarantee that no more of such transactions would occur.

Sends Message to Hyde.

A telegram announcing the action was forwarded to Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde by John A. Bunnell, president of the Board of Trade. In his message Mr. Bunnell again assured the secretary of a complete desire to coöperate "in protecting the interests of our people or our country and in furthering maintenance of the principles of our government."

After making its pronouncement against the Russians, the resolution added:

"The board through its business conduct committee has always discountenanced bear raids and manipulation of prices, and it again instructs that committee to take particularly vigorous measures to prevent such activities. In formulating their judgment as to such activities, unduly large short selling as distinguished from hedging may be considered as evidence thereof."

Committee Continues Inquiry.

The business conduct committee, headed by Joseph W. Badenoch, is still carrying on its investigation of the Russian short selling. Nothing is ready for announcement on this, it was reported. It was understood that all but one concern that sold for the soviets had turned over full information and that this one was making every effort to get it in.

It was indicated that the report of this committee might not be ready before next Tuesday. The general impression was that nothing illegal or unethical would be found in the conduct of the brokers, who did not knowingly aid in an effort to depress the market.

Curb on Communists.

Nothing was given out concerning the report of the committee which went to Washington to confer with Secretary Hyde, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, and Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board. It is understood, however, that in addition to offering any possible aid in curbing communistic activity in this country the committee represented to the officials the serious possibilities of lowering confidence in the established marketing facilities. In this was involved the probable loss to farmers if free markets were hampered and their usefulness limited.

The committee from the Board of

Rich Realty Dealer, 83, Is Slain by Son

Rockwell Sayre, 83 years old, wealthy south side real estate operator, was shot to death last night in his apartment-office at 5116 Indiana avenue by his son, Sidney Sayre, world war aviator, because the son suspected him of carrying on a love affair with a nurse.

Young Sayre, who police say is demented, surrendered when a Wabash avenue police squad, notified of the shooting by radio, trapped him at the scene of the murder. He was unemotional. He killed his father, he admitted, because he had showered gifts on the nurse attending his sick mother.

Father of "Old School."

Mr. Sayre, the son explained calmly, belonged to the old school, and should have known better. Police rushed young Sayre to the detective bureau, where he was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne, homicide expert.

The slayer lives at 6049 Kimbark avenue and gives his profession as an inventor specializing in the perfection of rubber collapsible lifeboats. After a cursory examination, detectives declared his mind to be unsound. In Sayre's possession, police found a ten page confession, written, it is believed, several days ago, in which he foretells the crime.

Sayre's invalid mother, Mrs. Susan Sayre, was found at her home, 5755 Kenwood avenue, under the care of Miss Alma Zschaechner, the nurse. Miss Zschaechner was named in Sayre's pre-crime confession as marked for death along with his father. She recalled, she said, that the son had acted queerly and had been working on a new noiseless pistol.

Estate Valued at $1,000,000.

Mr. Sayre, she said, lived at the Kenwood avenue address, although one room of his office was fitted out as an apartment. The Sayres have two other sons, Paul, a professor at the University of Iowa, and Joseph, a graduate of the University of Chicago, who is now taking a post-graduate course in chemistry at Harvard university. Mr. Sayre's estate, it was said, is valued at more than $1,000,000.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, neighbors of the elder Sayre reported hearing shots in his office. A radio alarm followed and was picked up by Sergts. Chris Callahan, Eugene Mahoney and Thomas Riley. As they approached the Indiana avenue address Sidney appeared at the door. He backed into the room, and as the policemen followed he picked up a telephone and said, "The police have arrived." He offered no resistance, nor did he look at the dead form of his father on the floor.

Victim Shot Twice.

In a desk drawer Sergt. Callahan found a .45 caliber automatic pistol with two cartridges exploded. Mr. Sayre had been shot twice, in the back and in the chest.

"Why did you kill your father?" asked Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne when young Sayre was taken to the bureau. The slayer braced himself a moment and then in carefully selected language replied:

"I killed father because he held an autocratic, secretive control over his affinity nurse, who is caring for mother. I went to his office tonight to kill him with a revolver I had borrowed from Wayland Lessing, an undergraduate of the University of Chicago. I saw my father and mother two weeks ago, and I saw he was making love to his affinity nurse."

Gave Her Perfumes.

"What kind of love was he making?" asked Ditchburne.

"Well, he gave her perfume and handkerchiefs," answered Sayre after a moment's meditation. "If he gave her money I wouldn't care. This world is pretty loose today, but father was of the old school, and ought to have known better. Those were not appropriate gifts for a man of the old school to give to a woman."

TERRIFIC STORM SWAMPS BARGE OFF MUSKEGON

Last Sailing Vessel Goes Down.

BULLETIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27 (2 a. m.)—(Special.)—The small fruit freighter North Shore, which left Benton Harbor yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock with Capt. Irving Anderson, his wife, and four men aboard, has been overdue at this port since 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The boat is owned by the Lawrie Transportation company of Milwaukee and was launched last June as a vessel of an unusually safe type of steel construction. During the summer it was used as an excursion boat and when the excursion season was over was placed in the fruit carrying trade.

BULLETIN.

Two Rivers, Wis., Sept. 26.—(AP)—After a six hour battle against waves on storm torn Lake Michigan, six coast guardsmen were safe at their home port tonight. They put out this afternoon in answer to distress signals from the schooner Our Son, which disappeared off Sheboygan after her crew was saved by the freighter William Nelson. The hood of the coast guard boat was smashed off by waves.

Muskegon, Mich., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—The first storm of the fall swept down on Lake Michigan today and took a heavy toll of life.

The barge Salvor, with 14 aboard, was torn loose from its tug about two miles off this port and sank, carrying six men and a boy to death.

At the same time the lumber schooner Our Son, the last sailing ship on the great lakes, foundered off Sheboygan, Wis. After hours of peril the schooner's crew of seven were taken off in safety by the freighter William Nelson, which is proceeding in the direction of Chicago.

It was the worst storm which has swept this area since Oct. 28, 1929, when the City of Muskegon sank just inside the piers with a loss of twenty-nine lives.

Boy Among Drowned.

Tonight the casualty list in the wreck of the Salvor stood: Two identified dead; five missing and given up for dead; seven saved.

Two bodies that washed ashore were identified as Elmer Lytle of Detour and Lornie Olmstead, 9 year old son of Mrs. Ida Olmstead, the barge's cook.

Six others, saved by their life belts, had been carried ashore by the waves. They were Mrs. Olmstead, her sister, Alice La Plaunt of Sault Ste. Marie; Edward Winserouski of Detour, Mich., foreman of the barge; Clement Shurage of Detour; Onnie La Plaunt of Sault Ste. Marie; George Secord of Muskegon, and Lloyd O'Connor of Detroit. Winserouski and La Plaunt drifted ashore 10 miles north of the wreck. The two women and O'Connor were carried to a point nearly 15 miles from the scene of the sinking. O'Connor was swept ashore with such force that his leg was broken. He was found unconscious in a field near the shore. Coast guardsmen found Shurage alive 16 miles north of the wreck. He was given shelter in a cottage. All the others are in a hospital here.

Six Others Missing.

Clinton Lane, Harry Smith, Lyman Nadeau, and Clarence Barnett, all of Muskegon, and Tiny Wiuserowski of Detour were still missing and given up for lost.

When darkness settled, the bodies of two men could be seen lashed to the Salvor's high derrick, the only part of the vessel above water. Heavy seas had been pounding over the derrick for hours and it was regarded as certain that both men were dead; although some observers claimed to have seen one of them move feebly just before night fell. Coast guards were still trying to get a boat out to the Salvor, but the terrific seas made their efforts fruitless.

Barge Loaded with Stone.

The barge, loaded with stone, was being towed by the tug Fitzgerald to Muskegon from Detour, bringing materials for the local breakwater. Twelve miles off Muskegon the tug was caught in the 50 mile gale. She battled the storm for three hours and was about two miles from port when the line parted and the barge was left to the mercy of the gale.

The barge started its fight to reach port, while coast guards, under Capt. George Gatfield, raced in a truck north of the city in an effort to get

The National Dish of America Is Variety

The Englishman and his roast beef—the Italian and his spaghetti—the Mexican's chile con carne—the Chinese and their rice—many countries have their national dishes.

What is the American national dish? There isn't any. Bostonians may go for beans, but the country as a whole is decidedly open-minded on the food question.

Americans have learned that there are so many choice kinds of foods available that they never think of limiting themselves to any one. Housewives have learned to vary their menus. They seek constantly for something new and appetizing. Grocers' shelves help them find it.

Adding impetus to food shopping is the government report that food prices are now ten per cent lower than those of last year.

a line to them. Before they arrived John Kelderhouse, the lookout, exclaimed, "She gone! She's gone!" When coast guards reached the scene only the derrick was above water.

Three times lines were shot, but they fell far short as they were caught in the gale. So the coast guards stood by helpless.

In the meantime the Fitzgerald had reached port, but as she entered the harbor, her steam was down and she was battered badly. Capt. Thomas Houle said that he did not know whether it would have been possible to have reached the harbor with the barge, but once the line parted all there was for the tug to do was to fight her way to safety.

L. T. Durocher of Detour, owner of the barge and tug, was standing on the pier here in tears as the tug fought to gain entrance.

Late tonight the passenger liner Missouri limped into port from Milwaukee several hours overdue. Strong anxiety had been felt for her safety.

EXIT LAST LAKE SCHOONER

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last night received a radio message from Capt. Charles H. Mohr of the freighter William Nelson, telling of the rescue of the crew of the schooner Our Son.

The story, received through the station of the Radio corporation of America, was laconic; told in the words of a seaman.

Those saved by the Nelson were:

Capt. Fred Nelson of Des Plaines, Ill.
Mate John Olsen of Milwaukee
Seaman Peter Olsen of Milwaukee.
Seaman Alfred Peterson of Milwaukee.
Seaman Walter Shallent of Milwaukee.
Seaman Carl Schroeder of Muskegon, Mich.
Cook Tom Larsen of Milwaukee.

Ship Nearly Capsized.

The Our Son was outbound from Sheboygan but a few hours when it encountered difficulties. Windswept, it tipped and threatened to capsize. Calls for help were sent out and answered immediately by the Nelson, and later by a Pere Marquette car ferry, and later by the Sheboygan coast guard.

Late last night only Capt. Mohr's story of the rescue was available. His message to THE TRIBUNE follows:

"While bound for Chicago, sighted Our Son flying distress signal about 3:30. Immediately headed for schooner and asked him to head in to wind so could come alongside. Terrific sea running at time. Worked Nelson in to schooner and took men aboard over bow. Schooner half full of water at time of rescue. When first sighted feared would be unable to effect rescue due to sea."

The Our San, according to Capt. Mohr, was loaded with pulpwood.

The Nelson expected to reach 92d street pier at South Chicago some time today.

Some Further Details.

Capt. Mohr also sent a wireless account of the rescue to the Associated Press at Sheboygan, which contained further details. The message received by Station WSK, Reiss Coal company, follows:

"With the assistance of the crew of the Nelson the men from the schoner were taken aboard without the aid of lifeboats, although all lifesaving gear had been prepared for use.

"As the Nelson approached, the crew of the schooner cut away all sails. After the rescue we watched the Our Son for more than 45 minutes. Then she disappeared, believed capsized or sunk."

Gale Sweeps St. Joseph.

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—All craft put into the harbor this afternoon in the face of a fifty mile gale sweeping Lake Michigan and Berrien county. The gale began with an electrical downpour this morning, growing to tornadolike proportions late this afternoon. The rain did thousands of dollars' good to Berrien's late fruit crops, parched for want of water for weeks. Temperature dropped 38 degrees since noon. All Goodrich Transit liners are inshore.

FRENCH STORM LOSS GROWS.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The terrific sudden storm which caused havoc and death among the craft and fishermen of the Brittany coast for four days after a fleet of 500 smacks left their harbors last Saturday cost forty lives, it was learned today. The men lost have left behind 28 widows and 72 orphans.

Minister of Marine Rollin arrived at Lorient today, coming from Concarneau, where he visited and consoled the families of victims of the storm.

At Concarneau twenty-two were lost whose deaths made 18 widows and 32 orphans, among the widows being four young brides. In the Lorient section 18 deaths were reported, leaving ten widows and 40 orphans.

Battered boats continue to come into ports with their flags at half mast, adding to the fears of the kinfolk waiting and praying, and it is feared that the toll may continue to mount. Funds are being raised for the relief of the sufferers and the government will undoubtedly aid.

50 MI. GALE RIPS CITY; MIDWEST IN CHILLY GRIP

Snow Falls in Wisconsin; Several Die in Storms.

A gale which reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour for brief periods bore down on Chicago yesterday, bringing the first hint of winter cold and routing the unseasonable warmth of early autumn.

The sharp drop in temperature, which caused Chicagoans to don their top coats, was general over large areas in the central states, and the high winds, which reached cyclonic proportions in several sections, caused a number of deaths and heavy property and crop damage.

In Chicago the temperature dropped from 72 at 8 a. m. to 50 at 5 p. m., but fair skies were forecast for today with diminishing winds and rising temperatures for tomorrow.

Autos Crushed by Trees.

Although there were few serious accidents in Chicago the wind endangered many persons as it snapped trees and loosened cornices and chimneys in the downtown district. A number of automobiles were crushed by falling trees.

A giant elm tree blown down at 1220 East 50th street completely blocked traffic and defied efforts of police to move it. It finally was hung with red lanterns as a warning to motorists.

Airplane travel out of Chicago was virtually at a standstill throughout the day, and at the Municipal airport a tri-motored passenger plane arriving from St. Paul was upset when it was caught by the wind as it landed. Mrs. H. B. Lang of St. Paul and G. M. Wilkinson of Chicago suffered minor bruises. Three other passengers and the crew, composed of two pilots and a steward, escaped injury.

One workman, James Crowley, 44 years old, of 846 West 64th place, was blown from the second floor of an addition to St. Elizabeth's hospital, suffering a probable skull fracture.

Vessels Torn from Moorings.

The wind tore half a dozen vessels from their moorings in the lake and Capt. John O. Anderson kept coast guard crews busy late into the night towing the disabled craft into the Randolph street slip. One sailboat was capsized and saved with difficulty, while the cruiser Tyke narrowly escaped being broken against a breakwater after it broke loose from its moorings at the Chicago Yacht club.

A serious fire was threatend for a time when sparks from a rubbish pile blaze, fanned by the wind, set fire to two residences at 320 and 322 North Leavitt street and then spread to the Royal Box company's plant at 324 North Leavitt street. Firemen estimated the loss at $10,000.

Evanston, Wilmette, Winnetka, and other north shore towns reported the storm damage limited to destruction of shade trees.

Man Killed by Lightning.

William Haubrock, 34 years old, was killed by lightning near Mendon, Ill., in a storm that dropped the mercury from 84 to 50 degrees in a few hours. Reports from Quincy said that much damage had been done to corn by the wind and that late apples had been blown from the trees.

The second hail storm in two days struck Keokuk, Ia., the high wind unroofing houses and blowing down communication and power lines. J. T. Vermillion, a farmer near Keokuk, was killed by flying timbers from his home.

W. H. Belt, 49 years old, of New Boston, Ia., died of injuries received when a tornado struck his five room house on Thursday night and carried it a quarter of a mile.

At Stevens Point, Wis., flurries of snow were falling last night. The temperature dropped 30 to 40 degrees in Indiana, with frost reported in a number of sections.

While the central states shivered yesterday the Atlantic coast sweltered in a heat wave with a maximum of 96 recorded at Washington, D. C.

5 WOMEN DROWN, 19 SAVED AS SHIP SINKS IN STORM

ZARA, Italian Dalmatia, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Five women, passengers of a Jugo-Slav schooner, were drowned when the vessel was overwhelmed by a storm in the Adriatic sea today. Nineteen persons were saved. It is believed the schooner's cargo of wine was lost.

Market Master Accused of Using Racket Methods

A resolution demanding the removal of Dr. J. F. Timmis, a dentist, as master of the city market between 70th and 71st streets, on South State street, and protesting against methods of raising campaign funds for the city hall political organization, was unanimously adopted last night at an indignation meeting of the market's merchants. The resolution is to be forwarded to Mayor Thompson.

The market was founded in July, 1928, with Timmis as its master. Since its founding merchants have been levied upon for contributions of from $3 to $5 a week, according to Charles Braunstein, chairman of the meeting. The collections have been made, he charged, by Robert Rohn for Timmis and politicians.

Asks Larger Donation.

Three months ago, Braunstein said, Dr. Timmis told him he must make a substantial donation to the city hall campaign fund. Braunstein volunteered to collect a dollar or two from the 100 merchants operating in the market. This offer, Braunstein said, was refused with the order that he produce "big money." Later, he said, he was ordered to give $25.

At that time the merchants held a meeting and resolved, because of previous donations and the general business slump, to refuse to meet the latest demand. Immediately police were dispatched to the market and arrested a number of merchants for minor violations. Merchants volunteered to produce affidavits to support these statements.

"One night Dr. Timmis ordered police to arrest me," Braunstein said. "The police refused to do so until he obtained a warrant. When he went for the warrant I went away from there."

Appeal for Injunction.

The merchants hired an attorney and petitioned Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan for an injunction to restrain police interference. The judge did not grant the injunction, but ordered Assistant Corporation Counsel William V. Daly to have that office write a letter to Police Commissioner Alcock instructing Englewood police not to molest the merchants.

"We found out that First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Breen was to have written the letter," Braunstein said. "Later we learned that such a letter was never delivered to Alcock.

"Two weeks ago I was taken to Commissioner of Public Service William J. Balmer by Dr. Timmis and Rohn. The commissioner told me that unless we met the demand for campaign money he would see that the ordinance allowing us to operate would be repealed."

VOTE 3 TRUE BILLS

Three members of the flat janitors' union were named in true bills charging conspiracy yesterday after the grand jury had listened to the testimony of Mrs. Anna Bobruck, 3221 Belle Plaine avenue, who charges that she was threatened with a bomb as well as roughly handled by the defendants.

The true bills charge conspiracy to prevent the lawful use of prosperity. The three reported named are Thomas Biggy, picket of the union; Patrick Heapy, and Daniel Kerwin.

Quick Action Taken.

Immediate grand jury action was taken for two reasons, it was announced by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury who are in direct charge of the racketeering investigation ordered by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty in a special charge to the grand jury.

One reason, they said, was because Attorney Joseph Ricker, law partner of Ald. Oscar Nelson, an official of the labor federation, sought the release of the men on writs of habeas corpus before Judge Joseph B. David. The other reason was that Ald. Nelson and a delegation of labor leaders called on Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the Association of Commerce crime prevention committee, to protest against the actions of the prosecutors.

Mueller Defends Action.

It is reported that the group charged the prosecutors with using the racket investigations as a means of attacking legitimate labor unions.

"I made it plain at the outset of this investigation that honest union labor organizations had nothing to fear," said Prosecutor Mueller. "I repeat that statement and say that the real labor leader should assist us in cleaning out the racketeers.

"The woman in this case—and she was corroborated by other witnesses—swore before the grand jury that she was threatened with bombing and was roughly treated. The grand jurors saw fit to indict on the evidence. It is our duty to investigate such charges when they are made and if substantiated to make arrests whether they involve members of labor unions or otherwise."

Judge Questions Complainant.

Attorney Ricker told Judge David that he represented the janitors' union in the writ hearing. The judge asked Mrs. Bobruk if the charges she made are true and when she answered in the affirmative he turned to Attorney Ricker and said:

"I don't care if you represent the bootleggers union or the gamblers' union. How much bond do you suggest in this case, Mr. Mueller?"

It was decided to fix the bonds at $5,000 for each defendant.

The writ hearing was continued and indictments were sought at once.

The beauty shop racketeer case involving Peter Cuniff—known as Dynamite Pete—Ray Williams, ex-convict and former barber union official, and Emery T. Erickson, executive secretary of many north side business men's organizations, is expected to be ready for grand jury presentation next week. Williams was questioned at length yesterday, but refused to make any admissions. Cuniff is still a fugitive.

The Hammond police last night were holding Gilbert Ward, president, and Dewey C. Bean, secretary, of a barbers' local, following the bombing of the combined barber shop and home of John Murzyn. He told the police that he had been having trouble with the barbers' union.

U. S. REFUSES BAIL BONDS OF AGENCY PENDING INQUIRY

United States Attorney Johnson yesterday notified the Grand Central Surety company of New York and its local agents, the John Lynn agency, that no more bail bonds written by the company will be acceptable in the federal courts until an investigation of alleged Capone influence in the Lynn concern has been completed.

For two days this week the federal grand jury heard testimony which was presented in an effort to show that Ralph Capone had an interest in the Lynn agency and maintained the concern for the convenience of himself and his fellow gangsters. John Lynn, president of the agency, denied this, asserting that he and his partner, William Curran, own all the stock in the concern.

A thorough investigation of bonds presented in the Municipal court was ordered yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Olson at a meeting of the judges. The issue was raised recently when Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson released Izzy Alderman and Joe Condi, hoodlums prosecuted under the vagrancy act, on a real estate bond which the judge approved at his home. Subsequent investigation revealed that the bond was not properly secured. Records of the court show an increase of bond forfeitures. In 1921 there were 296 bonds forfeited as against 1,690 in 1929.

CHARGE CAPONE GANG CENSORED WORK OF POLICE

Hunt Spy in 'Secret List' Mystery.

Norton, according to Balswick's account, and Norton suggested that the names of the officers who had previously arrested the hoodlums should be included in the list.

Balswick then inserted the policemen's names in the list, made a new draft of an original and three carbon copies, and locked them up in his desk. He asserted his desk has a faulty lock on it, which may be easily sprung with a little pressure.

Crosses Before Eight Names.

The next morning the original and three copies were missing, and after conducting a search for them, in which he was helped, Balswick said by Deputy Chief Ryan, Balswick made up a new list from memory. Four copies of this were struck off, Balswick said, one being retained in his own files, another going to Norton, and two being delivered to Assistant City Attorney William Luthardt, in charge of the police vagrancy drive. All of these copies are accounted for, it was announced.

The list found in Tagenti's bed was the original of the set typed by Balswick. In pencil markings on the margin crosses had been made before the names of the eight Capone gangsters whose name did not appear on the new list at all.

This was taken by Norton to mean simply that the spy who had stolen the first list had obtained access to the second list and had notified the Capone gangsters of those who had been omitted. But two others, who are not identified with the Capone gang, were also omitted on the second list, and their names were not marked with the crosses.

These two men were Maurice and Frank Quirk, both said by the police to be beer runners.

The Capone gangsters whose names were not on the list which was finally approved and set for action in the obtaining of vagrancy warrants were:

Louis Campagna, known as a Capone killer; he was arrested two years ago in front of the old South Clark street police station with two .45 caliber automatics strapped to his waist, at a time when the authorities were about to release a Capone enemy, Joe Aiello, from police custody in the same station.

Claude Maddox, owner of the Circus café, where the St. Valentine's day massacre is believed to have been plotted.

Ted Newberry, erstwhile Zuta-Moran-Aeillo lieutenant, now known to be in charge of Capone's north side booze traffic.

Tony Accardo, a Capone murderer who was arrested recently in a Checker cab with Machine Gun Jack McGurn, known as the worst of the Capone killers.

Sam Hunt, who was arrested after a machine gun assault upon an Aiello henchman.

Marty Guilfoyle, operator of gambling enterprises on the northwest side for the Capone gang.

Murray Humphries, a labor racketeer enlisted by the Caponeites to help in the seizure of labor unions.

Tony Cappizzio, a Capone racketeer associated with Maddox in the operation of the Circus café.

Two Bandits Take Gun from Policeman; Escape

Policeman John Pauley, 2803 West 62d street, was seized by two Negro strong-arm bandits last night and robbed of his gun as he waited for a street car at 45th street and South State. Pauley was enjoying a day off and was in plain clothes. When the robbers found his star and realized they had selected a policeman for a victim they fled in panic without taking his money.

PRANK IMPRISONS TWO CHILDREN 40 HOURS; HUNDREDS JOIN HUNT

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Two weary, weeping, and thoroughly frightened 6 year old children, for a time believed kidnaped, were returned to their parents here today after being imprisoned forty hours in the basement of an unoccupied house.

Authorities may discipline two 10 year old boys who are accused of locking the children in the house as a prank after luring them there on promise of "a bean shooter."

Although hundreds of persons were hunting the missing children—Rhoda Dalley, daughter of E. J. Dalley, and Frank Nolan, son of F. W. Nolan—they might not have been found today if Mrs. Hugh P. Nash had not recalled hearing her son tell of seeing two children being "locked in a house" Wednesday night. While 4,000 school pupils, policemen, and police dogs were joining the hunt, she remembered what her son had said.

GUZIK BROTHERS SPEND A DAY OF TRIBULATION

Harry and Sam in Cells; Warrant Out for Jack.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Alberta Hart and Willie Davis, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Sabath.

John Theren, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Robert Hartnett, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary, by Judge Charles A. Williams.

James E. Parham, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Dallas Utterback, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

Joseph Marusara and Jacob Golgus, malicious mischief, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell; Mike Motto, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Ike Connor, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell, by Judge Philip Finnegan.

The brothers Guzik—Harry, Sam and Jack—had a tough time yesterday. Harry and Sam, Capone lieutenants, spent the day in custody and last night they were still behind bars. Jack, chairman of the Capone board of directors, was named in a federal warrant charging him with reporting his 1928 income as $18,000, while in reality, according to government investigators, it soared above $642,000.

For perhaps thirty seconds during the afternoon Harry was a free man. In this time he walked twenty steps from the federal building office of Chief A. P. Madden of the internal revenue intelligence squad plump into the waiting hands of several of the policement assigned to Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's staff.

Harry Held as a Vagrant.

Federal Agent Clarence Converse arrested Harry and Sam Thursday night for questioning in connection with charges that they had violated the income tax laws. Finishing with Harry, Converse offered him to the police department. The police had no use for him, so Converse called Roche. Within an hour from that call Harry was served with one of Judge John H. Lyle's vagrancy warrants and was on the way to the detective bureau under bond of $10,000.

Sam went to the county jail because his bondsmen could not raise the equivalent of $25,000 cash bail on charges that he owed more than $115,000 in unpaid income tax.

Questioned by Rathbun.

At the Temple building headquarters of State's Attorney Swanson Assistant Prosecutors Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane, assigned to investigate the Lingle murder, questioned Harry for half an hour before he went to the bureau. He told them, according to the prosecutors, that he had been out of the roadhouse and gambling business since 1923 and had been living on his $700,000 bank roll of profits since then.

Later Harry amended this.

"I don't mean $700,000," he said. "It was really only about $200,000, and I've spent all but $50,000 of that. I have a nice home, but that's in my wife's name, and I get about $350 a year from some stock I own. I am not a rich man and I'm not in the racket. I don't do anything."

"Which proves he's a vagabond," commented the prosecutors.

Sam's Bond Put at $25,000.

Sam Guzik was arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker on the income tax charges during the morning and was confronted with a demand for $25,000 bond, made by Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Grossman. Attorney Charles Horgan protested that his client was "no star in the hoodlum firmament," and really a very minor fellow.

"He's a big enough star," replied Grossman. "Terry Druggan, Frankie Lake, and Ralph Capone all had $25,000 bonds. Why not Sam?" The bond was so set.

Chief Deputy Collector Robert E. Neely of the internal revenue bureau released Sam's yearly delinquencies after the hearing. The years involved and the taxes owed are as follows:

1925	4,649.83
1926	6,124.25
1927	26,843.84
1928	72,075.40
Total	$115,821.84

Sam did not file a tax return for any of the five years, Neely said.

Jack Guzik, senior to his brothers both in point of profits and participation in gang activities, received the $642,000 income in 1928, and had been banking increased amounts since 1924, the incomes for the other years not being disclosed.

It was said that when the total tax he owes is compiled it will, if proportionate with the 1928 profits, exceed the indebtedness of any hoodlum or public official thus far indicted on income tax charges during the administration of United States Attorney Johnson. Reports at the federal building were that Jack's total tax might run to $500,000. The warrant for his arrest was issued by Commissioner Walker.

25 More Lyle Warrants.

While the federal authorities and the state's attorney's office were engaged with the Guzik brothers Judge Lyle was reported to have signed about twenty-five new vagrancy warrants for hoodlums, besides the one issued for Harry Guzik.

Other "vagabond" activities included the setting for trial of the cases against Danny Stanton, Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, and "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, all of whom are listed as public enemies by the Chicago Crime commission. All three will be tried on Judge Lyle's previous vagrancy warrants before Judge Edgar A. Jones—Stanton on Tuesday, O'Donnell on Wednesday, and Mangano on Thursday.

"Mike de Pike" Heitler, another listed public enemy, was reported recovering last night at the Jefferson Park hospital from injuries suffered in an auto accident.

Sam Loses His Roll.

The crowning ignominy experienced by any hoodlum during the day came to Sam Guzik at the hands of Agent Converse. Sam had undergone a morning of staccato questioning after a few hours' sleep at the detective bureau and was mopping his brow in Converse's office.

The hand doing the mopping glittered before the agent's eyes and Converse grabbed it, sliding a half carat diamond ring from one finger. A diamond tie pin followed and then Sam was pulled to his feet and "fanned" for his cash. This, stuck in a hip pocket, amounted to $2,810.

"Maybe this will help pay that tax you held out," said Converse as he dumped the money and jewelry in a government envelope.

FIRE CHIEF, JAILED BY POLICE CHIEF, FREED BY MAYOR

Fire Chief John Yakas of Calumet Park fire department, was freed on the order of Mayor Synaklewicz yesterday from the village hoosegow, where he had been put by Chief Matthew Weilgorecki of the town's police force. Chief Wielgorecki burst upon Chief Yakas Thursday night in the village hall, which houses both police and fire departments, and discovered Yakas talking with Mrs. Victoria Stankus, 1079 123d street, and arrested them. Yakas said yesterday that Mrs. Stankus had called on him for help in getting a friend out of jail.

Mrs. Stankus was released on $98.99 bail, all her husband could supply, and Fire Chief Yakas, who could not furnish bail, was released on his own recognizance on orders of Mayor John Synaklewicz.

Slayer of Alleged Bandit Held as Booze Suspect

John Zeigler, 26 year old tire dealer at 3409 Montrose avenue, who was first a hero and then a bootleg suspect after he had killed Washington P. Megary, an ex-convict, Wednesday night, was placed under $1,000 bond by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday because a still near his shop had been connected to his gas meter. Zeigler was arrested by special dry agents under Alexander G. Jamie. His case will be heard Oct. 7.

CLEANING PLANT IS ROBBED.

Three men early yesterday overpowered the watchman at the Globe Cleaning and Dyeing company, 3313 Ogden avenue, opened the safe with explosives and escaped with $1,000. Envelopes arriving to start work released the watchman, Jacentz Honducek.

ARMY OFFICER IS SOUGHT AFTER AUTO COLLISION

Capt. Winfield R. McKay, stationed at Fort Sheridan, was being sought by Evanston police last night after his automobile, northbound on Sheridan road at Calvary cemetery, crashed into three southbound cars and then plunged through a fence. No one was injured. The car was identified by the license plates. Witnesses told police the driver, dressed in army uniform, abandoned his auto and drove away in another car.

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county auto toll to 763. The victims:

Mrs. Elsie Waalk, 40 years old, 4809 Fulton street. Struck in front of 618 South Cicero avenue by a driver who did not stop. Witnesses attempted to capture the hit and run driver but were outspeed.

Mrs. Jenny Jacobsen, 74 years old, 1517 East 57th street. Died of injuries received Thursday when she was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Martin Arajewski, 68 years old, 2111 South Ashland avenue. Killed by a hit and run driver as he was crossing Ashland avenue at Cullerton street.

Mrs. Modie J. Spiegel, 56 years old, 140 Melrose avenue, Kenilworth, prominent in North Shore society, was in a serious condition at the Evanston hospital last night as the result of an auto accident in Hubbard Woods. Her car, being driven by Al Modine, chauffeur, collided with another belonging to Mrs. Critt Cox, 237 Washington street, Highwood.

South Elgin Skeleton May Be That of Primitive Man

A human skeleton, discovered by duck hunters in a gravel pit at South Elgin, will be examined by University of Chicago scientists in an effort to determine its age, according to an announcement by Coroner Herman J. Vierke of Elgin yesterday. The bones were three feet below the surface and apparently of great age. The sharp recession of the skull bone from the eye sockets indicated that the skeleton might be that of a prehistoric man.

15 SLAIN, 60 SHOT AS POLICE FIRE ON REBELS IN INDIA

Fleeing Gandhi Followers Picked Off in Forest.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, Sept. 26.—The renewed vigor of the civil disobedience campaign, which began in western India with the end of the monsoon last week, resulted yesterday in a serious clash in the Chirnar forest, near Panvel, 40 miles north of Bombay. Fifteen were shot dead and sixty were wounded.

The police officials apparently lost their heads, for in opening fire on a crowd of 5,000 peasants, who had assembled to break the forest laws, they killed the chief magistrate of the district, two forest rangers, and four constables who were trying to persuade the infuriated mob to disperse. When the magistrate fell the demonstrators fled towards the nearby villages, the police picking them off as they ran.

Ambulances from the Bombay Nationalist congress headquarters were dispatched immediately to the scene and the wounded are being brought into Bombay tonight.

The government dispatched an armed police boat to the scene, as it is feared the infuriated villagers might storm the police headquarters.

New clashes between revolutionists and police are feared here Sunday as a result of a decision by the Nationalist congress "war council" tonight to stage a monster demonstration in protest against the round table conference in London, which opens next November. The Gandhi campaign leaders have decided to march their hosts into the heart of the fort area, where most of the European business houses and residences are located, and where the British troops are stationed.

Ghandi's Son Takes Lead.

The police previously have usually left the demonstrators alone as long as they remained outside of the fort area, and they are planning to stop the marchers on Sunday with full force.

Ramdas Gandhi, son of the "holy man," arrived here today after his release from prison and inspected the congress hospital where the wounded revolutionists are lying. He is expected to take a leading hand in Sunday's demonstration.

The effect of the boycott on British goods was disclosed in today's trade figures, which show that imports have fallen $26,250,000, as compared with August of last year.

STABS HIMSELF TO DEATH.

Edward J. Brooks, 50 years old, a painter, stabbed himself to death in his room at 7456 South Shore drive. Police learned that he had been despondent over a love affair.

Three Absentee School Trustees to Face Court

Three members of the Lyons village school board who have refused to attend meetings of the board since last April when School Superintendent John W. Costello was forced to resign, must explain the reasons for their absence to Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. on Monday. The three are William Martin, William Schieve, and Joseph Mitch. They have been summoned before Judge Taylor in mandamus proceedings filed to compel their attendance at board meetings. The suit was started by George Masek, one of the other four trustees.

Girl Stripped by Bandits Because She Hides Money

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Angered by the refusal of pretty Jane Gray, 22, to reveal the hiding place of money in a store, three bandits today ripped her clothing from her body and forced her to stand nude before them while they completely ransacked the place. They finally discovered $28 and made off with it. Clutching the remnants of her garments about her, the girl ran to her sister's home nearby, only to face the bandits again. They ran, however, at her approach.

VOTERS TO RULE MRS. McCORMICK SENATE ACTION

Tells West Frankfort Audience Her Attitude.

West Frankfort, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick addressed an audience of more than a thousand here tonight. Putting particular stress on her position on the liquor question, Mrs. McCormick declared that she was taking the only legal position open to a representative of the American people, in adapting her official attitude toward the prohibition law to the expressed wishes of the majority of the people as expressed in the referendum to be conducted at the November election. She said she was not defending her position, but merely explaining it, remarking that "my position needs no defense."

"I have previously stated that I am dry," Mrs. McCormick said. "I am still dry; I am personally dry, privately dry, publicly dry and politically dry. I shall vote dry in the referendum, but that will have nothing whatever to do with how I shall vote when the matter of re-submitting the prohibition question to the states comes up for consideration in the United States senate, in the event that I am elected.

Guided by Referendum.

"There, I shall cast my vote according to the mandates of the people who give me the right to represent them. If a majority of the citizens of the state of Illinois vote that they want the eighteenth amendment repealed, I shall cast my vote in the United States senate accordingly."

Mrs. McCormick told her audience that "as conscientious Americans we must enforce our laws or repeal them. We must not be a nation of lawbreakers."

She declared that in taking the oath of office to uphold the laws, she had no discretion as to which laws she should support.

Big Crowds in Williamson.

Marion, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Williamson county, which voted for Senator Deneen in the primary, turned out almost en masse this afternoon to hear and honor Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for the United States senate. The historic courthouse on the public square was filled and many were turned away. As Mrs. McCormick stated her position on the wet and dry issue the walls rang with applause.

The meeting in Marion and another that followed in Herrin were the first political rallies of the present campaign in this county and both attracted large crowds.

Referring to business conditions, Mrs. McCormick said that up to a year ago normal business had been carried on, in part, by the momentum from the war, but that now "we are hit by the backwash."

The differences in American political parties, Mrs. McCormick said, are based on their international policies, and the Democrats in congress today would vote to enter the league of nations just as they did when J. Hamilton Lewis was the whip of the senate and was Woodrow Wilson's spokesman for the league of nations.

The Republican party, she said, is for national defense and not for disarmament

LAKE COUNTY G. O. P. WOMEN'S GROUP TO BACK MRS. M'CORMICK

The Republican Women's league of Lake county, which will support Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick for United States senator, was formed yesterday and held its first meeting in the afternoon at Waukegan under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harriet Edwards, wife of former Judge Claire C. Edwards. She was appointed by Max Przyborski, head of the Lake county Republican central committee. Other officers are Mrs. Barney Treiger of Antioch, vice chairman, and Mrs. Edith Flood of Grayslake, secretary.

Sixty-four out of sixty-nine Lake county precincts were represented. The other five are in Zion and have no regular representation.

MAYOR MOTORS AROUND TOWN TO LOOK AT STREETS

Mayor Thompson, back from a vacation on Nantucket Island, accompanied by a score of political followers, drove over some thirty miles of city streets on a tour of inspection yesterday.

The mayor said he was "out to see what Mike Faherty was doing in the way of public improvement" and he took with him a delegation from the New Orleans board of port commissioners who dropped in yesterday to call on him. Chairman Faherty of the board of local improvements went along and so did Ald. Oscar Nelson, Thompson's council leader.

DRY TEST VOTE ATTACK IS MADE BY MRS. O'NEILL

She Says Illinois G. O. P. Ignores Dry Plank.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Mount Carroll, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill launched her independent campaign for United States senator today by announcing that she stood for the true principles of Republicanism which, she said, had been abandoned by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick for the sake of political expediency.

Mrs. O'Neill defined her stand in her first speech of the campaign delivered before an audience attending the Mount Carroll homecoming celebration.

Unfavorable weather caused the cancellation of an outdoor picnic, but a crowd, mostly of women, filled the Carroll county courthouse to hear the independent candidate open her fight against Mrs. McCormick and James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic nominee.

Points to Dry Plank.

Mrs. O'Neill said the Illinois Republicans who supported Mrs. McCormick have ignored the plank in the national party platform which said, "We reaffirm our position in favor of the 18th amendment and stand for efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder."

She said the Chicago city hall group headed by Bernard Snow, Republican county chairman of Cook county, has succeeded in getting a wet plank inserted in the Republican state platform by ignoring a vigorous protest she had endeavored to lay before the state convention. She asserted that the protest would have been more vigorous if gag rule had not been adopted by the "gangster bosses" which were in control at the convention.

Mrs. O'Neill flayed the Republican leaders for a "lack of leadership" and said that in their rush to effect an alliance with the "corrupt political forces of the state, dominated by the so-called city hall group, they have forgotten their principles; yes, even their Republicanism." The candidate said the party leaders had betrayed their own constituency in trying to pledge candidates nominated in the spring primary to take a different course from that which they took to obtain their nominations.

Mrs. O'Neill assailed Mrs. McCormick for her decision to abide by the outcome of the prohibition referendum, after she had said in the primary "I am dry." She said Mrs. McCormick had repudiated her campaign pledge and had left the dry constituency without any candidate. The state prohibition referendum was described by Mrs. O'Neill as an issue designed to confuse the voters, and she said she regarded it as not a bona fide submission of the liquor question to the people. She said it did not originate in an "honest place or for an honest purpose," and was formulated in such a manner that would insure a wet result.

For "Real" Referendum.

Mrs. O'Neill stated that she would favor a "real referendum, an honest referendum with a just and square statement of the issue," so that the people would know what they are voting on. She added, however, that such a referendum would have to be legal in form and assured of definite legal consequences, which requirements she said the present referendum does not meet.

LEWIS BLAMES FARMERS' WOES ON PROHIBITION

Assails Republicans on Tariff and Taxes.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Prohibition was declared one of the underlying causes of the farm problem today by James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for senator. Dwelling upon hypocrisy of the wet and dry issue, he told Egyptian audiences that the farmer is one of the greatest victims of professional drys who roll their eyes in sanctimony and in the market places shout "Nullifiers" at the modificationists, but in private take a snort in the pantry when no one is looking.

"The saloon has gone and good riddance, Mr. Lewis argued, but in its place the druggist has become bartender, speakeasies and moon joints far more numerous than were the dramshops of pre-Volstead days, while the cost of building new jails and of enforcement has loaded the farmer with taxes, as every one else, until he is bowlegged from the burden of "the noble experiment."

Wet Industrial Areas.

Mr. Lewis started his day's descent upon Egypt at Vandalia, in the heart of one of the dryest congressional districts in the state, and he finished at the tricities in one of the wettest industrial areas.

Wherever he talked, in the dry regions and wet alike, his onslaught upon prohibition got applause from audiences that have a reputation for generally sitting on their hands. Speaking at Vandalia in the old state capitol where Lincoln sat in the legislature and once jumped out of a second story window, the legend is, to break a quorum, Mr. Lewis waded into the matter of phariseeism on the liquor question.

"Because we are for a return to the principles on which our government was founded and our constitution was written," he said, "they call us nullifiers. It's an unctuous, mouthfilling word that rolls like a lollypop on their tongues—nullifiers. Yes, they called George Washington a nullifier, and Abraham Lincoln a nullifier—it's the red herring word they always try to draw across the trail."

Those Sanctimonious Faces.

"You folks know the way it is with many of them, pulling sanctimonious faces as they talk and vote for prohibition, then furtively looking over their shoulders to see no one is watching and speeding off to hidden places where a little digging down will bring a little something for consolation."

The tariff and "Republican kings and princes of the east," who still are talking about protection for "infant industries," were being scorched by Mr. Lewis, when an episode occurred that sent the Vandalians into gurgles of enjoyment. A matron carrying a baby appeared in the doorway. There were no seats, but Mr. Lewis broke off in the middle of his sandblast to invite the woman to a chair behind the railing. "That's the kind of infant industries I like to protect," he said, as the woman took her seat while the babe let out a howl in three keys. Mr. Lewis told a story which on the trip is proving a sure fire hit with audiences.

"A man was making a speech," he said, "and he stated 'if I had my way I'd take all the wine and beer in the country and dump it into the deep, deep, sea.' A man in the audience yelled out, 'What are you, a prohibitionist?' The speaker replied, 'No, my friend, I'm a deep sea diver.'

Has Horror of Saloon.

"I don't drink anything," continued Mr. Lewis. "I have a horror of the old time saloon: it could never exist today, for the theory of the saloon as a sort of club has been wiped out by changes in living conditions, the advance of the automobile, hard roads and other advances affecting America's social life, but you folks all know how it is. Nowadays we've got a saloon on every corner—the drug store.

"About ten years ago the farmer began to go down. This was when the Democrats and Roosevelt Republicans were displaced in government by the reactionary and Tory policies of the eastern enemies of the west. For ten years the farm family has cried out for relief, and after ten years of promise they have only a ring of boards ringed around in confusing circles. The value of your land has been going down, the price of your products has been falling. But taxes have been going up. You have had to pay 500 millions to federal government in the enforcement of national prohibition. This cost is pushed back by indirect taxes, for a manufacturer after paying his taxes adds it to the price of his goods, and the buyer pays.

"And $55,000,000 more is then spent to build larger jails, which under prohibition they used to say would all be closed up, and for more enforcement officials and peace officers. Then the President is reported as saying, 'We've got to look the matter in the face.'

"Then he tells us that 68,866 persons were arrested in one year, jails filled to overflowing, husbands and fathers thrown into jail for possessing a spoonful of liquor, a man thrown in by the Jones law for five years for having drank of his coffee pot brew, to catch disease from the inhumane overcrowding murdered by government for perhaps possessing one small bottle.

"All these costs have come back upon the farmer as well as upon the inhabitants of the cities, and I want to show how this thing, falsely called prohibition, is one of the economic blights which have brought agriculture down to where it is.

"Under the law the citizen farmer and townsman is made a criminal if either profit from the grain they produce if they would produce the liquors necessary for medicinal, industrial, and mechanical uses allowed by law. The big buyer is protected, but for the smaller citizen, caught with a spoonful, five years in jail and a $10,000 fine, marked for life as a criminal."

SCHOOL CHILDREN TAUGHT TO VOTE

In 175 Schools

Students in 175 Cook county schools went to the polls yesterday to elect officers to the achievement clubs. All pupils in the fifth grade and above, who are members of the clubs, cast votes for their candidates to fill four offices for the 1930-31 school year. Achievement club members acquire honors by employing their leisure time out of school on worthwhile home projects. Credits are given for the extra curricular work. Following the elections the new officers were installed, committees appointed, and the program for the year outlined. The election was supervised by Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools.

GERMANY PLANS CONSCRIPTLABOR, NO MORE DOLES

Announce New Program to End Crisis Today.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept 26.—The conscription of labor probably will replace the system of unemployment doles in the government's new program of financial reforms, and this will be only one of several innovations to which recourse will be taken in a final attempt to prevent the collapse of Germany's financial structure. The new program, which has been secretly discussed for the last three days, will be made public tomorrow.

If the forced labor scheme can be put into operation, it will relieve the government of the tremendous sums now paid to jobless men and women. It is hoped the emergency work thus provided will contribute to improvement of the nation's economy.

Plan Ten Per Cent Wage Cuts.

The government's plans include also an increase in the number of indirect taxes in the move to reduce direct imposts. Civil service employés will be asked to accept a 10 per cent salary cut. In keeping with its scheme for cuts in production costs and retail prices, the government intends to reach an agreement with the trade unions providing for a reduction of 10 per cent in wages.

The realization that it is confronted with the imperative need of adopting drastic immediate measures to protect the solvency of the nation has brought the Bruening government to decide to inform the reichstag parties that for the time being the question of safeguarding the nation's financial integrity transcends in urgency all other issues and that it proposes to allow them to choose between national duty and party expedients.

$200,000,000 Budget Deficit.

An indication that the government will be forced to exhaust every available source for new revenues without imperiling the nation's economy is given in unofficial references to the steady decline in the financial condition of the various states, communes, and municipalities. With the fiscal year still six months to run, the budget income already is $200,000,000 behind and a continued slump in revenues keeps this deficit increasing.

Silent on Hitler Threats.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Undeterred by the revolutionary utterances yesterday of the Fascist leader, Adolf Hitler, and their effect on the country, neither President von Hindenburg nor Chancellor Bruening could be prevailed on today to break their silence regarding the potentialities of the Hitler program.

In government circles it was deemed their silence meant they felt it inopportune to make a statement which might be considered as an attempt to influence a pending decision of the attorney general whether to indict the Fascist generalissimo for treason. Others said any form of government utterance would give Herr Hitler's fiery oratory before the Leipzig court an importance it did not deserve.

Hints at Dictatorship.

If Chancellor Bruening strikes at Herr Hitler at all the blow may fall tomorrow, when the chancellor intends to issue a proclamation embodying the results of the cabinet's persistent efforts of the last 48 hours to solve Germany's economic and political crisis and to ask the nation's support thereof.

Should parliament refuse to indorse the government program, persons close to Dr. Bruening said he would find some way of putting his policies through without the assistance of the reichstag. Just what card the chancellor had up his sleeve he would not divulge, but he let it be known he considered it his duty not to yield to the group of disgruntled ones swept into the reichstag in Germany's hour of economic depression. In other words, Dr. Bruening seems determined to be a dictator in fact, if not in name, if necessary.

FIFTY WITNESSES CALLED IN INDIANA POISON DEATH CASE

Martinsville, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The state has called fifty witnesses in the grand jury investigation here into the death of Mrs. Carrie Thelma Pryor and the charge may be formally placed against her husband, Ernest Pryor, of having murdered her. The grand jury was convened today.

It is alleged to be the outcome of a domestic tangle that went on on the backstirs of a sanitarium here the past summer. The prediction is made tonight that the jury will charge Pryor, 32, with poisoning his wife, 22, and that it may charge her first cousin, Miss Elsie Ham, age 21, with complicity.

Mrs. Pryor employed as were her husband and cousin, as servants at the sanitarium, died Aug. 19. Eleven days before her husband took out a $3,000 life insurance policy on her. The insurance company refused to pay, and when the woman's body was exhumed this week, it was found by the state chemist to contain arsenic.

Pryor was arrested. He denies he murdered his wife. "I didn't do it," he reiterates.

But William G. Bray, youthful county prosecutor, asserts he has gathered the evidence that will convict Pryor.

Hearing she was wanted for grand jury testimony, Miss Ham came voluntarily today from her home at Brazil, Ind.

Mrs. Pryor, when a girl at Gosport, Ind., was a star on the high school basketball team. Pryor was also a basketball star and when he went to work at Gosport his courtship of Miss Thelma Goes, later his wife, was rapid. The Pryors have a three year old boy who has been living with his grandmother, Mrs. Alva Sink, at Gosport.

Last winter Miss Ham came to visit her cousin. Pryor, authorities say, got her a job, and despite Mrs. Pryor's protests she continued to live at the Pryor home.

Lindbergh Light Halted for Hour; Gears Blamed

The Lindbergh light on top of the Palmolive building stopped its revolutions last night and for more than an hour was focused southeastward across the lake. Chief Engineer Flint said the gears of the light had stuck, but that he didn't know why.

LEAGUE POWERS DELAY ARMS CUT TALK UNTIL 1932

British Fail to Iron Out Franco-Italian Ship Row

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 26.—Before his departure for London today, Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, called on Sig. Scialoja of Italy and Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, and made a last desperate appeal for a Franco-Italian naval agreement in order not to jeopardize the London tripartite treaty and enable the league of nations to proceed with its disarmament conference.

In the face of the pessimistic attitude of the Paris and Rome delegates in response to the British attempt at intervention and conciliation, the league's disarmament commission this evening tacitly postponed the full dress disarmament conference until 1932 at the earliest, although a powerful group of states, led by Count von Bernstorff of Germany, fought bitterly for holding it next year.

Want Covenant Amended.

The delegates of several nations expressed themselves as anxious to have a disarmament parley called for as early as possible in 1931 in order that the league covenant may be made to harmonize more closely with the Kellogg pact. The preparatory disarmament commission will begin its work on Nov. 3.

But in view of the Italo-French naval deadlock, the assembly's disarmament commission voted against recommending a disarmament conference for next year, and instead adopted an innocuous resolution urging the summoning of a conference as soon as possible.

The vote on the resolution revealed that Italy lined up solidly with Germany, Austria, Hungary, Ireland, China, Spain, and several Scandinavian states against Great Britain, France, Japan, the little entente, some of the dominions, and several South American republics.

Italy Blames France.

Sig. Scialoja told Mr. Henderson that the Fascist government can do nothing in the matter of the Mediterranean naval ratios until France makes the next move, as the status of the pourparlers is that the Paris government rejected Premier Mussolini's latest sacrifices and fell back on its original London position of demanding overwhelming naval superiority over Italy.

M. Briand, in discussing the situation with Mr. Henderson, minimized the importance of the collapse of the negotiations and expressed the hope that a means would be found to bridge the difficulties, admitting that the discussions had been embittered by extraneous subjects. He also foresaw a long and arduous task in reconciling the viewpoints of the two countries.

Count von Bernstorff announced that he would abstain from the voting unless a definite date was set for the conference, and Gen. de Marinis supported the Reich position.

Leon Jouhaux of France demanded the control of the private manufacture of arms as a preliminary disarmament project, asserting that munitions factories are flooding the world with lethal implements and the spirit of disarmament is thereby endangered.

2 A. M. NOT TOO LATE FOR GIRLS, JUDGE DECIDES

Circuit Judge Lynch yesterday ruled that there is nothing wrong in a fifteen year old girl going to dances and staying out as late as 2 a. m. He voiced his opinions while denying the plea of James F. Seguin, an insurance company official, to be given the custody of his daughter, Margaret, on the grounds that the girl's mother is not a suitable guardian.

Mrs. Margaret Seguin, 6253 Blackstone avenue, was given the custody of the girl when she won a divorce from Seguin in April, 1928. Seguin declared he wanted to place his daughter in a boarding school after his investigators had testified Margaret remained out late at night.

"Girls in this day do that," the judge commented. "I have no children of my own, but my nieces come home at that time and they are good girls."

TAKES HIS LIFE AT COLLEGE BY SLASHING ARMS

Illinois Man Found Dead on Campus.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Perry Chatfield Davidson, 30, son of Bruce A. Davidson, wealthy Chicago merchant, who was to have received his degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in a few days, was found dead, a suicide, this afternoon, on the edge of the Tech soccer field, almost under the windows of his room in Seymour hall. He had been missing since yesterday afternoon.

Apparently despondent over his future, the young man early last night slashed both arms at the elbows, severing veins, staggered into the vacant lot behind the dormitory, and collapsed in a patch of high grass and weeds, where two mushroom pickers chanced to discover his body this afternoon. Cambridge police advanced a murder theory on their first inspection of the scene, until Richard F. Wilder, one of Davidson's friends, came to report him missing and search of the dead student's room revealed two notes, one to Wilder and the other to Davidson's wife, the former Betty Blouke, a graduate of the Emerson School of Oratory, to whom he was married five years ago.

Going to "Sign Off."

In the note to Wilder, Davidson said he was going to "sign off," as he had no more "will or future."

Wilder told the police that his chum had appeared downhearted recently, but that he had been offered a position with his father and had plenty of money. Davidson left him about 7 o'clock last night, Wilder said, saying he was going to finish up the thesis which would bring him his degree.

Assistant Medical Examiner Donald E. Currier said an autopsy showed Davidson had slashed his arms with a razor and had died about 9:30 last night. Further examination of the field where the body was found revealed a paper cover for a razor blade, Davidson's watch, hat and coat.

RELATIVES SEE NO MOTIVE.

Relatives in Chicago of Perry C. Davidson, student whose body was found yesterday in Cambridge, Mass., were unable to explain his death.

Davidson was at his home in Marseilles, Ill., Saturday, they said, and seemed in good mental condition then. A brother-in-law suggested that a Boston, Mass., train accident, in which Davidson saw the mangled bodies of several persons, might have brought on a fit of depression which resulted in suicide. He was happily married and had no financial or other worries, they said.

Mrs. Davidson is prostrated, relatives said. She is the former Betty Blouke, who was married to Davidson here in 1925 when she was a sophomore. Davidson's father, former president of a paper box company subsidiary of the National Biscuit company, lived in Chicago until his retirement a few years ago, when he moved to Marseilles.

Pantages Gets New Trial in Eunice Pringle Case

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Appellate court granted the appeal of Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, from his conviction and prison sentence for assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer, today, ordering a new trial. Pantages, who was sentenced to one to fifty years in prison, has been at liberty under $100,000 bail.

The Appellate court's decision was made upon the elderly theater magnate's appeal from the Superior court's refusal to grant a new trial. The higher court reversed the lower court's findings.

Heywood Broun Freed for Leading Strike Parade

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Heywood Broun, writer and Socialist candidate for congress from a New York district, was arrested today on a charge of disorderly conduct when he attempted to lead a parade of 300 striking dressmakers down 5th avenue. Magistrate Ford dismissed the charge after Broun testified 600 other pickets were allowed to pass without interference and then the section he was heading was stopped.

RECOGNIZING BOLSHEVIA.

Whether or not the excitement in this country and Europe over wheat dumping by the soviet autocracy proves to be exaggerated or mistaken in its assumptions, it will take the wind out of the sails of the good ship Recognition, at least for the time being. There is no general demand for the resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia, such demand as exists being confined to a few business or financial interests which are lured by a mirage of big profits and to such of the radicals or liberal minded as admire the bolshevik régime as at least "an experiment of noble motive." Among the public generally where there is not complete indifference there is instinctive dislike of clasping official hands with the communist tyranny. But the proposal for recognition will revive and in the meanwhile it is worthwhile discouraging it by occasional discussion of the realities.

To this end an article in the current issue of the quarterly magazine Foreign Affairs is profitable reading. It is by Paul Sheffer, for years correspondent at Moscow of the Berliner Tageblatt and reckoned one of the most judicious and well informed of students of Russian affairs. As an outline of soviet doctrine and policy in foreign relations in respect to deliberate and persistent mischief making it is ecpecially timely.

Mr. Sheffer recalls that soon after the war, in 1920 and 1922, there was much discussion in Europe of the possibilities of friendly diplomatic "advances" toward the soviet. There was much talk of "taking the world view," of laying less stress upon differences, of taking account of economic facts and "considerations of common sense." The German republic, with the cold shoulder of western Europe turned toward it, executed the treaty of Rapallo. In 1924 France, Italy and England raced each other to recognize Moscow first. The soviet government accepted these favors complacently and proceeded to capitalize what advantages they conveyed, with an unflinching cynicism. A year before de facto relations with Great Britain became de jure the British government had sent what amounted to or at least resembled an ultimatum because of revolutionary propaganda directed from Moscow in India and Afghanistan. Yet in 1924, although the first Labor government had recognized the Russian régime, Stalin at Tiflis was outlining a plan for the Communist Internationale for revolutionary agitation in China and India, a flank attack on capitalism. This campaign was vigorously carried out in China until in the spring of 1927 the right wing of the Nationalist party under the present Nanking leaders, Chiang Kai-shek and the Soongs, threw the bolsheviks out of the party. In England in 1926 the abortive general strike and later the protracted miners' strike were assisted by Russian funds. In 1923 when the French took the Ruhr Moscow intensified its activities, fostering communist outbreaks in the occupied region and trying to increase the strain and friction between the French and Germans. The German government kept protesting privately to Moscow against Russian spies of the worst type, one of whom, a cheka or soviet secret police emissary, Mr. Sheffer says, made two attempts on the life of Gen. von Seeckt, the commander of the reichswehr.

The record of persistent duplicity and mischief making in countries with which Moscow had formal friendly relations is too long for summary, but it is a conclusive answer to the argument for diplomatic recognition which assumes that it would improve our relations with Moscow. Russian intrigue is actively at work in Germany, although the German republic has recognized the soviet republic and their relations are supposed to be those of friendship. Moscow would like to create chaos in Europe, in all capitalistic countries, and its fanatic dream of world communism justifies any means.

Investment in Russia will be safe just as long as the bolshevik autocracy finds it expedient to recognize its rights and not half a minute longer. The soviet will spend in America what it finds expedient for one reason or another in its peculiar mentality to spend here and not a kopeck more. "Profits within limits," writes Mr. Sheffer, "are still possible in Russia, and a few of the specialized industries of certain countries have made enormous profits there. . . . It is interesting to note, however, that though Germany sends more goods than any other into soviet Russia, yet these exports represent only 3 per cent of her total export trade, as against 12 to 15 per cent before the war; and this 3 per cent is less than German exports to Denmark and Austria. The fact is that present conditions in soviet Russia make her an interesting subject for speculation and discussion, but that from a national business point of view she is a client of very uncertain value for Europe."

But aside from the fallacies of the alleged realistic argument for recognition there is a consideration against it of great international moment which THE TRIBUNE has urged repeatedly. Upon this phase of the question Mr. Sheffer concludes that foreign capital produces no such favorable effect upon Russian opinion or bolshevik policy as was hoped for, that "any contract which a 'capitalist' makes with the soviet government is looked upon in 'class conscious' Moscow as an obeisance on the part of the capitalist before the all-conquering proletariat." This would be especially true in the case of the United States and the bolshevik dictatorship would take our change of front not only as a confession of economic weakness and capitalist greed but as a certificate of freedom to go on with their methods of international intrigue and trouble making. It would also be regarded as a personal victory of Stalin's, at a moment when everything is at stake for him.

But its effect in Russia and upon Russian diplomatic tactics is by no means its only effect or even its most important. It would notably increase the prestige of bolshevism among the masses of Europe and wherever in the world there are unstable conditions. If we wish the breakdown of the economic, social and political structure of Europe, we can contribute to it substantially by offering the right hand of official fellowship to Stalin and the group of ruthless fanatics who rule the inert millions of the Russian people by the might of the red army, the terror of the secret police and the influence of an unchecked propaganda. "Not since the days of President Wilson," says Mr. Sheffer, "has America been confronted with a decision fraught with such consequences for Europe as is involved in this question of soviet recognition. If America decides upon recognition, it may hereafter be necessary in history to say that in 1931 she made her deliberate choice between bourgeois Europe and the soviets."

She will not.

ODD CONGERIES CALLED A COURT.

Mr. Kellogg, as was expected, has been elected a judge of the world court by the league of nations for his own full term of nine years. Three places in the election of the full bench went to Latin America, the distinguished Antonio Sanchez de Bustamente of Cuba being reëlected and Salvador and Colombia getting the other two. Other judges were taken from Japan, China, Spain, Italy, Holland, France, Great Britain, Rumania, Belgium, Poland, and Germany. Deputy judges were elected from Austria, Jugo-Slavia, Finland, and Portugal.

Almost the full variety of the world sits on the bench. It lacks a touch of native Africa and of Arabic culture and of aboriginal America, but these missing variations would not add anything particularly distinctive to the court. A Hottentot jurist would not stand further away from Sir Cecil Hurst than does Wang Chung-Hui of China. If the British and the Chinese jurists can join their traditions, their culture, scholarship, philosophy, inclinations and instincts and look eye to eye upon the world as a thing of habit and law the Hottentot would have little difficulty in seeing the same page through the same glass and an Arab scholar would have less.

Some of the nations furnishing judges have developed the system of representative government, the temperament and habits which sustain it, the ideas and discipline which make it possible and the laws required by it. Others are feebly and uncertainly experimenting with that system and still others have instincts utterly against it. The variety represented on the court, if expressed in terms of years, would separate one judge from another by at least two or three thousand years. One may be a judge in a Roman court, another in a medieval, and a third in a modern. The varieties of language are the least expression of these separations. Frank B. Kellogg, Wang Chung-Hui and Demetre Negulesco have no common derivation this side of the Garden of Eden, but the idea of the court is that these congeries of diverse traditions, breeds, instincts and philosophies may produce that imponderable so charged with everything they lack in common—organic law.

It is to be suspected that enthusiasts who find an analogy for the world court of associated nations in the Supreme court of the United States are fooling some one, possibly themselves.

A TIPOFF.

When a secret police list, of which there were only four copies in existence, was found under the pillow of a gangster, a good deal of light was thrown on the failure of the recent police roundup of "public enemies." But even more interesting is its revelation, significant though not surprising, of the friendly ties existing between our sworn defenders and the malefactors from whom we employ them to defend us. We know by this time that the influence of the underworld infiltrates the police system and reaches even higher. But concrete examples like this one are nevertheless illuminating.

We suggest that the detective talents of the police could not be better employed than in discovering who was responsible for putting the list into the hands of the Capone gang. We trust Chief Alcock's orders to that end will be taken seriously.

Editorial of the Day

WHY GANGS RULE CITIES.

[State Journal, Lansing, Mich.]

The revelations of the alliance between crime and politics, as disclosed from the safety deposit box of the murdered Chicago gangster, Zuta, are not more worthy of comment than the marked way in which papers in Michigan and over the country almost with one voice have exclaimed, "We suspected as much!"

The citizens of Chicago, be they humble or exalted in position, do not desire the situation which now oppresses them in their city. The popular attitude in time of political uprising and in time of apparent political slothfulness is not materially different. The vast majority of people are persistent in their desire for good government. The trouble is that the form of government which obtains in great cities, and even in smaller ones, does not serve the ends of good government. Popular government in the great cities, and even in the secondary cities, has broken down and become of no effect because, as the plan of the city government is set up, it is impossible for democracy, in any true sense of the word, to function. In nine elections out of ten the voter does not have sufficient information to be of any help whatsoever in his voting. As a result many do not vote, and those who do vote do so blindly.

People, pretty much everywhere, are loth to give up a scheme which calls for numerous elective offices. There is a notion that freedom lies that way—but it doesn't. Multiplicity of offices and divided responsibility are a scheme that lends itself beautifully to bad politics and schemes of alliance between bad politics and gangsters.

A FAMILY CUSTOM.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

DISEASE FROM ANIMALS.

MAN gets some of his diseases from the lower animals and, in turn, supplies them with some of his diseases. This is true of some communicable constitutional diseases, such as tuberculosis, undulant fever, and deerfly fever, and also of some skin diseases—for instance, some kinds of mange. This article, however, deals principally with some of the worms which pass from the lower animals to man.

The most important of these is trichinosis. This worm man gets from eating raw or only partially cooked pork, derived from infected pigs. However, trichina are occasionally found in cats, rats and cows. A close observer can see the trichina cysts in infected meat. The larvae parasites in these cysts are killed by cooking. When infected raw meat is eaten the young worms leave the digestive tract and bore into the muscles, causing a fever which may be mistaken for rheumatic fever, typhoid fever, meningitis, dengue, infantile paralysis, or the first stage of smallpox. Trichinosis is frequently fatal.

Creeping eruption is due to a worm which lives in the dog. The larvae of this parasite bore around under the skin, causing a very painful skin disease. It is supposed to be contracted by walking around barefoot, or lying on the sand on bathing beaches. One man became infected by pulling off his shirt and lying on the ground under his automobile making repairs.

Man picks up most of his tapeworms by eating raw or undercooked meats. Solium infestation results from eating poorly cooked infected pork. Saginata infestation results from eating undercooked, infested beef. The broad tapeworm gets into man through raw or underdone fish meat.

Man gets one or more tapeworms from rats. Dogs supply him with at least one variety and probably more. The hydatid cyst, which may be a very serious disorder in man, is one stage of a dog tapeworm.

There are many who think that the common round worm is derived from the hog, but the tendency of opinion is in another direction now. But there are varieties of less important round worms which come to man occasionally from animals and fowls.

SOUR FOODS NOT CAUSE.

I. M. P. writes: I am suffering with an acid stomach or gastritis. I would like to have a list of foods and combinations of foods that are alkaline. Also, a similar list of acid foods, that I may avoid them.

REPLY.

You have an excellent method of knowing the acid foods without taxing your memory. They are sour. Among them are: Sauerkraut, rhubarb, cranberries, unripe fruit, sour milks, meats and vegetables served or cooked in vinegar, all salad dressings made with vinegar, sour beverages such as lemonade and fruit juice combinations.

Count others as alkaline, at least in some degree. Soda biscuits and greens cooked with soda top the list.

But this is not the information you want, however much you think so. Eating sour foods is not the cause of sour stomach.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

P. L. K. writes:

1. What is the difference between an anemic person and one with low blood pressure?

2. Is either of these ailments dangerous?

REPLY.

1. What is the similarity? An anemic person lacks coloring matter in his blood. Low blood pressure has to do with the blood vessel wall and the heart muscle, but not with the quality of the blood.

2. Pernicious anemia is very dangerous. Other forms of anemia are not. Low blood pressure is not dangerous.

SYMPTOMS OF GOITER.

1. What are the symptoms of goiter?

2. Do the cords of the throat feel strained and the voice become hoarse?

3. How may I secure your booklet on heart disease?

REPLY.

1. Big neck, enlargement of the neck, rapid and nervous pulse, tremor of the hands, general nervousness—these are some of the symptoms.

2. No.

3. Send ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

NO COLLECTION HERE.

Bridgman, Mich., Sept. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I owe an Illinois doctor a balance of $10, which I promise and intend to pay when able. I have no personal property and only $100 monthly government compensation. Disability prevents my working. I have a wife and baby. A collection agency is attempting to collect. What can they do? J. TEMPORARY REPAIRS MADE.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—We wish to report a bad condition in the pavement right in front of our office on South Rockwell street, which seems to be getting worse right along, but no repairs are made. We maintain trucks and automobiles, and pay vehicle and license taxes of all kinds, and we believe in all due respect that we should get some consideration regarding this matter. P. M. D. Co.

Report is made that a temporary repair has been made to the asphalt pavement at the address complained of. Permanent repair will be made when our vehicle tax forces are operating in the Twelfth ward in this vicinity. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

REDEMPTION PERIOD.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A. bought a house subject to first and second mortgages. The deed to the property was clear, indicating no mortgages. The buyer signed no notes or mortgage contracts. 1. In case of default of payments can his salary be garnisheed? 2. If not, how long can he retain possession of the house? G. A. C.

1. No. 2. If he is occupying it as a homestead and is keeping it up in reasonable condition, the court will probably permit him to occupy it during the 15 months redemption period from a foreclosure sale. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

AGAINST THAT TIME.

We take a morning walk among the stones
With little meager lines engraved on each;
The sunlight on smooth flowered counterpanes
Spills high above the quiet sleepers' reach.

Sing with me, sing! Some day our mouths shall be Fast-sealed with sunless silence, side by side;
Oh, drench our days with radiance and song!
So may our dreams still glimmer with that tide.

ADELAIDE P. LOVE.

IF OUR TENURE in these parts were not nearing its end, we all would have a lot of fun in the horse vs. surplus farms products question stirred up by a treatise issued by Wayne Dinsmore of the Horse Association of America, an epitome of which appeared recently.

"Tractor Dan," "Former Farmer," and others take exception. Apparently the combatants are not quite on common ground in their hypothesis, but let's hear "Tractor Dan":

"It was entirely by accident that I today ran into a set of cost figures comparing plowing costs of horses and tractors. The U. S. Department of Agriculture says it costs 25 cents an hour to run a horse for the actual time he works. Figuring that five horses pull a two bottom plow, driven by one man, at an average speed for a ten hour day, they will plow approximately 6 acres, and, counting man labor, the cost of plowing will be $3 per acre.

"On the other hand, a four plow tractor, operating with 15 cent kerosene, and that figure is high, will plow 18½ acres at a cost of 55 cents per acre. And even if the farmer is to use one of the small general purpose tractors and pull only two bottoms on his plow, he'll plow 11.3 acres in ten hours at a cost of 69 cents per acre.

"Perhaps there is a surplus, but what price no surplus with such high priced boarders as horses. The idea is, why not feed surplus to something to bring return—dairy cattle, hogs, beef cattle, chickens, or what have you?"

"Former Farmer's" contribution on the subject in part: "I used to raise my own food and sell my surplus in competition with other farmers. And there are about 4,500,000 like me engaged in building, selling, or servicing substitutes for horses. Not only are the substitutes better and cheaper, but we have quit competing with farmers and buy food and clothing for 22,000,000 people from those now farming."

What a lot of fun it would be to continue this subject, also absorbing some interesting facts, but as we say, the advent of R. H. L. is near.

PERHAPS HE WAS RIGHT.

There's sadness in the going of the birds,
The murmur of the leaves in autumn corn,
The stubble brown in fields so lately shorn,
And dead asters by the wayside quite forlorn.
Like pleasures, joyous things, and fond hopes flown,
Somehow it all seems quite a part of me;
The faded leaf just now across my pathway blown—
A golden dream that once hung laughing on a tree.

THE RESTLESS COUCH

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 27, 1914.

PARIS.—Gen. Gallieni, military governor of Paris, announced that the German attack along the whole battle front had been repulsed. He said the ground gained by the Germans in their raid of Sept. 25 on the French left had been recovered and that the French still held the heights of the Meuse. The French are steadily gaining ground on the left and continuing their turning movement. In the neighborhood of St. Quentin, in the northwest, and near St. Mihiel, below Verdun on the Meuse, there has been savage fighting. Dead and wounded litter the ground.

BERLIN.—A war office bulletin states that operations on the extreme German right have led to fresh engagements which have not yet been ended. On the center there has been no change. Fort Camp de Romains at St. Mihiel has been taken by the Germans. The German troops have passed the Meuse.

CHICAGO.—County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer swept the boards clean for the woman suffrage forces in Cook county by deciding that they can vote for candidates for county commissioners in all the country towns in Cook. Judge Owens had previously ruled that women could vote for such candidates in the city of Chicago and the town of Cicero.

LONDON.—The German foreign office enters a vigorous denial to the report that Lord Salisbury has verbally informed the German ambassador in London that Great Britain will follow the lead of the United States in rejecting the kaiser's proposals that instigators of the anti-foreign outrages in China be surrendered before any peace moves are made. Meantime Shanghai rumors are again rife that the Chinese will try to recapture their capital. Rioting has been renewed at Canton and villages and churches have been destroyed in other sections of south China.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo.—The first hostile demonstration toward Col. Roosevelt on his tour of the northwest occurred at Victor, when an attempt was made by toughs who carried a Bryan banner to strike him down as he walked from the hall where he had made a speech to go to his train. One man hit him on the chest with a piece of scantling six feet long and another aimed a blow at his head. Rough Riders rallied to his rescue and a free for all fight followed, the colonel cheering on the combatants. As his train pulled out a volley of eggs, lemons, and stones rattled against his car.

NEW YORK.—Senator Hanna had a long conference with J. Pierpont Morgan, who is identified prominently with the railroads controlling the anthracite coal fields, concerning conditions in the Pennsylvania mines, and it was currently reported that the conference would soon bear fruit by producing an end of the strike on a compromise basis.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 27, 1865.

INDIANAPOLIS.—Gen. Grant arrived here at noon by special train from Cincinnati. He and his party were met at the depot by Gov. Morton and staff, Gens. Hovey, Chapman, Pitcher, Stevens, and their staffs, and the 9th regiment, Hancock's corps. The city fire department turned out in full force. A long line of carriages containing our leading citizens brought up the rear. An immense crowd of people were assembled in the square to welcome the general. After prolonged cheering he said: "Fellow citizens, ladies and gentlemen: You are well aware that I am not in the habit of making speeches, and I am sure you would not want me to begin it before so large a number of people as I see before me today. I simply say that I thank you kindly for this handsome reception and will take my seat." Loud cheers greeted him as he sat down. Gov. Morton remarked that if Gen. Grant persisted in his habit of not making speeches he would never say a foolish thing.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Washington special says an order has been issued for dismantling all the forts around the capital.

THE DRYS AND MRS. M'CORMICK.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—On Sept. 24 you published a letter from the Rev. Almer Pennewell, pastor of the Ravenswood Methodist church, which letter contains several misstatements of facts that I beg leave to correct.

1. Mr. Pennewell says the referendum is "a deliberate attempt by wet Republicans to deceive the voters of Illinois." If so, why does the W. C. T. U. urge its members to vote in this referendum, and if it is a "wet referendum" why does the dripping wet Democratic platform condemn the referendum?

2. Mr. Pennewell says Mrs. McCormick "ran as a dry in the primary and won her nomination by her appeal to the drys." The statement that Mrs. McCormick won her nomination on the dry issue is becoming a familiar fiction. This misstatement was first made by George B. Safford, secretary of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league. As a matter of fact, Mrs. McCormick's nomination was not won on the dry issue, as there was no such issue between her and Senator Deneen in the spring primary. Also as a matter of fact, Mr. Safford, as head of the Anti-Saloon league in this state, made speeches before the spring primary urging the defeat of Mrs. McCormick. Now he and his friends say the Anti-Saloon league people were "betrayed." It looks more as if they were trying to betray the public with relation to their own position.

Mrs. McCormick is a dry politically, publicly, and privately. Her only offense, therefore, in the eyes of Mr. Pennewell and others of the Anti-Saloon league is that she is willing to abide by the result of the referendum in Illinois next November. Isn't that a virtue rather than a crime? Lincoln said in one of his debates with Stephen Douglas, "The people's will is the ultimate law for all." FREDERICK A. SMITH.

INGRATITUDE TO M'CARTHY.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A new definition for the word ingratitude: Treatment received by Joe McCarthy from Wrigley after all he had done in five years for the Cubs and the baseball world in general. Attendance figures attest it.

TO PREVENT MURDERS.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—The Addison Heights Betterment and Protective association, called in meeting to discuss the brutal murder of Mrs. Mary Jakubiak, 3654 Newcastle avenue, our neighbor, adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, a terrible murder has been committed in our neighborhood which has deprived four children of the care of their mother, and has caused a loss to our community of a hard working woman who had assumed the rôle of wage earner for her family because of the inability of her husband to get work, and

"Whereas, we, the residents of this community, feel that it is possible that the life of this unfortunate woman might have been spared if our streets had been properly lighted, or if she had been able to obtain street car or feeder bus service at that hour of the morning, or if she had been given proper police protection.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we earnestly beseech our city officials to find ways and means to adequately light our streets, to give us proper police protection, and additional transportation in the early hours of the morning.

ADDISON HEIGHTS BETTERMENT AND PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

I. N. G. SHOOTING.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Criticism of the shooting ability of this year's National Guard rifle team by Gen. Black in today's TRIBUNE seems to be a bit out of place.

There was no man on the team who could not shoot above 270, and with two or three exceptions all could make 280. The team placed ahead of some of the best service teams in the enlisted men's team match and the A. E. F. Rumanian trophy. One member tied the winner in the Leech cup; another was one point down in the Navy cup. The Illinois N. G. team, with probably one exception, had men placed in more matches than any other National Guard team at Camp Perry.

The result of the national team match shows that the team needs more long range work. This cannot be had at our local range, except at the time of the state elimination and five days' practice before going to Camp Perry. Six hundred yards was the longest range fired in this year's elimination.

The men who take time from their business and families to go to Camp Perry do not consider their time wasted. The course of instruction in the small arms school, prior to the matches, is time well spent. The knowledge of schooling gained here and passed on to men of the National Guard will certainly improve the marksmanship ability of their respective units.

I am sure the general will receive no alibi from any team members. Class B, with a hundred teams behind us, is quite a jump for one year from a team that placed unclassified in 1929. They will be a harder team to beat next year.

A TEAM MEMBER.

IT SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN A DARK NIGHT.

S. S. HOMERIC.—[No Date.]—This is about the blackest night I've ever seen. I can see the waves, I can see the white foam parting swanlike from the ship, I can see blackness without, I know we're still a good way from the coast of France. I can hear the burr, burr, burr of the engines and the grinding of the waters' teeth behind the boat. The deck's moist, though it hasn't rained; everything's moist—it's a black, black night, a black, black night, one that makes you wonder whether hell is like this, a black, black night.

VOTERS TO HAVE HEAVY TASK IN NOV. 4 ELECTION

72 Questions on Ballot for Chicagoans.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The politicians have imposed a larger and a harder job for the 1,200,000 Chicago voters on Nov. 4 than ever before in an off year election. To perform his full duty, each voter must answer a minimum of 72 questions of candidates, policy or expense in his five minutes before the tallow candle of his canvas covered booth.

First, each voter—it is estimated that 700,000 men and 500,000 women will vote—must decide which candidates he prefers for each of the 52 offices to be filled, and then whether he is for or against each of 20 propositions. In odd senatorial districts, voters will have to select a state senator and in the Lincoln park area they will express their opinion on an additional bond issue.

Election Commissioner Harry A. Lipsky and Chief Clerk John S. Rusch conferred yesterday afternoon concerning the ballots. They decided they must have four to comply with the statutes. The big ballot, they tentatively decided, will be a yard square, or four inches longer than the big ballot of four years ago. This is necessitated by the addition of candidates for six Circuit and Superior court judgeships this year.

Parties in Senate Race.

Nine parties or groups have candidates for United States senator, and in the 28th district there is also an Independent Dry party and in the 45th district there is an Anti-Administration party.

The amendment to the state constitution permitting the legislature to revise the state taxing system is required by statute to be upon the main ballot. Therefore there will be at least 10 columns on every big ballot and 11 columns in each of two districts. In addition to those indicated the following parties will have a column each on the main sheet: Democratic, Republican, Socialist, Liberty, Anti-World Court and Anti-Foreign Entanglements, Peace and Prosperity, American National, Communist, and Independent. The politicians have made it easy for any group to get on the ballot by requiring a petition of only 1,000 names for state office or action by a convention or caucus.

Propositions on Ballot.

The propositions include referendums on amendments to the state constitution, on state laws, bond issues, and expressions of public policy.

Thursday was the last day for filing propositions to insure that they be printed upon the ballots. Some were filed with the secretary of state, others with the county clerk, and still others with the board of election commissioners. The proposals upon which the electorate will vote are:

1. An amendment to the revenue section of the state constitution. The amendment permits the legislature to classify property for purpose of taxation, adopt a state income tax, and make other changes in the present system.

2. Act of the legislature creating a state-wide system of conservation, forest preserves and public recreation grounds subject to approval by the voters. Act permits issuance of $14,000,000 in bonds, but not more than $1,400,000 in any one year and no bonds until the conservation fund has a surplus of $750,000. Bonds are to bear 4 per cent and run for 30 years. Advocates of the law claim fishing and hunting license fees will pay off the bonds and pay interest, but the act requires a tax levy to pay them, if the fees are insufficient.

For Banking Amendment

3. Amendment to state banking law giving state auditor more power in supervising banks and increasing initial capitalization of a bank from $25,000 to $50,000.

4. Two other acts of legislature relate to women jurors. One act authorizes women to serve on juries and the other requires jury commissioners to put women's names in the box for selection.

5. Three public policy questions on prohibition. The first question asks an expression on the repeal of the 18th amendment; the second concerns modification of the Volstead act to permit sale of liquor that is not in fact intoxicating; and the third has to do with the repeal of the state search and seizure act.

6. A $2,500,000 bond issue of the Cook county commissioners to supply comfort stations, water and shelter facilities in the forest preserves.

7. A public policy question asking whether the city council shall pass an ordinance requiring filtration of Chicago's water supply. Question as submitted to election commissioners makes no estimate of cost.

Bond Issue Referendum.

8. Referendum on 10 bond issues of the city totaling $20,670,000. Of this total, $3,500,000 is for a new State street bridge, $5,460,000 for completion of the Ogden avenue connection with Lincoln and Union parks, $2,700,000 for a new South Halsted street bridge, $1,000,000 for the reconstruction of existing bridges in West Chicago avenue, North Dearborn street, East Division street, West 18th street, West Grand avenue, North Halsted street, West Harrison street, West Van Buren street, and East 93d street; $500,000 for traffic lights, $2,000,000 for street lighting, $300,000 for tunnel under Illinois Central tracks in 47th street extended, 400,000 for extension of Indianapolis avenue to 100th street, $500,000 for playground equipment and construction, and $4,310,000 for the payment of public benefits on Ashland and Western avenues and La Salle street.

9. Referendum on $3,000,000 bond issue of Lincoln park commission to continue filling in lake north of Montrose avenue.

NEW YORK G. O. P. NAMES TUTTLE ON WET PLATFORM

Convention Sweeps Aside Dry Opposition.

wishers the new party boss took his place beside the chairman.

Mr. Tuttle immediately declared his acceptance and a minute later had launched upon his first campaign speech. The issue, Mr. Tuttle said, was clear cut. He summed it up in a sentence: "Are we to have a governor who is bigger than Tammany hall or not?"

Touches on State Rights.

The gubernatorial nominee made no reference to prohibition by name, but spoke of "the right of each state to its own government," and of "the rights of the people." The audience was eager for a speech on prohibition, but Mr. Tuttle already had his say on that subject when he recently resigned as federal prosecutor and urged the repeal of the prohibition law.

Tonight he sent a telegram to President Hoover asking that his resignation as federal prosecutor in New York City become effective immediately. When Mr. Tuttle resigned several days ago he had planned to remain at his post until next month.

Approval of the wet plank was one of the high spots of the day. The plank is brief and the gist of it is contained in the following paragraph:

"We favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment providing that simultaneously and as part of the new amendment a provision is adopted outlawing and forbidding everywhere in the United States the saloon system and its equivalent, the private traffic in intoxicating beverages for private profit, and, further guaranteeing federal coöperation and assistance to states which have prohibition in whole or in part."

24 Counties Vote Dry.

The platform with the exception of the anti-prohibition plank was adopted by acclamation. A separate vote was asked by the drys, who wanted to go on record as opposing it. Twenty-four counties voted dry, fifteen split and the remainder voted wet.

The platform itself was a bulky document of more than 2,500 words embracing 27 planks running fro.n "national administration" to "prohibition."

The first sentence of the platform stated that "we indorse the federal administration of President Hoover," but there was only a brief burst of applause.

Other planks touched upon state prisons, conditions in New York City [the most lengthy plank of all], water power, unemployment, labor, and even aviation.

When the convention began its final session today the militant wets so far outnumbered the drys that the proposed dry bolt was losing ground every minute. Nevertheless, the drys served notice they would seek their revenge at the polls in November and set about mapping their plans and bringing the different dry factions into accord. The wet leaders did not attach any great importance to the dry revolt, and late today Frank E. Gannett, who had been offered the dry nomination for governor on a third party ticket.

Harbord Nominates Tuttle.

Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord placed Mr. Tuttle in nomination. And his opening sentence brought wild acclaim. "In appearing before this grand jury," said Mr. Harbord, "I wish to waive immunity for what I say." The convention roared its approval of the satire at Tammany and the judicial investigations in progress in New York City.

Speaker McGinnies, the permanent chairman of the convention, was the first to address the delegates this morning. In his speech he charged Gov. Rosevelt with ignoring scandals in New York City and Albany.

The state ticket as nominated today is composed of:

Governor—Charles H. Tuttle of New York.

Lieutenant governor—Caleb H. Baumes of Newburgh.

Controller—Daniel H. Conway of Oswego.

Attorney general—Isadore Bookstein of Albany.

Both major parties in New York state now are wet and both candidates for governor stand for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Democratic leaders believe a third ticket headed by a dry will assure Gov. Roosevelt of reëlection.

SEYMOUR QUITS POST —FEARS 'NORRIS NO. 2' INQUIRY HURTS PARTY

Denver, Colo., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Victor Seymour of Lincoln, Neb., newly appointed assistant vice chairman of the Republican national senatorial campaign committee, in charge of western regional headquarters here, today telegraphed Vice Chairman Frederick Steiwer of Pendleton, Ore., that he was resigning his post. He emphasized that he was "absolutely innocent of any wrong act" in connection with the Norris senatorial controversy in Nebraska.

He said that he was resigning because of publicity attending the hearings of the Nye committee in Nebraska on the candidacies of Senator George W. Norris and George W. Norris "the second," Broken Bow grocer, "may be used by the opposition unfavorably against your committee."

To newspaper men, Seymour said: "I am doing this of my own volition and without having consulted any one. I think I owe it to the party."

WET BLOC STRENGTHENED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Adoption of a wet plank by the New York Republican state convention was regarded today as assuring a formidable movement against prohibition in the next national convention of the party.

The action will mean, it was generally believed, that a majority of the delegates from New York to the 1932 convention will favor a modification or repeal plank in the next national platform. They will join forces, it is expected, with wet Republicans from a number of other eastern states, including New Jersey, where Dwight Morrow, Republican senatorial nominee, is wet, and where the state convention adopted a wet plank; Connecticut, where the state convention approved a wet plank; Rhode Island, regarded as wet, and possibly Massachusetts. The Pennsylvania delegates to the 1932 convention also are likely to be wet.

NEW ATTACK ON DAY ACT BEGUN IN HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—A new attack upon the validity of the Volstead act and the 18th amendment was launched in the Supreme court of the United States today with the filing of an appeal from a decision in the New York state courts which upheld the law. The appeal was presented by A. Stanley Copeland of New York, who in 1926 failed in an attempt to have the Supreme court pass upon the validity of prohibition enactments.

The present case is in the form of a suit to enjoin James W. Higgins, police commissioner of Buffalo, from enforcing the Volstead act. It is asserted by Mr. Copeland, who appears as his own attorney, that property rights, liberty and the sovereign power of a citizen are involved.

BOOKS

Laugh a Page in This Story of Wild Youth

Wherein Prince Is Hoaxed and All Is Merry.

"Picaresque," by David Hamilton. [Scribner's.]

If you are the sort of person who thinks that most of the amusing people in the world are half mad, "Picaresque" is your meat and drink and a little caviar besides. It is about a young man who has no more idea of morals than the Lindbergh beacon, but who, like it, does a lot of shining here and there.

Also it is about one of the most amusing gals in literature, Cecilia by name, who is discovered doing what our elders would have called living in sin at the beginning of the book, and who is cruelly punished by fate with a husband who worships and adores her, and who has such a fortune that he can indulge his wildest ideas about making her votive offerings. The plot is wholly gay and delightfully mad.

One of the most priceless moments is when the hero, having decided to make his fame and fortune again (he is always thinking up new schemes to do that), decides to sell his masterpiece, a sculptured figure of Persephone, to an Albanian prince, who must, by his father's will, spend so much per annum on art for a memorial museum. The prince had met Cecilia at a garden party in Detroit, where she danced professionally, and had been violently attracted to her. "Think," says the hero, when he and Cecilia are attending a circus and the living statues appear, "here's the real knock of opportunity." So he uses a little whitewash and an assortment of gildings and he has a statue that Cecilia tells the Albanian prince she posed for and which the gaga young man pounces upon.

The prince has gathered a few friends to see the jewel of his collection, and it is warmish in the room and somebody opens a window. The great moment is when Persephone sneezes.

The book is full of such gayeties, for Tom, the hero, is the sort of person that induces them. He's no good. He breaks laws, codes, decencies, and hearts, but he is amusing.

"Picaresque" is exactly what its title says, "pertaining to rascals or vagabonds," only the rascals and vagabonds are so much more amusing against a background of perfectly staid and proper people—Tom and Cecilia cavort while the most solemn and proper background and people are a backdrop for them. It is almost like a revolving stage of sobriety while the hero and heroine strut their stuff on an apron stage in the foreground.

Mr. Hamilton has one of the nicest qualities that any young author can have (this is his second book). He has a real sense of humor, which isn't concerned alone with plot (it is a very funny scramble), but which flickers in his sentences. It's a chuckly sort of humor rather than a guffawing one.

MODERN LIBRARY HAS 10 REPRINTS OF FINE BOOKS IN PROSPECT

Ten additions to that excellent series, the Modern Library, are promised between now and the middle of January. "Of Human Bondage," by Somerset Maugham, considered by critics his masterpiece, and parts one and two of Goethe's "Faust" translated by Bayard Taylor already have been published. This month there appear "Fortitude," by Hugh Walpole (also considered by most of his critics his masterpiece), and that standard book on "The Medici," by G. F. Young, which has previously been available only in two bulky volumes. It is published complete and unabridged in one volume.

Next month Aldous Huxley's tremendous novel, "Point Counter Point," and a comprehensive volume on the philosophy of Plato will be available. Rockwell Kent's "Wilderness" and H. K. Huysmans' "Against the Grain" will be the December volumes. In early January "The Old Wives' Tale," by Arnold Bennett (also his masterpiece), and Henry Fielding's classic, "Tom Jones," will gladden the hearts of readers.

John Held Jr. Depicts Youth Now as Dour

His Word Painting Offers the Disillusioned.

"Grim Youth," by John Held Jr. [Vanguard Press.]

This is a collection of ten short stories by the best known illustrator of flaming youth in the last decade. After years of glorifying the American young, John Held Jr. has turned his pencil other end to and has shown how easy it is to write the kind of thing that he has been illustrating. And he has done it as well as the best.

JOHN HELD JR.

These ten stories are all as good short stories as the average, and two or three of them are enough better to throw a scare into the professionals. Mr. Held sees his youth as "grim" indeed. They are a hard crew, with none of that soft goofiness of the "Seventeen" crowd. They are sophisticated, they are cruel, they are bored with life and love.

"The Awakening" is the only one in which young love does any of the things that one is accustomed to finding in youthful romances. The dialogue is superb in some of the stories. "Commencement" and "Man of the World" are tense, dramatic tales. "Ordeal" is funny beyond words. This is evidently the new youth, now.

You Can Quote Fishbein When Spoofing Your Doc

"Doctors and Specialists," by Morris Fishbein, M. D. [Bobbs Merrill], is a funny book (and how!) about the gentlemen who take you apart and give you a spring cleaning from, as it were, brains to bunions. It is about the assorted mechanics who tune you up from tonsils to toes. It kids the specialists as well as the patients. The only disadvantage it may possibly have is what it may do to the libraries of popular doctors. It probably will breed in litters of guinea pig size and regularity. Every one with a dollar probably will think it's a grand chance to razz his doctor and send him a copy.

D. H. Clarke Dedicates Books with His Biography

Donald Henderson Clarke's first book, "The Reign of Rothstein" [Vanguard] was dedicated to his parents so: "They have stood for so much from their son that they probably can stand for this." "Louis Beretti," his second book, bore the inscription to Gladys, his future wife: "Every author should have a Gladys to keep his mind off his work," and now his latest sensation, "Millie," he dedicates to his wife, thus: "To Gladys, who thought all that authors were good for was writing—until she met me."

Critic Praises Pasley's Book on Al Capone

Thriller, History, Mystery Combined, Is Verdict.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Al Capone," by Fred D. Pasley. [Washburn.]

"Al Capone" is subtitled "The Biography of a Self-Made Man." It might well paraphrase the title of the most popular of the books about a war less local if scarcely less spectacular than our private bootleg mêlée and call itself "All Noisy on the Western Front." It certainly will, in Chicago at least, rival "All Quiet" in sales, if the natives of our town have half an eye for:

AL CAPONE.

1. A book that has more thrills to the paragraph than anything written in our decade.

2. A mystery story with all the crimes still unsolved and "slayers not apprehended," but enough clews to give a bloodhound with asthma the scent.

3. A book of Gargantuan humor, which is distilled from its innate irony rather than from wisecracks.

4. An accusation so fearless that one hopes the author himself has a bullet-proof vest, and that it will be read by every local father, son, mother, and daughter.

"Al Capone" is the best book, either fiction or fact, that this reader has ever read about the gangster business in Chicago. It is meticulously complete with details, with casual but pertinent facts that give it an authenticity that makes the reader tingle with excitement.

It is written so vividly that the scenes are indelible in one's mind—the St. Valentine's day massacre for instance, at which for the first time the public knows that ten, not seven, were destined for eternity. "Bugs" Moran himself and two others escaped by the mere chance of noticing that a Cadillac was drawn up in front of the garage—such a Cadillac as the police use—and although they didn't think it was anything more than an ordinary [and unimportant] raid, they just waited until it was over.

It is not only the facts which are recorded, the statistics which scream their horrors and their surprises that are salutary, but the inferences which the author does not hesitate to leave in his readers' minds as to the complete rottenness in this modern "state of Denmark." It isn't inconceivable that a book might be an indirect cause of a cleanup. The thing has happened before. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" wasn't purely entertaining!

Our fellow townsmen of this great prohibition ridden country probably will do a lot of smug commenting on it, but, like John Wesley, they may well say, "There but for the grace of God go I." Europe will eat it up.

Mr. Pasley now is a rewrite man on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. He has been for years a reporter, and the material in his book is to him, as it is to any other reporter on a big Chicago paper, old stuff in the sense that it has been [as it was happening] just daily grist for the mill. But he has collated it, coördinated it, and fused it into a fascinating record which sounds as fresh and new as if it were all today's news.

Incidentally, Mr. Pasley's connection with THE TRIBUNE has nothing to do with our enthusiasm about the book [it is perhaps needless to say]. If our deadliest enemy [we can't exactly name who that would be!] had written it our praises would be just as unrestrained. We began it in the morning, read it through a solo luncheon, read part of it aloud at the family dinner table after coffee, and laid it down only when our eyes finished the last swell line: "The moving trigger finger writes . . ."

Fifty Books of the Year.

Meetings and Lectures

A course in "Great Books of the World" will be conducted by W. L. Richardson, co-author of "Literature of the World," at the loop Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday evenings at 6 p. m. Current books of distinction as well as the classics will be discussed.

Courses in play writing, writing for publication, and modern drama will also be offered by the association this fall as well as a new course, "The Book Nobody Knows," which is a liberal approach to Bible study, revealing its literary beauty as well as its ethical significance.

John M. Stahl will talk at the meeting of the Bookfellows tonight at six o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building, 19 South La Salle street.

Peter B. Kyne Does Story in Day When Fit

Explains Methods During New York Visit.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Peter B. Kyne, on from California for the first time in five years, has been whirled into the round of luncheons and newspaper interviews with which New York expresses its welcome to literary lions, though Mr. Kyne declares he isn't one.

"I'm just a story teller," he says, "a troubadour who enjoys entertaining folks without any worries as to the opinion of future generations. And I expect to go right on writing the kind of stories people have come to expect from me. They won't ever have to censor my books. Nor hide them from their kids. And they won't find my books full of propaganda."

Mr. Kyne's latest novel, "Outlaws of Eden," is just off the press. This is his nineteenth full length tale, and there have been short stories too numerous to mention in his twenty years as an author. Now a genial, sturdily built man of fifty—a grand "home folks" sort of person — his ruddy face bespeaks much outdoor life, facing the wind on the deck of his boat or riding cow ponies on one of his three ranches.

Mr. Kyne can write a complete short story in a day when he is feeling fit. And that he usually is, though now and again his "cylinders get carboned up a bit," aftermath of his active service in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war. Before he sits down to the typewriter, however, he has his story "thought out" in every detail.

"When do I get time for thinking? From 4 till 6 every morning. I've always seven or eight plots simmering. When everything is quiet I put 'em through their paces till I have worked out a story that I think is worth telling."

William Soskin, literary editor of the Evening Post, and his wife, Dorothy Parrott, splashed a gay tea party on Thursday at their apartment on West 10th street in honor of Rex Stout, author of "Seed on the Wind," and Lynn Riggs author of "The Iron Dish" and of a couple of plays which are due on Broadway soon. . . . Ford Madox Ford arrived last week from tother side of the Atlantic with the manuscript of a new novel.

Carl Sandburg's Songbag Reduced in Price; He Explains

Good news. There now is a popular edition of Carl Sandburg's "The American Songbag."

"These songs," said Mr. Sandburg the other day, "could never have been if it hadn't been for the poor folks. I wish we could give 'em away to 'em."

Scholarly as well as fascinating the volume is. It is as nearly complete as its author was able to make it with years of work and enthusiasm and every word and note in it is authentic.

I think that Carl Sandburg is one of the few really great men of our generation.

The outstanding poet of his method, the authority on American song-literature, an incomparable writer of stories for children, and one of the greatest of American biographers, and withal the simplest, humanest man in the world. True genius lies behind that shock of gray hair that sweeps his forehead.

Blue Beard in Person.

If you have always wondered who ever thought up Blue Beard you need wonder no more, for he wasn't thought up at all; he was almost taken from life. Gilles de Rais was his name and you can read all about him in Tennille Dix's biography of him called "The Black Baron."

ANOTHER WRITING BENSON, E. F., HAS DONE A NEW BOOK

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—It will soon be quite a remarkable thing not to have written one's autobiography. The fall lists of the London publishers will be full of autobiographies. Some of them will be worth reading and the majority will not. But one that is really justified is the book which Mr. E. F. Benson has written.

E. F. BENSON.

Mr. Benson is the son of a former archbishop of Canterbury; he is the brother of Robert Hugh Benson, the Catholic author of many thrilling romances which enjoyed immense popularity before the war, and of A. C. Benson, whose essays delighted many thoughtful readers and bored those who were less thoughtful [they were diabolically parodied by Max Beerbohm in that immortal work, "A Christmas Garland"]. And long years ago E. F. Benson himself attained fame by the authorship of "Dodo," a novel in which were recorded the adventures of a young woman, a great talker, who has sometimes been identified with Lady Oxford and Asquith.

Mr. Benson has traveled much, has mixed in English Society [with the capital "S"], has been a winter sports enthusiast, teller of many tales, severe critic of Robert Louis Stevenson, and continues to take an inexhaustible interest in life. He already has composed a book dealing with the family affairs of the Bensons, but the book which he has now written, for autumn publication, should provide a record of his experiences in the world, and should be of exceptional interest for those who wish to acquaint themselves with the reactions of an alert and individual mind to the changing society of the last half century.

The whole of the reading public has long been in debt to Dr. M. R. James, one of our new O. M.s, for his "Ghost Stories of an Antiquary." A smaller, equally discriminating public has recognized the value of his work as a scholar, and it must be admitted that the Order of Merit was given to Dr. James for this latter work, and not for his ghost stories. But now, having in a masterly volume [just published] surveyed the topography and antiquities of two English counties, Dr. James is making a bid for the suffrages of the nursery. He has translated afresh, from the Danish, the Fairy Tales of Hans Andersen.

Readers who keep a weather eye open for original work may be advised to watch for the new novel—it is really his first novel—of Caradoc Evans. Mr. Evans is a Welshman, a busy journalist, who until recently edited a weekly literary paper called T. P.'s Weekly [the reference being to the late T. P. O'Connor, by whom the paper was founded], and the author of several volumes of short stories about Welsh life which have roused storms of anger in Wales and among Welshmen. His play, "Taffy," was equally stormy in its reception. That should give an indication of the outspokenness of Mr. Evans' work, which long ago commended itself highly to Mr. H. L. Mencken, by whom it was published and praised.

Amazing Upton Sinclair.

A bibliography of the works of Upton Sinclair (published by the author in Pasadena) lists 525 titles in 34 countries—certainly an amazing record—since it contains only those books which have been published in translations and foreign editions and does not make note of the American titles and editions.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

An Abandoned Woman, by Howard Vincent O'Brien [Doubleday Doran], is a penetrating study of a woman who wanted everything and almost got it by our friend and co-lit'ry editor, H. V. O'B. of the Chicago Daily News.

Kostia, by P. M. Krassnoff [Duffield], is a mammoth dramatic tale of the days of the first Romanoffs, as his "From Double Eagle to Red Flag" was a saga of the last days of that unhappy dynasty.

Miss Mole, by E. H. Young [Harcourt Brace], is a charming story of a Jane Austenish sort of person.

This Pure Young Man, by Irving Fineman [Longmans Green], won a prize of $7,500 for its young author.

Long Bondage, by Donald Joseph [Stokes], is a story of a southern beauty and how her men folk—father, husband, and son—kept her spirit in bondage but could not cripple it.

Gentlemen All, by William Fitzgerald Jr. [Longmans], is a dashing tale of the southern gentry.

Woman Under Glass, by Virginia Hersch [Harpers], is a fictional life of St. Teresa de Avila and a picture of seventeenth century Spain.

Spanish Lover, by Frank H. Spearman [Scribners,], is an historical thriller of the last of the sixteenth century.

The Fire Within, by George Gibbs [Appleton], is a poignant story of divorce.

The Son of the Three Musketeers, by Cami [Farrar & Rinehart], is a translation of a rollicking yarn by that incomparable Frenchman who does both words and pictures himself.

Every Mother's Son, by Norman Lindsay [Cosmopolitan], is the south unsentimentalized.

MYSTERY.

Instigation of the Devil, by Edmund Pearson [Scribners], contains "veracious accounts of twenty or thirty murders and other odd occurences."

The John Riddell Murder Case, by John Riddell [Scribners], is a swell spoofing of the Van Dine murder stories et al, by Corey Ford. With priceless caricatures by Covarrubias.

Murder at Red Pass, by the Aresbys [Washburn], is about two murders among the movie royal families.

The Girl in the Green Coat, by H. L. Gates [Barse], is a romantic story about the discovery of a thief.

The Garson Murder Case, by H. C. Bailey, the month's selection of the Crime club, is by the creator of Mr. Fortune.

The South Foreland Murder, by J. S. Fletcher [Knopf], jaunts from an English village to Monte Carlo and involves fabulous jewels and a runaway wife.

ABOUT PLACES.

A Tourist in Spite of Himself, by A. Edward Newton [Little Brown], is the gay record of a touring jaunt by one of our most famous collectors of books.

Between the River and the Hills, by Sisley Huddleston [Lippincott], is a tender book about Normandy, by one of her most devoted admirers.

Dark Trails, by George K. Cherrie [Putnam], is about all sorts of wild places by a naturalist, guide and explorer of forty years' experience.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Roadside Meetings, by Hamlin Garland [Macmillan], is the autobiography of one of America's foremost literary figures.

Henry of Navarre, by Henry Dwight Sedgwick [Bobbs Merrill], is the life story of one of the most romantic—but canny—men of history.

Lords of the Valley, by Flora Warren Seymour [Longmans], tells of the stirring days of Sir William Johnson and his winning of the Indian loyalty for the English in the Mohawk valley.

NONFICTION.

Desert Islands, by Walter de la Mare [Farrar & Rinehart], is a wholly delightful volume of one short essay on romanticism and accompanying notes on every subject under the sun brilliantly set down.

Colossal Blunders of the War, by William Seaver Woods [Macmillan], is a book of facts, not romance.

Toes Up, by Paolo Monelli [Harcourt Brace], is the war record of the Alpini, proud and tough Italian patriots.

Civilization and Its Discontents [Cape Smith] is the first time that America has had a chance to read Sigmund Freud's latest analysis of our modern life.

POETRY.

Turning Point, by John V. A. Weaver [Knopf], another volume of poems "in American."

White April, by Lizette Woodworth Reese [Farrar & Rinehart], a new volume from one of America's best loved poets.

Americana

New books of outstanding importance to everyone interested in America and things American.

WESTWARD
By E. Douglas Branch
"A remarkable example of masterly compression and comprehensive survey. It is written in a smooth, readable style. The story it tells is a stirring one, interesting in every page. It is a moving panorama of word-pictures, depicting the march of the Westward movement across the continent. I know of no book on the subject which covers so much history in such reasonable compass."—Archibald Henderson. Illus. with map and woodcuts. $5.00

ROBINSON'S
New Poem
THE GLORY OF THE NIGHTINGALES
By the author of TRISTRAM
"...In the subtle tonal effects of which he has not been sparing, there is beauty if not lustre, an insistent and pervading beauty, a sort of subdued organ accompaniment which rises and falls but continues throughout. And truly the poem is a literary achievement the magnitude of which must grow with renewed reading. Psychological analysis of a peculiarly penetrating and accurate sort, philosophic profundity, and a dramatic human episode—only Robinson can so weave such things together that one exclaims that he has achieved, or nearly achieved, the ultimate in his elected genre."—Percy Hutchison, New York Times $2.00

COL. C. C. DAWES URGED FOR POST LEFT BY KRAFT

Recommended to Head Guard Regiment.

Lieut. Col. Charles C. Dawes, who has been in charge of the quartermaster's section of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, was recommended yesterday by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn for appointment as colonel of the 33d coast artillery. If the recommendation is followed by Gov. Emmerson, Lieut. Col. Dawes will succeed Charles J. Kraft, who was permitted to resign from his post following his indictment in the federal court as a result of disclosures of a $200,000 scandal in the guard.

Col. Dawes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dawes and the nephew of Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England. He is married and has two children. He is one of the younger officers in the Guard and has a record of service termed remarkable by his superiors. He was born in Evanston on March 30, 1899. His home is at 1000 Sheridan road, Winnetka.

Veteran of World War.

Enlisting on Dec. 14, 1917, in the 21st engineers light railway, Col. Dawes served overseas from December, 1917, to January, 1919. He served in the St. Mihiel, Chateau Thierry and Meuse campaigns. He was recommended for a commission at the Saumur Artillery school, Saumur, France, in November of 1918.

Col. Dawes has been an officer in the officers' Reserves corps since 1922. He served as a captain of field artillery, Illinois National Guard, from Nov. 14, 1924, to June 10, 1926, when he was promoted to the rank of major in the adjutant general's department. On Nov. 11, 1926, he was promoted to lieutenant colonel in the quartermaster corps. In civilian life he is president of Dawes & Co., investment securities.

Comment from Maj. Gen. Keehn.

In commenting on his recommendation of Col. Dawes, Maj. Gen. Keehn said: "When the United States district attorney advised me several months ago that they were investigating the affairs of this regiment [the 106th] and submitted some evidence then in their possession indicating misuse of federal funds, I immediately recommended the appointment of an efficiency board, which is customary in peace times.

"This board, consisting of Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, John Garrity, and Frank Schwengel, was appointed by Gov. Emmerson, and after a thorough hearing extending over several months, Col. Kraft was found inefficient, but was permitted to resign on account of his long record as a soldier in the National Guard, and in the United States forces.

U. S. Attorney Investigates.

"At the time of Col. Kraft's resignation the district attorney's office was making an investigation contemplating certain action and it was believed that a court martial would not only have hampered that investigation, but might have barred further action by the district attorney.

"Every coöperation was given the district attorney's office, and at the suggestion of the attorney the personnel of this regiment was not disturbed, awaiting the completion of that investigation. The reports of that investigation have now been made available and confirm observations made by that office earlier. Col. Dawes is selected to reorganize the personnel of the regiment, and has instructions to recommend such reorganization as he deems necessary to make it an outstanding organization."

Kraft Allowed to Resign.

Col. Kraft was relieved of his command on March 24. The board was appointed to consider his moral fitness and not to make an inquiry into charges that he, as commander of the Broadway armory, had conspired to embezzle funds and put through false claims. He was indicted in the federal court on July 2 and was allowed two days later to resign, retaining his rank.

At that time Maj. Gen. Keehn said: "The commanding general of the Illinois National Guard has nothing to do with state or federal funds that are paid to or collected by members of the National Guard.

Fights Off Kidnaper

MISS LUCILLE BOULE.

The police last night were seeking a bandit with a scratched face, who was beaten off early yesterday after he had seized Miss Lucille Boule, 18 years old, near her home at 3823 North Irving avenue. The robber threatened Miss Boule with a revolver, and attempted to drag her into his car. The young woman kicked and scratched her assailant. He fled after taking her purse containing $3. Miss Boule is a soda clerk at the Stevens hotel and was returning from work when robbed.

PUBLIC DEFENDER GETS READY TO TACKLE NEW JOB

Faces Hundreds of Cases on Court Calendar.

Less than 24 hours after his appointment, Chicago's new public defender, Benjamin C. Bachrach, was preparing for action yesterday at the Criminal Court building. He spent the morning conferring with Judge Harry Fisher and planning his headquarters for the campaign to clear the criminal calendar of the scores of cases now clogging the wheels of justice.

"This is, I believe, one of the greatest advances Illinois has made legally in many years," the veteran lawyer declared enthusiastically. "I think, with the pile of cases they tell me is before me, I'll just have to dig in and start shoveling if we're going to show results."

Hundreds of Cases Ahead.

Attorney Bachrach was appointed on Thursday by the Cook county judicial advisory council to represent in felony cases all those defendants who are unable to retain lawyers of their own. These cases naturally have been relegated to second place on the calendar and have gradually mounted to the hundreds.

"Take the appointment of a public defender, and the recent state Supreme court decision that it is not necessary to hold a jury trial in a felony case if the defendant decides to waive trial by jury, and you have two elements that are bound to cut down the usual length of a trial by perhaps one-third," said Mr. Bachrach. "You see, where two lawyers can argue a case before a judge alone and that judge instantly grasps the points of law as they are presented, without the lawyers having to put the matter slowly and carefully before a jury of laymen it is bound to make for speed, and also, I believe, for justice."

A Question to Defender.

"Suppose you know that a man you are appointed to defend is guilty?" he was asked. "Will you save the public's money by advising him to plead guilty or spend time and effort to acquit him?"

"If you don't mind," replied the public defender after a moment's reflection, "I'd prefer not to be quoted on that. I know very definitely what I will do, but I think I can function more adequately if I do not express myself on the point. Lawyers, like physicians, have a code of ethics to follow, and in this case I think that is enough to say."

DR. KLEIN PREDICTS BUSINESS REVIVAL BEFORE NOVEMBER

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The chances would seem to be fairly good that the United States will be out of the current economic depression by the end of October, Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, told the annual meeting of the Half Million club, a bond salesmen's organization, today.

Dr. Klein, who based his reasoning on the fact that 14 out of the 15 economic crises through which the country passed in the last 50 years lasted an average of 13 months, also gave figures to show that the present resources of the country are better than they have sometimes been pictured.

A large part of the country's psychological difficulties came from comparisons drawn with the economic heights reached in 1929 before the depression and that a more normal yardstick is needed, Dr. Klein said.

BRANDON BACKS ILLINOIS PENAL FARM PROGRAM

Tells Ideas on Rules for Offenders.

The program of the Illinois and Cook county judicial advisory councils for the creation of state penal farms as part of their campaign to renovate the Illinois criminal code with a view to speed justice and make punishment more certain yesterday received the support of Rodney H. Brandon, director of the state department of public welfare. Brandon met with members of the councils at the headquarters of the Chicago Bar association.

The plan of revision proposes that only such crimes as murder, treason, rape, robbery with a gun, kidnaping for ransom, and bombing be punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary. All other crimes, grouped in four additional classifications, are to be punishable by imprisonment on state farms, or in county jails for the less serious of these classifications.

In the latter classes the punishment is not to exceed three years. This is in line with modern thought, which holds that short but certain sentences are more effective than long sentences.

The councils invited Mr. Brandon to expess his views as a penologist. He supported the program of the councils with the exception of the last classification, which calls for punishment not to exceed 30 days. If an offender is to be punished at all the period should not be less than six months, so that authorities may have an opportunity to correct criminal tendencies.

Director Brandon suggested that the commitment of sentenced offenders be made to the department of public welfare rather than to a specific institution. Under this provision, he explained, the department would be free to transfer prisoners.

Such a plan would prevent the association of first offenders with repeaters, he said. He advocated a classification and segregation of offenders against person, against property, and against sex.

CONFIRM ACID POISONING IN JOYCE'S DEATH

The report of Dr. E. R. Le Count and William D. McNally, employed by Mrs. Mary Daly Joyce to make a second examination of the body of her husband, State Senator John T. Joyce, who died suddenly last August, was made public yesterday. Both pathologists reported the finding of traces of hydrocyanic acid, confirming the report of Coroner's Chemist Clarence W. Muehlberger. There was no evidence of other poisons, the report said.

Attorney Cornelius Palmer, representing Mrs. Joyce, notified Coroner Bundesen of the corroboration of the findings of his department.

When Senator Joyce died his widow made the charge that he had been murdered by his political enemies by the administration of a slow poison.

In the reopened Kirk-Joyce election contest hearing before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. yesterday 64 votes were taken from Joyce's total, reducing his lead to 102 votes. J. Fordyce Woods, a handwriting expert, testified that 32 of the disputed ballots in the 40th precinct of the 42d ward showed that marks for Wallace Kirk had been erased and marks substituted opposite Senator Joyce's name. The hearing will be resumed today.

BUCKET SHOP RAIDERS FIND OFFICES EMPTY

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday ordered a raid on the offices of the Charles O. Richardson & Co., 205 West Wacker drive, an alleged bucket shop organization which is said to have taken over $100,000 from its customers. The prosecutor said that his office has received many complaints against the firm.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty issued a duces tecum subpœna, which was turned over to a squad of detectives under the direction of Assistant State's Attorneys L. P. Holt and Herman Weinberg, who have charge of the blue sky law violations. The detectives found the elaborate offices deserted.

RUSSIANS HAIL EXECUTION OF 48 AS 'BIG VICTORY'

'Let the Capitalists Yell,' Is Keynote of Reds.

MOSCOW, Russia, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Pravda, the official newspaper of the communist party, in a long editorial today called the execution Wednesday of 48 counter revolutionists a great victory for the proletariat in the struggle against its class enemies.

"Announcement of the execution of the harmers, who attempted to create a famine in the land of the soviets, has met with unanimous satisfaction and approval of the laboring masses throughout the country," the newspaper said. "The sentence passed by the ogpu [secret police] is a sentence of the victorious proletariat. It is a sentence of history.

Millions Hail Executions.

"Millions of laborers were seized with indignation upon learning of a counter revolutionary secret society, and there is hardly an institution or factory in the union which did not demand from the government the severest punishment for the villains who plotted against the lives of millions of proletarians and their children."

After declaring that enemies of the proletariat have not abandoned the struggle for restoration of capitalism in soviet Russia Pravda continued:

"These live corpses of obliterated Russian capitalism and czarism resorted to the most abominable and the basest means in fighting against the proletariat. In history the counter-revolutionary famine plotters will occupy a prominent place as examples of turpitude. Such crimes deserve merciless retaliation.

"Let the Capitalists Yell."

"The laboring classes of our country demanded death for the plotters because it is their imprescriptible right to protect their existence and to maintain their victory.

"A fresh tide of mud will swamp the pages of the capitalistic press," Pravda added. "The bourgeoisie will attempt to employ the execution of the 48 felons for distracting attention from the crimes against the laboring classes in their countries. Let the capitalists yell about 'the Red terror.' The proletarians will and must respond to counter-revolutionary attacks only with lead. This must be remembered by all those who wish to imitate the famine creators."

FRENCH SENATOR CHARGES RUSSIA IS DUMPING EGGS

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The menace of soviet dumping has again been brought to the attention of French public opinion through a disclosure by Senator Henry Cheron, former minister of finance, who declared yesterday that millions of soviet eggs are being brought into France to the detriment of Normandy farmers.

"The Paris market is swamped with these soviet eggs, which are not only of poor quality but a menace to public health," he said. "Great Britain, Germany, and Belgium decree that imported eggs be marked plainly with the name of the country of origin."

He asked the government to enact a law requiring each soviet egg to be stamped on entering the country in order to prevent this cheap product from being reëxported elsewhere as genuine French fresh eggs.

DIVORCE SOUGHT BY DAUGHTER OF FRANCIS X. BUSCH

Mrs. Kathryn M. Lund, daughter of Francis X. Busch, attorney for the board of election commissioners, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court against Carl E. Lund, with whom she eloped 18 months ago. This action follows a suit filed a week ago by Lund against his father-in-law, asking for damages of $100,000.

The divorce bill, drawn by the law firm of Lessman, Roemer & Schnell, charges Lund with cruelty and adultery. The Lunds were married on March 6, 1929, at Champaign while Lund was a student in the University of Illinois. Mrs. Lund left her husband on Sept. 11 and returned to her parents at 415 Surf street.

War to Abate Noise Starts; City Commission Is Created

The noise commission of Chicago was organized yesterday in the office of Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, commissioner of health, and started work on studying the great question of the control and abatement of preventable noise within the jurisdiction of the city. It it to be made a major activity from now on.

Dr. Kegel will be president of the commission, which will soon ask a legal status from the city council. Dr. Gottfried Koehler, assistant health commissioner, will be vice president. The work of the executive secretary, which will soon require the full service of an outside man, is being carried on for the present by Joel I. Connolly, chief of the bureau of sanitary engineering.

Fourteen to Be Appointed.

At least fourteen members of the commission are to be appointed, and the work will be divided into three main departments, with a number of sub departments. The main committees are ways and means, scientific and industrial and social. Dr. William Braid White, director of acoustic research for the American Steel and Wire company, is to head the scientific committee. The other committees have not been chosen.

One of the first acts of the commission was to adopt a resolution calling upon the engineers who are drawing the subway plans, and upon Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, to take steps to make the subway as noiseless as possible.

"New York's subway is the world's worst as to noise," said Dr. White. "They know how to decrease the noise, but the cost is prohibitive. In London and Budapest engineers have done much to eliminate noise and Chicago can do the same if the bore is designed with that in view. If the subway is built with concrete the noise will be terrific unless the walls are deadened."

Tell of Work to Be Done.

The sum of $50,000 was suggested as a modest estimate of the needs of the commission in the variety of work planned. The program involves:

An adequate study of the noise situation as it exists both in regard to its territorial distribution and its sources.

A study and determination of scientific methods for measuring and evaluating noise.

The cultivation of relations with all those industrial and social groups which may be expected to be able to bring to bear their organized influence upon other members, in the matter of securing coöperation in the reduction of noise.

Can Be Cut Down.

"It is a fact thoroughly well authenticated," the organization committee reported, "through the work of the Noise Abatement commission in New York and the National Safety council, that a very large, perhaps, indeed, the larger part of all preventable noise produced in a city like Chicago could be actually obliterated if only each individual member of the public, both in his private and in his business capacity, were really interested in the subject and desirous of doing something about it. Any practical results achieved by the commission will very largely hinge upon the success of its work with the organized business, commercial, industrial, manufacturing and social groups of the city."

The commission is to make a campaign to educate the people to make less noise.

"I should like to inculcate the idea that it is a mark of culture to make as little noise as possible," said Dr. Kegel. "This applies to the use of radios, player pianos and auto horns, as well as other things. Also, if people use their horns less they will drive more carefully."

See Hard Road Ahead.

The commission sees a long hard road ahead in its noise abatement work. The organization committee reported:

"It is quite probable that twelve months or so of steady work will suffice for the preparation of the needed scientific and engineering data, but the task of bringing about an application of these will occupy very likely as much time as has been occupied by the city's valuable work on such subjects as smoke abatement and milk purification."

List Men on Committee.

The advisory committee, out of which much of the commission personnel will be drawn, is as follows:

William H. Hoskins, Illinois Manufacturers' association; Robert T. Hendrickson, Automobile Trade association; Joseph K. Brittain, Association of Commerce; H. J. Lehman, Illinois Manufacturers' association; M. H. Riley, Western Society of Engineers; F. E. Erstman, Motor Truck Owners' association; George C. Oliver, Cartage exchange; M. O. Moughan, Milk Wagon Owners and Drivers; H. O. Weege, representing the park systems; Dr. John Dill Robertson, Motorists' Association of Illinois; Joseph H. Braun, Chicago Motor club; Charles J. BOARD OF TRADE BARS RUSSIA AS SHORT SELLER

Acts to Protect the Grain Market.

Trade was composed of Attorney Silas H. Strawn, James Norris, vice president of the board; Peter B. Carey, and Siebel C. Harris. They held their meeting with the board of directors immediately after their arrival from the capital.

Secretary Hyde Pleased.

Secretary Hyde, who first made the demand that the Board of Trade take action against the communist selling, expressed himself as pleased with the directors' action. "I am glad to see the Board of Trade is making an effort to protect the American farmer," he said at Washington.

Apparently well-founded gossip is to the effect that the Board of Trade first called the secretary's attention to the selling by Russia and asked him to use his facilities to furnish information on which to work.

Foreign markets were depressed in about the same degree as was Chicago's. At Winnipeg the decline in the price of futures was from 2⅜ to 2½ cents. Bear traders were reported active. It was announced in Washington that the Canadian wheat pool had sold a million bushels of wheat to British and other European buyers. An assertion from Genoa that the soviets had canceled sailings of ships that were to take grain to European ports apparently had no effect in stimulating the markets.

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.] is scheduled to hold a hearing today in New York on the question of the soviet sales of wheat. It was announced that he will come here and hold similar hearings Monday in the federal building.

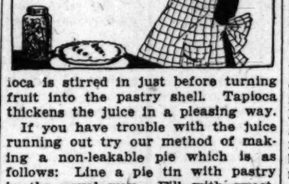
Food Talk.

Mrs. G. T. M. writes: "I canned some cherries quite sour and, as I haven't had much success with cherry pie lately thought you might have some suggestions for different ways of serving them. Also, how can I use up cherry preserves?"

Sugar may be added to your sour canned cherries. And the cherries with all the juice may be used in the pie if a tablespoon of granulated tapioca is stirred in just before turning fruit into the pastry shell. Tapioca thickens the juice in a pleasing way.



If you have trouble with the juice running out try our method of making a non-leakable pie which is as follows: Line a pie tin with pastry in the usual way. Fill with sweetened fruit. Roll out the pastry for top crust. Invert a pie tin of the same size as the tin in which pie is being baked on the dough sheet. Press the tin down on the dough just enough to leave an impression of the rim of the pan. Cut the dough around the inner circle thus made. Prick the circular piece of dough with a fork, then lay carefully over the top of the fruit. There will be a space of about ¼ of an inch between the edge of the top crust and outer edge of the pie. This space permits steam to escape as the pie is baking and prevents juice from running over the edge of the pan. As the pie bakes the upper crust spreads a little and the fruit shrinks so that the edge is sealed when baking is completed.

Sour cherries make delightful puddings, sauces and also a cobbler affair called cherry roll.

Cherry roll is made out of biscuit dough. Pat the dough out to ¼ inch thickness. Sprinkled heavily with sugared, drained cherries, roll up like a jelly roll and bake in the roll form in a hot oven. This may be sliced and served with sweetened cherry sauce made of some of the sweetened cherries thickened with corn starch. This cherry sauce is also delicious on cottage pudding.

Sour cherries also make a luscious cherry cake. This is made exactly like Dutch apple cake except cherries are substituted for apples.

Another way to use these cherries is in an exquisite gelatin salad. Sweeten juice and fruit but not too much, because tartness is pleasant in a salad. Use hot cherry juice to dissolve gelatin. When gelatin begins to congeal add cherries and filberts or pecans. When firm, cut into squares and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise combined with whipped cream and a little of the sweetened cherry juice.

An excess of cherry juice may be boiled with 2-3 as much sugar to a thick sirup. This sirup makes an excellent sauce for ice cream or it may be served with pan cakes and waffles. The unsweetened juice contributes fine flavor and color to fruit ades and punches. These are a few uses, Mrs. G. T. M., for your sour cherries. The same thing might be said of any other canned fruit.

Cherry preserves, too, have a number of uses. If they are in a considerable amount of sirup they make a fine sauce for ice creams or puddings. Drained of sirup they may be used for garnishes. Cherry preserves are a most pleasing accompaniment of baked sweet potato puffs. Drop mashed sweet potato into hillock forms onto a buttered baking pan, make a slight depression in the top. Toast in a hot oven to a golden brown watching carefully. Put a spoonful of the cherry preserves into the top depression just before serving. Cherry preserves [well drained] may also be used in place of dates in muffins and cakes.

'Tis a Poor Lip That Some Rouge Doesn't Improve

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Lola Montez must have had some other tricks to bag her game [for report has it that she was one arch-charmer] to have written such nonhumorous advice as the following:

"Let every woman at once understand that paint can do nothing for the mouth and lips. There is no man who does not shrink back in disgust from the idea of kissing a pair of painted lips. [Ed. note—tee-hee.] Nor let any woman deceive herself with the idea that the men do not instantly detect paint on the lips."

That's kinda comical now, isn't it? Or, have you noticed any shrinking—back? I may be wrong!

What a duller world it would be were women to believe what Lola says. The lipstick, though it may not always achieve the perfect line, surely has done a lot to cheer up the world in which we live.

And what a long way it has gone since the day the beet or strawberry-dyed finger had to trail its furtive path across a pair of lips. Colors, no end of them, for many types and for many colors of skin. For day wear and for evening wear lipstick accommodations are provided. There are permanent and indelible ones, greasy and greaseless. Anyway it's a poor lip that can't find a bit of rouge to make it more enticing.

A point about lipstick usage sometimes overlooked in the pursuit of other considerations is that age is a factor to consider along with the color. That is, if you are quite young you can paint your lips vermillion and because you are young, and there is much latitude for youthful follies, you can get away with it. But the same vermilion against older teeth, against older skin isn't good, nor is it necessary.

Here's where you should do some experimenting to get as warm a color as possible without getting a "drying" color, if you know what I mean. A bit of the cream rouge that you may be using on your cheek might be just the proper touch for the lips. It has that thing I call warmth to it. Also, it has a fairly permanent quality which makes it desirable.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and summons the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out about twenty minutes later and walked towards the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

Murder by person or persons unknown is the verdict at the inquest.

Miss Marple gives a dinner party for her visiting nephew, Robert West, a writer.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

AN IMPOSTOR.

"It was a stupid remark to make, I said, but really I'd had a very trying morning with him."

"That's disappointing," said Raymond West. "Because, of course, if your subconscious were really planning to do him in, it would never have allowed you to make that remark. My theory falls to the ground. This is probably a very ordinary murder—a revengeful poacher or something of that sort."

"Miss Cram came to see me this afternoon," said Miss Marple. "I met her in the village and I asked her if she would like to see my garden."

"Is she fond of gardens?" asked Griselda.

"I don't think so," said Miss Marple, with a faint twinkle. "But it makes a very useful excuse for talk, don't you think?"

"What did you make of her?" asked Griselda.

"She volunteered a lot of information—really a lot of information," said Miss Marple. "About herself, you know, and her people. They all seem to be dead or in India. Very sad. By the way, she has gone to Old Hall for the week-end."

"What?"

"Yes, it seems Mrs. Protheroe asked her—or she suggested it to Mrs. Protheroe—I don't quite know which way about it was. To do some secretarial work for her—there are so many letters to cope with. It turned out rather fortunately. Dr. Stone being away, she has nothing to do. What an excitement this barrow has been."

"Stone?" said Raymond. "Is that the archaeologist fellow?"

"Yes, he is excavating a barrow. On the Protheroe property."

"He's a good man," said Raymond. "Wonderfully keen on his job.

"An impostor," said Raymond West. "Now this is really interesting."

I met him at a dinner not long ago and we had a most interesting talk. I must look him up."

"Unfortunately," I said. "He's just gone to London for the week-end. Why, you actually ran into him at the station this afternoon."

"I ran into you. You had a little fat man with you—with glasses on."

"Yes—Dr. Stone."

"But, my dear fellow—that wasn't Stone."

"Not Stone?"

"Not the archaeologist. I know him quite well. The man wasn't Stone—not the faintest resemblance."

We stared at each other. In particular I stared at Miss Marple.

"Extraordinary," I said.

"The suitcase," said Miss Marple.

"But why?" said Griselda.

"It reminds me of the time the man went round pretending to be the gas inspector," murmured Miss Marple. "Quite a little haul, he got."

"An impostor," said Raymond West. "Now this is really interesting."

"The question is, has it anything to do with murder?" said Griselda.

"Not necessarily," I said. "But—" I looked at Miss Marple.

"It is," she said, "a peculiar thing. Another peculiar thing."

"Yes," I said rising. "I rather feel the inspector ought to be told about this at once."

. . . . . .

Inspector Slack's orders, once I had got him on the telephone, were brief and emphatic. Nothing was to "get about." In particular, Miss Cram was not to be alarmed. In the meantime, a search was to be instituted for the suitcase in the neighborhood of the barrow.

Griselda and I returned home very excited over this new development. We could not say much with Dennis present as we had faithfully promised Inspector Slack to breathe no word to anybody.

In any case, Dennis was full of his own troubles. He came into my study and began fingering things and shuffling his feet and looking thoroughly embarrassed.

"What is it, Dennis?" I said at last.

"Uncle Len. I don't want to go to sea."

I was astonished. The boy had been so very decided about his career up to now.

"But you were so keen on it."

"Yes, but I've changed my mind."

"What do you want to do?"

"I want to go into finance."

I was even more surprised.

"What do you mean—finance?"

"Just that. I want to go into the city."

"But, my dear boy, I am sure you would not like the life. Even if I obtained a post for you in a bank—"

Dennis said that wasn't what he meant. He didn't want to go into a bank. I asked him what exactly he did mean, and of course, as I suspected, the boy didn't really know.

By "going into finance" he simply meant getting rich quickly which, with the optimism of youth, he imagined was a certainty if one "went into the city." I disabused him of this notion as gently as I could.

"What's put it into your head?" I asked. "You were so satisfied with the idea of going to sea."

"I know, Uncle Len, but I've been thinking. I shall want to marry some day—and, I mean, you've got to be rich to marry a girl."

"Facts disprove your theory," I said.

"I know—but a real girl. I mean, a girl who's used to things."

It was very vague but I thought I knew what he meant.

"You know," I said gently. "All girls aren't like Lettice Protheroe."

He fired up at once.

"You're awfully unfair to her. You don't like her. Griselda doesn't either. She says she's tiresome."

From the feminine point of view, Griselda is quite right. I could quite realize, however, that a boy would resent the adjective.

"If only people made a few allowances. Why even the Hartley Napiers are going about grousing about her at a time like this! Just because she left their old tennis party a bit early. Why should she stay if she was bored? Jolly decent of her to go at all, I think."

"Quite a favor," I said, but Dennis suspected no malice. He was full of his own grievance on Lettice's behalf.

"She's awfully unselfish, really. Just to show you, she made me stay. Naturally I wanted to go, too. But she wouldn't hear of it. Said it was too bad on the Napiers. So, just to please her, I stopped on a quarter of an hour.

The young have very curious views on unselfishness.

"And now I hear Susan Hartley Napier is going about everywhere saying Lettice has rotten manners."

"If I were you," I said. "I shouldn't worry."

"It's all very well, but—"

He broke off.

"I'd—I'd do anything for Lettice."

"Very few of us can do anything for any one else," I said. "However much we wish it, we are powerless."

"I wish I were dead," said Dennis.

Poor lad. Calf love is a virulent disease. I forebore to say any of the obvious and probably irritating things which come so easily to one's lips. Instead I said good night, and went up to bed.

I took the eight o'clock service the following morning and when I returned found Griselda sitting at the breakfast table with an open note in her hand. It was from Anne Protheroe.

Dear Griselda,

If you and the vicar could come up and lunch here quietly today, I should be so very grateful. Something very strange has occurred and I should like Mr. Clement's advice.

Please don't mention this when you come as I have said nothing to any one.

Yours affectionately,

Anne Protheroe.

British Lagging in Men's Styles, Makers' Verdict

Call Chicago Center of Clothing Industry.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

American men no longer heed the dictates of London in matters of style in dress, Chicago tailors assembled yesterday for the semi-annual style show sponsored by the Chicago Cutters club, said.

"Chicago and New York are the centers of men's styles, not London, at present," members of the club said. They met in the Palmer house. They added: "The best workmanship, we claim, belongs to Chicago."

Not only are London fashions unsuitable to Americans because of the heaviness of materials they use, they said, but for another more subtle reason.

"Englishmen like their clothes sloppy," said John Melangton, director of the Merchant Tailors' Designers association, a national organization with which the Chicago Cutters' club is affiliated. "They think we overdress, and that we overtailor clothes. But the American man thinks the Englishman looks underdressed.

"Of course, he conceded, "they know how to carry their clothes. But they're built different from American men. The English gentleman is tall and slender. And why is he?" he asked with some heat. "Because all he has to do is play polo and hunt and so on. Our business men have to work for their living. Of course, they develop waistlines and sloping shoulders."

The winter's fashion for men is more trim and tailored than ever, with square shoulders, a full chest effect, a slightly nipped in waistline, and slim hips, according to Simon Bergman, chairman of the style committee.

Greens and browns lead in colors. This does not mean, however, that they are dull and uninteresting greens and browns. The browns are light and warm, a soft chocolate brown, for instance, combining an imperceptible thread of gray in the weave to give it a mottled and more interesting effect.

Plum color is one of the high notes in fashion. Bottle green is most correct, and gray greens and blue greens, almost peacock green, are good. Navy blue is passé.

Unfinished worsteds lead the list of fashionable fabrics, and Saxonies and flannels follow. Scotch tweeds for suits will not be worn much, it was predicted, but will be correct for overcoats. Blue and gray as well as tan covert cloth will be used in fall overcoats, and camel's hair cloth in raglan effects remains top notch in point of style.

Buttons will be set close to the edge of the coat to take away all possible emphasis of the waistline. Collars will be cut low to show an expanse of linen. The fashionable man now shows his shirt collar above his coat collar in the back.

Trousers should be 18 inches around the bottom, a conservative width, and are not long. A man is not a gentleman if he wears trousers of a wider width, the tailors agreed. There should be no break in the back, either, and only a trifle of a break in front; that is the verdict concerning length.

Stripes and plaids are out of fashion; only a discreet pattern in the weaving, such as the diamond effect, without any added color, will be permissable. The sack coat with one button, combined with cheviot striped trousers, rather wide stripes, will be worn by younger men in increasing numbers, it was predicted. The frock coat will be used by older men, with trousers of more dignified stripes, it was said.

Another Historic Illinois Site to Be Marked Oct. 7

Mount Carmel, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—On Oct. 7 the Mount Carmel chapter of the D. A. R. will unveil a marker on the site of old Palmyra, settled in 1815. Palmyra was the first county seat of Edwards county, which then included Cook county. It embraced one-third of Illinois and parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

BRITISH WAR HERO, TWICE WINNING V. C., SHY ABOUT WEDDING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The world's only winner of the coveted Victoria cross twice also is the shyest man in the world.

He is Lieut. Col. Arthur Martin Leake, who won the Victoria Cross in the Boer war and again during the world war.

He will be married in the near future to Winifred Frances Caroll, who is a widow. He is so shy about the forthcoming marriage that he has sworn the vicar of the church to the strictest secrecy.

At the present he holds the post of administrative medical officer of the Bengal-Nagpur railway, to which he will return with his bride. He received the Victoria cross in the Boer war for attending wounded comrades under heavy fire while severely wounded himself three times. Again in the great war he received a clasp, an added bar for the ribbon above the cross, for rescuing under heavy fire a number of wounded lying close to the enemy trenches.

That indicated that he had merited the cross twice.

Catholics to Celebrate Chicago's 50 Years as an Archdiocese

Preliminary arrangements for the observation of the golden jubilee of the Chicago archdiocese were announced yesterday by the Rt. Rev. B. J. Shell, auxiliary bishop of Chicago. The event will take place the third week in October, and will include both a religious and a civic celebration.

The former will consist of a solemn pontifical high mass to be sung in Holy Name cathedral in the presence of Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago. The latter will take the form of a dinner for approximately 2,500 women, members of the recently formed diocesan federation of Catholic women. Noted speakers will be heard both at the mass and at the dinner.

The celebration will take place just prior to the departure of Cardinal Mundelein for Rome to dedicate the new Propaganda college, the building of which was accomplished by loans negotiated by Cardinal Mundelein, acting for Pope Pius.

Indian Drums Accent Talks About Culture

Tribal Dances Explained in Collegiate Speech.

War dances, lilting songs of love and worship, sad, haunting chants of sacrifice, accompanied by the varying beat of drums created an Indian atmosphere last night in Fullerton hall of the Art institute. Warriors and women of fifteen tribes were gathered at the annual grand council fire.

To an audience equally composed of Indians and whites—chiefs in gala attire, war feathers waving, and maidens in soft doeskin made an appeal for better understanding. Only one feature of the traditional Indian was absent. Chief Chibiaboos (Winnebago), master of ceremonies, explained its absence.

"We lost our land to the paleface men," he said, "and now the women have taken the last vestige of our former greatness—our warpaint. So we greet you with sober faces, but with smiles in our hearts."

The purpose of Indian day was explained by Princess Ataloa (Chickasaw), a university graduate and now working for the furthering of Indian education.

"With the founding of the school at Carlyle, Pa.," she said, "voices were heard that the education of the Indian was impossible. Our purpose is to show you the Indian as he is. We want the white people to understand us, not to get their impressions from movies and wild west novels, but to see us as we are.

"We do not want sympathy; we do not need sympathy. The thing we do want is a chance to educate the Indian to take the place he is capable of filling. Is the Indian passing? Yes, the Indian of the tepee and the blanket. In his place we have the Indian of the university, the Indian of culture and the Indian who is a citizen and a good one."

To show the heritage and explain the culture of the Indian a show was presented; in parts an opera and in others a history in pantomime. Tribal rites were shown, native costumes, songs, music. All were accompanied by an explanation.

Thousands of school children yesterday observed American Indian day by appropriate ceremonies in all the public schools. Indian songs were sung and children dressed in buckskin and feathers presented pantomimes of the life of the first Americans. Special readings and lectures dealing with native life were given by teachers in all schools.

8 Old Men Answer Roll Call of 36th Ill. Infantry of Civil War

Eight old men, who 69 years ago as stalwart young soldiers marched away to war with the 36th Illinois volunteer infantry, met yesterday in Aurora for their 64th annual re-union. Though thirty-four still are alive, only seven could make the trip. The eighth was J. M. Kennedy of Aurora. He was elected president of the association.

Nine members of the organization died during the year. The youngest man at the reunion was 87 years old; the oldest, 91. The new president is 88. Those attending were: Frank Perkins, Elgin; James E. Moss, Scranton, Ia.; Terris Johnson, Newark, Emra H. Strait, Ottawa, Franklin A. Whitney, Sandwich; Elias I. Bartlett, Waterloo, Ia.; Mr. Kennedy, Aurora, and E. E. Balch, Elgin.

The 36th was a famous regiment. It was nicknamed "The three Jims regiment from riflemen named James, inseparable companions, each wounded during different engagements. In 1928 the first of the Jims died. He was James Hatch of Plano, Ill.; last year the second, James F. Harral. This year James Moss attended alone. He had lost a leg, the only one of the three maimed.

Dinner was served by the Women's Relief corps auxiliary of the Aurora post of the G. A. R.

Most women of the post are in their eighties.

Asks $16,666 for Work on Confederate Memorial

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Augustus Lukeman, sculptor, has filed suit in the Fulton county Superior court against the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association. He seeks to recover $16,666, which he claims to be due him for work on the mountain monument. In his petition, Lukeman sets out he entered into a contract with the association on April 16, 1925, to carve the memorial on Stone mountain and, as a result of the contract, he says, he made designs and models which were accepted by the association at a cost of $12,500. Acting under the contract, the petitioner says, he superintended the work of carving, for which he says there is now due him $4,166.33.

Bishop Hughes Advises Elders to Aid the Young

Lawrenceville, Ill., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Parents and church elders were warned not to criticize the young people and advised to make every effort to understand their problems by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes today at the 79th Methodist conference.

Rules that governed lives a generation ago will not fit those of today the bishop said.

Reports of district superintendents this morning showed an increase in attendance in a majority of churches.

GHOST OF VALENTINO IN HER PORTRAIT BOTHERS POLA NEGRI

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

Paris, Sept. 25.—While the divorce proceedings instituted by Pola Negri against Prince Serge Mdvani have been indefinitely postponed in the Paris courts the Spanish painter Beltran Mases, today filed a suit against the film actress for recovery of $5,000 which he alleges is due to him for painting her portrait.

Miss Negri promptly filed a reply to the artist's complaint, stating she had never really engaged him to do her portrait but he had begged permission to paint her. Notwithstanding, she offered to pay him $1,000 for his work, which he refused.

Señor Mases insists the actress came to him voluntarily and ordered the portrait with specific instructions that a shadow form of the late Rudolph Valentino should be painted in the background.

Before her marriage to Prince Serge Mdvani, Miss Negri was reported to be engaged to Valentino. She is said to have stated in press interviews that Valentino was the greatest love of her life. The Spanish painter declares the portrait with Valentino's wraith in the background was ordered after her marriage to the prince.

After Miss Negri started divorce proceedings, Prince Serge Mdvani announced his intention to marry Mary McCormick, the American opera singer, as soon as the decree was granted. Then came a reconciliation between the prince and his actress wife. The divorce proceedings were indefinitely adjourned, and Miss McCormick said, "It is all for the best."

Widow with Crippled Son Is Married to Gotham Millionaire

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Another shop girl has married a multi-millionaire, according to a copyrighted article appearing in the Westchester County Times today.

Mrs. Dora Lagarino, a widow of thirty, was working in a decorating shop in Pelham to support herself and her crippled boy of eight. Less than two months ago a young man came into the shop to have some work done for his mother. He was Archibald C. Nash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nash. He asked to be introduced to her.

It was evidently love at first sight, for within a month from their first meeting Mrs. Lagarino took the day off from the shop and went down to New York City with Nash. They were married at the municipal building.

The next morning she appeared at work as usual, spending the days of what might have been her honeymoon in stitching draperies as she had been doing for several years. It seemed to make no difference to her that she had married into $5,000,000.

It's Forget-me-not Day, Despite Autumn Winds

In spite of chilly fall weather, forget-me-nots will be in bloom today over Chicagoland. The small blue flower will be sold on the streets by 15,000 women workers from the hour the first citizens are off to the workaday world until they come home at night. The receipts will be used to bring cheer to maimed and ill veterans of the world war.

The annual tag day drive is sponsored by the Disabled Veterans of the World War, and $80,000 is set for the day's goal. Today also is the twelfth anniversary of the start of the Argonne offensive. Forget-me-not day is an observance of that anniversary.

Scroll of the Mosaic Law Will Be Buried Tomorrow

A sacred scholl bearing the law of Moses will be buried tomorrow by the First Rumanian congregation of 3622 Douglas boulevard at Waldheim cemetery. Three rabbis and a cantor will conduct the solemn services over the scroll, known as a Torah, which has outlived its usefulness. Laws of that faith decree that when a Torah becomes defective it must not be used, but must be interred in a special box over which a tablet usually is erected.

Woman Flyer Reaches Vienna from Munich

Another Plans for Flight Across the U. S.

VIENNA, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Victor Bruce, who is flying a sporting plane for an undisclosed destination, arrived in Vienna this afternoon. She left England yesterday, and is believed to be en route to Japan.

Flies from Munich.

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Victor Bruce, who hopped off from England yesterday in what is believed to be an attempt to beat solo flight records to India and Japan, took off at 9:25 a. m. today in continuation of her trip after spending the night here.

She was understood to be heading toward Constantinople by way of Vienna and Budapest. Her plane is a two seater biplane in which an extra fuel tank has been built in the second seat. It is driven by a 105 horse power motor and is equipped with radio.

It was said here that Mrs. Bruce plans to continue to America from Japan aboard ship. Airport officials here today were skeptical of her chances of breaking any records in view of the unfavorable weather.

Would Fly Across U. S.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—In spite of stern parental frowns Mrs. Spencer Cleaver, daughter of Hugh M. Pollack, minister of finance and deputy prime minister of northern Ireland, will sail tomorrow on the Berengaria for New York to attempt a transcontinental flight starting Oct. 12.

The daring British airwoman is taking with her the same gypsy moth plane in which she flew from London to Bagdad and on to India last year. She will use the plane in her effort to be the first British aviatrix to fly across the United States.

Mrs. Cleaver's father has tried to dissuade her from making the flight. Her husband, Col. Spencer Cleaver, who is head of the London department store of Robinson & Cleaver, in Regent street, has offered no obstacle. Her most recent flight was from London to Belfast and Dublin.

"I will do the flight for the sport of it," she told the Associated Press today. Her machine carries fuel for only five hours of flight, so her stops will be at Washington, Dayton, St. Louis, Dallas, El Paso, and Los Angeles under her present tentative plans.

Mrs. Cleaver was a prominent motorist before taking to aviation and won fame as a mountain climber. She set a new fashion in feminine flying garb by wearing an antelope coated with pegtop trousers of the same material, fitting snugly down to the ankles, with a strap under the instep. Over this she wears a big fur-trimmed flying coat with goggles and helmet.

Samuel Insull Returns; Saw Elections in Germany

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities magnate, returned home from a two weeks' trip to Europe on board the Aquitania today. He was accompanied by Mrs. Insull.

They were in Cologne two days prior to the German elections, but Mr. Insull had no comment to make on the result of the contests. Asked if he was an optimist on the business outlook in this country, he smiled and replied: "I have been an optimist all my life and I suppose I shall continue one to the end."

Mr. Insull dismissed other inquiries by telling reporters who met him on shipboard that he had no "interview" for them. He said he had gone abroad merely to accompany Mrs. Insull home.

Countess' Son Secretly Wed; She's Engaged

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Vera, Countess of Cathcart, who some years ago was in conflict with United States immigration authorities, announced tonight her engagement to Sir Rowland Hodge, wealthy shipping baronet. Hodge is aged 71.

Simultaneously, it was revealed that Henry De Gray Warter, 19 years old, son of Lady Cathcart and her first husband, Capt. De Gray Warter, killed in the world war, last week married Miss Mabell Bowers Rean, musical comedy star.

Three years after his marriage Lord Cathcart obtained a divorce, citing the Earl of Craven. In 1923 Lady Cathcart and Lord Craven went to South Africa together, but Lord Craven was reconciled to his wife later.

Born in South Africa.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The countess of Cathcart was denied admission to the United States in 1926, but later the barrier was removed, permitting her to enter with her play, "Ashes of Love."

She was the former Vera Fraser of Cape Town, South Africa. She became the fifth Earl Cathcart's bride in 1919. He was 30 years older than she.

In the United States there were serious objections to the presentation of her play, but in spite of all the publicity, and the fact that she appeared in the play when it was presented at Washington, it failed.

A year ago Vera's 16 year old daughter's engagement was announced. At that time the countess declared, "Romance is the salt of life," in giving her blessing.

Sir Rowland Frederic William Hodge is 71 years old. He is chairman of a large shipbuilding industry as was his father before him. His address is Grosvenor house, Park Lane, and Wentworth, Surrey. He is also Lord Wyfold and was created a baronet in 1921.

Tells of Sacrifices.

Evidence of child sacrifices, conducted by the inhabitants of ancient Kish 2,500 years ago, are discussed in the current issue of Field Museum News by Henry Field, assistant curator of anthropology at the museum.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

In my youth I once was trying to engineer a romance with two fair charmers, who belonged to different churches which I thought were far enough distant so that the two fair ones would never meet. But I reckoned without my hosts. At a young people's convention they met. Each told the other that she had a new beau, that he would attend the convention the next evening. How lovely. It would mean a foursome. They delved into my genealogy in the course of the conversation, and finally got my name. One and the same person! It was right here that the venom of the female proved stronger than the male.

And I, poor innocent lamb of the slaughter, walked right into their trap, to be cut dead at the meeting, with the two of them ARM in ARM!

Now what do you know about that? It happened twenty years ago, but it still smarts! J. K.

Paderewski Plans Tour of U. S.; Says: "I Need Cash"

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept 26.—En route to America on what is believed will be his final concert tour of the United States, Ignace Paderewski arrived in Paris today. He will embark at Havre Oct. 1 on the steamship Paris.

The celebrated Polish pianist, now 70 years old, said:

"I am making this tour of America for the reason I need money. I am a poor man. For the first time I am crossing the Atlantic alone."

Always a friend of poor musicians, and at present caring for six, the exchief of the Polish government has given away practically his entire fortune. He is leaving his wife behind in Switzerland because "she'll never be able to travel again and is suffering from an incurable disease." While in America on his farewell appearance Paderewski intends to give seventy concerts, he said.

Wayman Adams Shows Pictures of Negro Types

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Wayman Adams is back with fun and force in a group of Negro lithographs now to be found in the small picture exhibition in the Hoosier gallery, 211 West Wacker drive. There are four lithographs, each one priceless from the standpoint of humor and craftsmanship, but actually costing twenty-four dollars. That, by the way, price is one of the limiting features of this exhibit. None of the paintings may be more than one hundred dollars.

The drooping lily of the dance floor, the trailing arbutus [but here dark-skinned] who drapes her filmy skirts about the ruggled black of her partner's sturdier limbs, is seen in Mr. Adams' "The Clinging Vine." "The Offering" and "The Hymn" take us into church where we stand with the congregation expelling like enthusiasm and like vapors. "The Word" may or may not be the voicing of the marriage ceremony; the dignified Negro might be in a law-court. The very vagueness of the setting, however, essentially strengthens the message of the sonorous and weighty speaker.

Turning to the work in color we find an extremely lovely still life of yellow roses, a water color with the depth and body of pastel, by Lucie Hartrath on one wall. Miss Hartrath, by the way, is at present painting in Brown county, Ind. Beyond the still life is a colorful and striking canvas by W. E. Musick, "Cathedral at Vera Cruz," vigorous, atmospheric and decorative. The artist himself is at present in Mexico painting.

Olive Rush shows two deliciously delicate and vague studies of young deer. "Gazelles Grazing" is in browns and with a steadying line of white. It is much less vague than the companion painting, "Quiet Spaces," and yet it, as the other, carries a message of ethereal charm. They are delightful interludes of poetry in a matter of fact world.

Among the other paintings of particular import or consequence are "The Farm in Winter" by Edward K. Williams, "Afternoon Glow" by Curry Born, "Still Life" by Helen Woodward and two interiors by Bertha Baxter.

The exhibition will be continued through Oct. 11 and followed by an "Autumn Show" starting about the middle of next month.

Dark Fur for Light Coats, Says Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Contrast, so far as color is concerned, has completely overwhelmed those agile minds that make Paris fashions. Dresses differ with coats on the color question. Waists differ from skirts, to which they are firmly attached by machine stitching or determined hand work. Trimmings take on a hue at variance with the coat or dress they adorn.

This last statement is particularly true of the fur trimmings that appear on all the fashion bred coats of fall. If your coat is dark red—and it well may be this fall—it will be trimmed with brown, black, or gray fur. If your coat is any other dark color, the fur that adds warmth and luxury to it is apt to be light, and if your coat is light in color, then by all means the fur on it should be dark and rich.

Madeleine Vionnet originally inaugurated the light coat and dark fur fashion, and, girls, she has persuaded her richest and most elegant clients to wear it. Beige with dark brown astrakan or mink is a good light and dark color scheme for the coat. Smoky gray with black or darkest brown is another. Dark blue with gray is a reversal that will be extensively worn.

The coat shown in our sketch is a light castor shade and is trimmed with dark brown astrakan, a charming and practical color combination. The silhouette of this coat is one of the best and most conservative Paris is offering for fall. It has a definite waist and skirt, like a dress, divided by a belt of the suede-wool which makes it.

The waist of this coat has a standing collar bordered with astrakan, and beginning under the collar are two cloth revers that descend on to the opening of the coat below the waist line. The big cuffs are also bordered by astrakan. The model is from Philippe et Gaston.

Clever Wife Lets Her Husband Think He's Doing as He Pleases

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My husband suddenly acquired a taste for liquor and another girl. I found out about her and settled the affair as far as she is concerned. Understand there was nothing but a friendship there as he saw her only a few times each month during a whole year.

"We decided to start all over again and forget everything. But I find it hard to believe in him again. I do love him, though, and want things to turn out right. He has changed a good deal. We've begen married five years. He has to work two night a week and could get home at a reasonable hours, but hangs around the city for hours after his is through. He doesn't ask me to trust or forgive him. He just thinks I should let him do as he pleases and ask no questions. It puzzles me. PUZZLED."

Well, why don't you let him think he is doing as he pleases, as a lot of clever women are managing their sometimes unruly halves? If you draw that kind of man you have to handle him in his own particular way. He won't answer to commands like a docile child, nor will he respond to loud beratings. You've got a "case" study on your hands and you'd better study it carefully.

The alcohol clause in the problem complicates things, and possibly explains the late homecomings. But if the taste is a recently acquired one, the situation is no so difficult. It might even be dissipated with a new found companionship with you which you will have to subscribe to in terms of faith real and hearty.

You can make yourself believe you have faith in the fellow just as well as you can make yourself believe that you haven't it. By thinking it and keeping on thinking it. Try it anyway and see if it doesn't work.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

ABOUT CHANGING SHRUBS.

Wintry winds have begun to bluster over the lake front, but it is not yet the proper time to transplant small trees and shrubs, according to Carl Poppe, forester of Lincoln park. There he has been landscape gardening for 20 years.

"Wait until after the first severe frost," he advises home owners who will want to change their landscaping this fall. Then it will be proper to change shrubbery and the smaller trees, knowing that the sap will have been drawn down out of twigs and branches. As for the larger trees, he says, replanting them should wait until the ground has been frozen hard so that a large part of the root system can be lifted in what is called a "frost ball" and placed in a hole dug large enough to permit no cramping of the roots.

If the work cannot be accomplished this fall, Mr. Poppe reports, it can be accomplished in the spring after the ground has thawed out but before leaves come out in full growing activity. The Lincoln park symtem forestry is supervised by this man, who has spent a lifetime in learning the growing habits of shrubs and trees.

Evergreen planting time practically is past, as the best time of the year for changing them around is in August and early September, Mr. Poppe says. He has been interested for many years in trying various types of this tree in the Chicago area, finding that soil conditions and soil types, differences in climatic conditions, due to whether the planting area is near or far from the lake, and presence of smoke and soot in the air have much to do with this type of tree.

Two Debuts, Two Weddings Set for Today

BY THALIA

Like the preceding Saturdays of September today is given over to brides and debutantes.

The debutantes are to be Miss Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cornelius Smith; and Miss Katherine Eleanor Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Roberts of Highland Park.

The brides are to be Miss Frances Ellison, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Hamilton Ellison of Evanston who is to become Mrs. Ayres Boal Jr., and Miss Beatrice Ripley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Ripley of Winnetka, who is to be married to Frank Allen Baker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen Baker of Kansas City, Mo.

The Ellison-Boal wedding service will be read at 5 o'clock at the Winnetka Congregational church. Afterwards there is to be a small reception at the Winnetka Woman's club.

Miss Ellison's sister, Mrs. Edward H. Naylor, is to be matron of honor. Miss Sally Windes and Miss Henrietta Boal will be the bridesmaids. Stewart Boal will be best man for his brother.

Mis Ripley and Mr. Baker are to make their marriage vows at 4 o'clock in the garden of the Ripley residence, if the weather is auspicious. Miss Ruth Taylor of Pelham, N. Y., will be maid of honor and Miss Mary Van Etten of Grand Rapids, Mich., is to be the only other attendant. Mr. Baker's brother, Rea, is to be his best man, and John Langhorne of Morristown, N. J., John Boles of Philadelphia, Herbert Stratford of Bethlehem, Pa., and Hampton and Wilder Ripley will usher.

Miss Smith's debut reception will take place at the Lake Forest residence of her parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are to introduce their daughter at their house and are giving a dinner-dance afterwards at the Exmoor Country club.

There are to be, it seems, more pairs of sisters making their debut this winter than ever before. Miss Jane Lawrence's younger sister, Mildred, has now decided that she prefers to stay home and come out with her sister to returning to her studies at Ogontz. The girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence of Evanston. They are coming in town for the winter and will be at the Seneca hotel. Miss Mildred has been at Smith college for the last two years. The other sisters include Katherine and Jeanne' Street, and Barbara and Dorothy Senn.

Mrs. Benjamin Leslie Behr and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler are in New York City seeing their respective daughters, Edith Behr and Eleanor Wheeler, sail for a year of study at Miss Risser's in Rome. Eleanor Wheeler very nearly went for a long stay in the hospital instead of to school this year, because of her accident at the steeplechase last Saturday. Florence Carr, Robert F. Carr's daughter, is also with the dozen girls who are sailing for Italy today under the chaperonage of Miss Risser herself.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Forgan, William Welch, John Norton, H. F. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Boyden, and F. C. Corley are among those who have made reservations for the "Indian summer" party at the Tavern club tonight.

Miss Jane Addams and Miss Mary Rozet Smith have left Hulls Cove, Me., There they spend their summers. They are staying in New York City for a few days before coming on to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison Dick, whose marriage took place on Tuesday last, are sailing next Tuesday on the steamship Empress of Scotland from Quebec for a European honeymoon. Mrs. Dick was Miss Jane Warner.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Affleck are to give a musical at the Arts club tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The program is to be given by Natalie Hall, Bettina Hall, and Charles Hedley, who were formerly with the American Opera company, and are now in "Three Little Girls" at the Great Northern theater.

Mrs. Joseph H. Defrees has closed Shorelands, her summer place at Camden, and is on her way back to Chicago.

Carlos C. Drake, who returned to Paris after bringing his family to this country last spring, arrived in Chicago yesterday and is spending the weekend with his parents, the Tracy C. Drakes, at Aloha lodge at Lake Geneva.

Dr. and Mrs. G. Griffith Lewis of Syracuse, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian Foster Lewis, to Payson Sibley Wild Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Payson S. Wild of 1149 East 56th street. Miss Lewis studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York, and is now doing special work in music at Syracuse university. She is a member of the Junior league. Mr. Wild was graduated from the University of Wisconsin and is now studying for his Ph. D. at Harvard.

JUNIOR LEAGUER ENGAGED

MISS ANNA CATHERINE HURD.

[Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyd Hurd of 932 Edgmere court, Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Anna Catherine, to Howard J. Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Keller of 6171 Sheridan road. Miss Hurd is a graduate of the Chicago Latin School for Girls, and spent 2 years studying abroad. She made her debut in 1925, and is chairman of the Junior league's advertising committee. She has just returned from 8 months of travel in Europe. Mr. Keller was graduated from Yale in 1927. No date has been set for the wedding.

MARJORIE F. DRIVER.

[Gibson Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Driver of 1038 Loyola avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Frances, to Dudley Woodbridge Lester II., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Woodbridge Lester of Wilmette. The wedding will take place on Oct. 28.

Fall Fashions Offer Browns, Blacks, Greens

Fall suits, both of the two and three piece variety, are being worn by society women for luncheons, etc. Brown, green and black in the heavier woolen mixtures and in tweeds are the favored colors.

Mrs. Alden B. Swift is wearing an emerald green basket weave coat made on trimly fitted lines with a narrow leather belt at the waistline, a flaring skirt with diagonal closing and a shawl collar of mink.

At the wedding on Tuesday of Miss Jane Warner to Edison Dick, Mrs. Swift wore under this coat a two-piece crêpe dress figured in green, black, and white with knife plaits at the neckline and at the hem of both the blouse and skirt. Her hat was of black felt with a narrow brim and her large bag of pin seal was of the same bright green as her coat.

Mrs. John Dern, who was Miss Jean MacLeish before her wedding last Saturday, has among the traveling apparel in her trousseau a brick red ensemble consisting of a full length coat, belted and flared and collared in badger and a crêpe dress to match. The hat worn with this costume is a small off-the-face felt of the same shade.

Miss Dorothy Moorehead is wearing a royal blue suit with a short jacket bordered in narrow bands of Persian lamb and a black felt beret. Miss Ann Small wears a soft gray two-piece suit with fluffy gray fox collar and cuffs. Her hat of the same shade is a variation of the beret with a small ribbon bow in front.

Velvet is taking the place of crêpe for afternoon wear. Miss Emily Lynde, the young aviatrix, was seen at a wedding last week wearing a long sleeved brown velvet dress with a bolero and narrow lace collar and cuffs and a skirt widened at the bottom by godets. Her hat of matching velvet is made with a brim crushed in front and flaring at the back and sides.

Overgrown Child Especially Needs Love and Guidance

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A list of books to be read to children and by them will be sent by Mrs Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Often letters say, as this one does, "Won't you write something on this or that subject?" And they proceed to write so well on the subject themselves that, for a short discussion, it is entirely adequate, and can be allowed to speak for itself. You see, when a subject is close to a person's heart or experience, what he or she has to say about it is not only to the point but eloquent—as is this letter on the overly tall girl or boy:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Won't you please write something for the mothers of tall boys and girls?

"It has always seemed to me that children above the average in height must suffer in silence. It is suffering, too. I think the unpleasant things about being too tall hurt girls much more than boys. A word of consolation or advice from a parent would be balm to the boy or girl I am sure.

The child will never complain about what he goes through because he is usually too sensitive about his height even to bring up the subject. The parent, then, must go about bolstering him up in a tactful, roundabout way in order to really do any good.

"Perhaps the most permanent harm that can come of the child's attitude is the fact that he will bend over in order to appear shorter. This causes hunched shoulders or a habit of standing crooked. When the child grows up and realizes the futility and harm of being doubled over he either is somewhat deformed or else the habit of standing that way is almost too far gone to break.

"I know how it is for I am a tall girl myself."

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. James Dill Melville of East Orange, N. J., formerly of Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to De Witt Young of Montclair, N. J. Miss Melville is a graduate of Northwestern university, class of 1927, and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Young was graduated from Princeton in 1922.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guests the American ambassador to Germany and Mrs. Sackett, who have been at the Mayflower for a day or two. Mrs. Sackett accompanied Mrs. Hoover to the army carnival at the army war college this afternoon. Tonight President and Mrs. Hoover had a small company for dinner to meet them.

Mrs. Gann was the guest of honor at the bridge tea this afternoon at the army carnival. At that affair Mrs. Hurley, wife of the secretary of war, assisted by Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, wife of the assistant secretary of war, presided at the tea table.

Justice James C. McReynolds went this week to Hot Springs, Va., to remain until the opening of the sessions of the United States Supreme court Oct. 6.

Announcement was made here today of the engagement of Miss Marjorie Hannay, younger daughter of Col. John R. R. Hannay, stationed at San Francisco, to Julius Kahn Jr., son of the late representative from California, and of the present representative, Florence P. Kahn of San Francisco. Mr. Kahn makes his home in Washington just now. She is a granddaughter of the late Lieut. Gen. S. B. M. Young.

Dr. G. K. Burgess, director of the bureau of standards, entertained at luncheon yesterday in his honor at the Cosmos club. Orville Wright, pioneer of aviation development in this country, came from Ohio to attend the luncheon.

Baron Shiba, member of the house of peers of Japan, who has been here for a few days, left last night for New York after the dinner given in his honor by the Japanese ambassador and Mme. Debuchi.

Calfskin Handbags $5

Roomy

What would a new fall suit be without a new bag? Women fashion-wise in accessories select several at this remarkably low price. They like their size, slightly larger than last year; their leather, genuine calfskin; their style, envelope, others with swagger top handles; and their flatness with roominess. They're especially good for the business woman and shopper. $5.

First Floor, South, State.

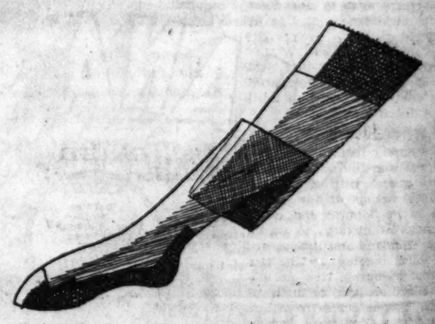
Gloves—Suede or Kid $2.50

Special Sale

These gloves are a very special buy, and most unusual at this price. They come in the most fashionable daytime leathers—kidskin and suede, also capeskin. They fasten with a single clasp, and may be had in the smart fall colors. Alert women are selecting not one but several pairs from this great variety of gloves, priced at $2.50.

First Floor, North, State.

Dull Chiffon Hosiery $1.65



Special Sale

Dull chiffon hosiery, but far from dull in fashion and price. Full-fashioned, silk to top, with picot edge, and French heel. They're a sensible buy, too, for there are lisle reinforcements, where the strain is greatest. Their dullness is there to stay. A wide assortment of new fall shades, slightly darker in color. Seldom will you find such a value at $1.65 pair.

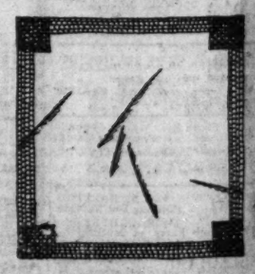
First Floor, North, State.

Linen Handkerchiefs

25c

35c

50c



Dainty

Quite the neatest, and by all odds the favorites as 'kerchiefs go. Their sheerness and utter femininity make them an important part of the romantic period. Some are all white linen, some white with touch of color, and others colored—some boast of hand embroidery and others of hand spoking. If you are at all far-sighted, you'll buy several. One sketched, 50c.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atmore, Pa., Sept. 26.—Bobby Jones managed to dissemble his love for his old friend, Jesse Sweetser, in the semifinal round of the National Amateur Golf championship at the Merion Cricket club today, beating him 9 up and 8 to play, in a 36-hole match.

The other semifinal contest was one of those affairs of youth versus age. Eugene Homans, 22, formerly of Princeton university, and son of Shep Homans, an old Princeton football star, pitted the wisdom and experience of his years against the vigor and youthful recklessness of Charlie Seaver, who is only 19. Seaver led Homans, 5 up, at the end of the morning round of 18 holes, and held some sort of lead all the way from the second hole in the morning until the 35th in the afternoon.

12,000 Watch Homans Win.

Homans squared the score on the 35th green and won the match, 1 up, on the final green, with a mob of possibly 12,000 victims of the mania thundering up the fairway like some panicky exodus of history, to watch the killings. Homans and Seaver are said to be bound together by the ties of a beautiful friendship, too, so victory was a sad delight to both of the winners. Seaver comes from Los Angeles and is a freshman and a football candidate at Stanford university.

Jones, now grown very plump, will set out over the ground again at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to put Homans in his place, which would seem to be second place, and complete a personal monopoly of all four of the great championships of golf. He now holds the current open and amateur championships of Great Britain, and the American open championship. Inasmuch as Mr. Jones has been beaten only six times in 13 seasons in 36 hole matches in tournament play, the last time in 1926, the monopoly is almost official now.

Friends Start Celebrating.

There were sounds of revelry echoing through the still suburbs of Philadelphia this evening as personal friends of Mr. Jones and other devoted friends totally unknown to him, anticipated his triumph in long drawn, harmonious chords of song.

Although Mr. Jones suffered some mild ill health due to nervous tension when he was playing in the big British tournaments earlier in the year and was slightly inconvenienced by a recurrence here last week as he awaited the final competition of his greatest year, he has now recovered and, except for reasonable fatigue, is in good condition.

The semi-final rounds were played in muggy heat, unrelieved by any cloud or breeze, but all four players and the galloping horde of customers bore up gamely. It was o.. this golf course that Bobby first appeared in a national tournament in 1916, and if he should win the equivalent of the world championship of golf Saturday, there probably will be some new and startling effects in private and public jubilation. There is a strong suspicion that the plump young Georgia barrister will decide to curtail his tournament activities after this year. Thus far, however, l. only announces that he has nothing to announce regarding his plans.

Jesse Beat Bobby in 1926.

Sweetser beat Jones in a 36 hole match at Brookline, Mass., in 1926 and went on to win the amateur championship. But today he was four down when they left the fifth green and the match seemed to be losing the aspect of a contest that early. Then Bobby hit one out of bounds on the seventh, losing the hole and missed a putt on the ninth and tenth, while Jess played even golf. So Mr. Jones was only one up.

Jess might have squared the match

JUST A WORKOUT FOR SAMMY

LOYOLA ROMPS OVER CARROLL FOR 43-12 WIN

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Loyola university began its football season last night by sweeping aside the Carroll college eleven, 43 to 12. Seven thousand spectators gathered under the arc lights which flooded the north side gridiron and were treated to a game replete with long runs and whirlwind passes.

Les Molloy, Loyola's big left half back, dominated the contest from the time he swept wide around the end for the first touchdown of the evening until he battered his way off tackle and over the goal line for the final score in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter. He made four of Loyola's seven touchdowns.

Second Team Carries on.

But Molloy wasn't the only player who brought the spectators to their feet. After he had scored three times to give Loyola a lead of 18 to 6, the second team was put in. Late in the second quarter they were marching toward the fourth touchdown when a penalty cost them five yards and put the ball on the twenty yard line. Then Murphy dropped far back and whipped a pass to Drugay, who leaped into the air and brought it down behind the goal line.

Another big moment came on the first play of the third quarter when Stadler got loose for 62 yards and a touchdown after a wide swing around right end. That made it 30 to 6.

Goerke Runs 45 Yards to Score.

A few minutes later Goerke of Carroll electrified the crowd by finding a hole in the center of the line and getting away for 45 yards and a touchdown.

In the last quarter Murphy and Molloy plunged over for Loyola's last two tallies. Lineup:

LOYOLA.		CARROLL.
McNeil	R.E.	Smith
Clancy	R.T.	Gallup
Nolan	R. G.	Schmidt
Wasco	C.	West
Poppelreiter	L.G.	Lavurdure

Mandell Whips Herman with Ease; Wins All Eight Rounds

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Sammy Mandell's eight round fight with Tommy Herman at the Coliseum last night turned out to be a gymnasium workout. The former lightweight champion, making his second start in the 147 pound class, won all eight rounds. Herman provided practically no opposition and the 4,000 who watched the bout, many of them Sammy's followers, must wait until another occasion to estimate their favorite's chances in the welterweight division. Mandell weighed 144½ pounds.

Floors Herman in First Round.

Possibly Sammy has lost a degree of his former speed. Perhaps his left does not snap forward in the same darting jab with which he won from Rocky Kansas at Comiskey park. But it was all the same to Tommy Herman last night. At no time could he penetrate Sammy's defense and every time he rushed, Mandell's left hand blocked the way.

The times Tommy landed could be counted on both hands. At no time did he connect solidly and there were several rounds when he didn't attempt to fight but plunged forward to clinch and hold.

In the first round Mandell smashed a short right to the jaw and Herman went to the floor for a count of four. In the seventh Sammy ducked one of Hermans' wild swings and the west side lad dropped to his knees from his own effort.

Can't Time His Right.

While Mandell had complete control he couldn't time his right. A half dozen times he pressed forward intent on improving his markmanship and in the final round, when he failed once again, he turned aside exasperated.

The receipts were estimated at $7,000. Mandell received 25 per cent of the net while Herman fought for 12½ per cent.

O'Dowd Whips Ted Ross.

Tuffy O'Dowd, Pocatello, Idaho, won the eight round semi-windup with Ted Ross of South Chicago. Tuffy varied the style to which Ross long has been accustomed. When he hit Ted he failed to stand in one spot long enough to permit a return of the compliment. Hence the decision.

Ross went along willingly but it was so much wasted effort in the main. The boys were exceedingly clubby, carrying on a spirited conversation while Tuffy stuck out his tongue in schoolboy fashion when Ted's wildest swings missed their mark.

Harry Fierro, a rather complacent bantamweight recently complimented by the rating of the National Boxing association, found he had hooked a young wildcat from South Bend, Ind., in Georgie Nate. Young Nate went down for a nine count in the first round but managed to weather Harry's attack until he regained complete possession of his faculties in the third. From then on it was nip and tuck with Nate giving just a bit more than he took to pull up on even terms at the end of eight rounds.

Leberto Outpoints Levine.

Paul Leberto outpointed Sammy Levine in six rounds. The west side rivals from the Golden Gloves team met at 119 pounds. Leberto scored a knockdown in the first round, but the bell halted the count at six. In subsequent periods Levine fought back more readily, but Paul still held the Indian sign from the amateur days when he frequently defeated Levine.

Nick Broglio, a willing lightweight from the coalfields of Herrin, Ill., caused Prince Saunders no end of trouble with his weaving and ducking, but the colored boy won the decision in six very fast rounds.

Joie Bozak and Herbie Derex fought four rounds to a draw in the opening bout. They are featherweights.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday got two big loads off their minds. While they were being removed from all mathematical chance to succeed themselves as National league champions, they also were clinching second place by beating the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 5.

Two weeks ago the contest would have been a big thriller. Yesterday it was just another ball game, although some 10,000 gals, the last ladies' day mob of the season, were loyal to the end, shrieking and giving the groundkeeper a lot of work by scattering hand made confetti all over the premises.

Wilson Hits No. 54.

The guests didn't have to stretch their imaginations so much to find something to squeal about at that, for Hack Wilson drove in the victory margin with his 54th homer as the climax of a four run rally with which the Cubs came from behind in the seventh inning, and there were several other stirring events.

In addition to progressing 11 homers ahead of the old National league record, Hack drove in three runs during the afternoon, increasing his major league record for runs batted in to 184, nine runs better than Lou Gehrig's old record.

If you have been anxious as to whether or not Hack would become the new home run king, relax, for the pudgy one now is seven homers ahead of the old king, Babe Ruth, and Babe has only two more games to play, the same number that Hack will play.

Blair Gets 3 Hits.

One of the several features of the performance was the hitting of Clarence Blair, who apparently has started an early campaign to make Manager Hornsby keep himself on the bench. Clarence scored the first run of the game after singling in the first inning and the second run after doubling in the third. Then, with the Cubs behind, 5 to 3, and one on in the seventh, Clarence tripled to the scoreboard and came on home with the tying run when the relay throw wound up in the Cub dugout.

The game started with Blair's single. English singled to right, putting Blair on third and Blair scored and Woody went to second when Benton cut off Heilmann's throw in and made a bum heave past third. Cuyler grounded to Benton and English was run down between third and second.

Cardinals' Sprint to Pennant Outdoes Drive of '14 Braves

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There have been other finishes, both sensational and unexpected, in the big league pennant dashes, but the Cardinals, just now priming themselves for official entry in the impending world series, appear to have established a precedent for speed.

Sixteen seasons ago a rather nondescript assortment of Boston Braves got started from nowhere and didn't quit until a world's championship had followed the winning of a pennant. Since then all pennant drives have been gauged by what that team accomplished. From now on the Cardinals of 1930 will be used for comparison. They have moved so swiftly and covered so much ground that the splurge of George Stallings' 1914 team is relegated to the status of just one of those things.

Braves Started in August.

On the morning of Aug. 9, 1914, the Braves, who until early in July were looked upon in the same light as a Braves' team is looked upon in the present day, were 6½ games behind first place. It was refreshing to see an outsider sneak in on the cream that for years had been sipped by Chicago, New York or Pittsburgh. The country began to take interest in this unexpected happening and when the Braves finally landed the flag, followed by four straight victories over Mack's great machine, there was general satisfaction.

On Aug. 9 this season the Cardinals were milling around in the dust kicked up by three teams preceding them toward the goal. From their fourth position the Cards could look down the track and get a faint glimpse of the leading Robins, who were only 12 games away. They were 6½ laps behind the Giants, who were running third at that moment. The Cards were thinking, not of a pennant but of doing well enough to avoid the humiliation of a second division berth.

Make Modest Beginning.

About the middle of August the Cardinals began to assemble for what developed into the big push. It started modestly, so much so that nobody gave them much serious thought so far as a flag was concerned. It was a matter of whether the Cubs, the Robins, or the Giants would emerge successfully from a three cornered fight.

With the end of August the Cardinals had done well enough to hoist themselves from fourth to third place. They had cut down by more than half the 12 games that had separated them from the leaders early in the month. They closed in by virtue of 20 victories against 6 defeats.

Get Going Labor Day.

The rush toward the top became serious after the happenings of Labor day, Sept. 1. The Cards rose up that day and defeated their Nemesis, Pittsburgh, in both ends of the holiday double header. They tightened their hold on third place and were only 4½ games from the top. From then on there was no stopping them.

Read their record for September:

Here's some more figures that carry out the idea that the Cards set a pace that may never be equaled. On Aug. 1 their record was 49 victories and 49 defeats. They were 11 games behind the top place Robins. On Aug. 15 Gabby Street's men had improved their record to 60 wins and 53 defeats. This put them eight games back of the Cubs, who then were leading. After they had whipped the Pirates twice on Sept. 1 the budding champions' percentage for the season was 73 wins and 55 defeats.

Gabby Street Earns a Place on Hero Bench

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The baseball world tonight hailed a new "miracle man."

GABBY STREET.

Charles [Gabby] Street earned the title today when he brought his St. Louis Cardinals triumphantly through one of the most heated National league pennant races on record, and took a place alongside George Stallings, manager of the Boston Braves in 1914, as one of baseball's immortals.

Two years ago Street came out of the bush leagues to give the majors a whirl. In 1929 he was a Cardinal coach, but his word carried little weight in team management, and his principal duties consisted of taking care of Grover Cleveland Alexander and keeping him on the "straight and narrow."

Came 1930 and Gabby got his big chance. That he has made the most of it is shown by the pennant he has won his first year as a big league manager, and the fact he has a contract for another year with a boost in salary.

Street has kept fighting in the face of disheartening breaks all season. His task was an uphill pull from the start, since players and umpires alike considered him a busher at the beginning of the season. His team didn't look good to the experts, but he was optimistic.

When it appeared Cardinal players were taking Street seriously, President Sam Breadon, early in August, announced his selection as pilot for another year. That apparently was a master stroke and largely as a result of it the team spurted.

Street has proved a tireless and courageous worker. He has been a strict disciplinarian. His strategical moves on the baseball field nearly all have been to the good. His selection of pinch hitters and relief hurlers during the last eastern road trip that practically clinched the pennant for the Cards stamped him as an excellent judge of his players.

To Street goes the credit for making a brilliant hurler of Wild Bill Hallahan. The southpaw lacked confidence and Gabby gave it to him.

Street was born in Alabama 47 years ago. His home now is Joplin, Mo. He gained fame while a battery mate of Walter Johnson as a member of the Washington Senators from 1907 to 1912. Gabby came to the Cardinals from the Knoxville team of the Sally league, where he was manager in 1928.

CUBS SOX, TO PLAY FIRST CITY SERIES GAME WEDNESDAY

A city series between Cubs and the White Sox will begin at Comiskey park next Wednesday.

The White Sox, who lost the city title, 4 games to 3, in the series of 1928, challenged the Cubs immediately on receipt of the result of the Cardinal-Pirate game in St. Louis, through which the Cardinals won the National league championship. The Cubs accepted the challenge.

Secretary Harry Grabiner of the White Sox, who challenged President William Veeck, as representative of the Cubs, announced that world series rules will prevail throughout. The first two games will be played in the American league park and the next three in the National league park.

Tickets will be placed on sale at both ball parks tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and at the loop ticket offices of the two clubs Monday morning. Regular season prices, $1.50 for box seats and $1.00 for general admission, will prevail.

St. Louis, Sept. 26.—(AP)—It's the Cardinals versus the Athletics in the world series.

The Red Birds today qualified to uphold the honor of the National league against the Philadelphia Athletics, American league champions, in this year's baseball classic by slugging out a 10 to 5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and clinching the 1930 league pennant, the St. Louis club's third in the last five seasons.

Although Chicago defeated Cincinnati today, the Cubs are three full games behind St. Louis and, with only two more games to play, the Cardinals could lose both and still win the flag.

Haines Pitches Victory.

Despite chilly weather that smacked of football days, some 10,000 howling fans went wild as the Red Birds climaxed their sensational drive that lifted them from a poor fourth to first place in the closing weeks of the season.

To Jesse Haines, dean of the Cardinal hurling staff and a veteran of the Redbirds' two other world series campaigns, fell the honor of clinching this year's pennant. Haines outpitched Ervin Brame of the Pirates to chalk up the Cardinals' 21st victory in the last 24 games. Since Aug. 1 the Cardials have won 43 of 55 games and have boosted their percentage mark more than 100 points.

While Haines was none too steady today, his mates backed him up with the same heavy slugging that has been a big factor in their victorious drive down the stretch.

Score Seven in Fourth.

One big inning, the fourth, was all the Cardinals needed, seven runs rattling across the plate before the side could be retired. A home run by Watkins was mixed with hits by Hafey, Mancuso, Gelbert, Douthit, Frisch, and Bottomley to bring in the seven tallies.

The remainder of the Cardinals' scoring was done in the sixth. A single by Haines, Adams' double, a triple by Frisch, and Bottomley's double resulted in three runs.

The Pirates started off as though they might delay the Cardinals' pennant clinching program. Paul Waner hit a home run into the right center field pavilion in the third, scoring Brame, who had singled. They picked up another run in the fifth on a walk to Dugas, Paul Waner's single, and an infield out.

Suhr Hits Homer.

Gus Suhr scored Pittsburgh's fourth run in the sixth with a homer into the right field pavilion, and the Pirates' last run came in the seventh when Paul Waner walked, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Grantham's single.

Haines held the Pirates to eight hits, while St. Louis gathered sixteen.

In contrast to the Cardinals' other two pennant victories, downtown St. Louis showed little concern when the flag was clinched today.

Tomorrow the Cardinals will be fêted with a parade and celebration that will be a fitting honor to a team that made one of the most sensational dashes to a pennant in the National league history.

IS HONEY LOCUST FAST? JUST ASK BLACK DIAMOND

Big Brown Mare Wins Inland Lake Purse.

Nine in Handicap

THE Lincoln Fields racing season of 30 days will end this afternoon with the running of the $10,000 added Marquette handicap, a dash at a mile and an eighth.

Nine were named in the overnight field and Lady Broadcast was the favorite at 2 to 1, with Pansy Walker, a 3 year old daughter of Sir Gallahad III, second choice. There was considerable support for Pigeon Hole and My Dandy. The field, arranged in the order of post positions, follows:

Horse.	Wt.	Jockeys.	Odds.
Plucky Play	107	D. Trivett	20-1
Culloden	101	E. James	15-1
Pigeon Hole	113	R. Finnerty	5-1
Golden Prince	107	L. Whitacre	15-1
Lady Broade't	116	No boy	2-1
Karl Eitel	106	J. Kellum	10-1
My Dandy	113	M. Knight	6-1
Reveille Boy	103	W. Frank	6-1
Pansy Walker	113	T. May	5-2

BY FRENCH LANE.

Honey Locust from the Camden stable scored an easy victory in the Inland Lake purse, which featured the racing program at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

The daughter of Light Brigade-Honey Dew toyed with the opposition. She jumped into the lead when Starter Morrisey released the barrier. She stayed there and was galloping at the end when she led Black Diamond home by a length. Calf Roper, although quite a way back of the two leaders, managed to save third money.

There are few more consistent racers than Honey Locust. She has paraded to the post 26 times this year and on 20 occasions she has been in the money. She has won six engagements, three during the Lincoln Fields meet.

Runs in Long Strides.

Honey Locust is a large brown mare, goes about her racing engagements in great long strides, and seems to have a heart that will carry her on to more noble deeds.

Honey Locust was an odds-on favorite in the betting and rewarded her followers at $3.30 for each two dollars invested. From the time Jockey James sent her to the front she was in complete charge of affairs. Blushing Maiden challenged her and dropped far back. So did Black Diamond and Calf Roper and Who Win, but as each moved up with a menacing bid Honey Locust put on more speed and was running away from all of them at the finish.

She ran the half in :46. She was at the three-quarters around the turn in 1:12 1-5. She rounded out the seven-eighths in 1:25 1-5 over a track that was a bit slow.

Dr. Parrish Victor.

In the Hotel Baker purse Dr. Parrish another Kentuckian, also a son of Light Brigade, wound up the mile dash by beating Brown Brutus by three lengths. This was the first race here in which he showed his real speed. He sailed into the lead on the turn and held it. Pretty Pose was heavily backed, but she had been put into company that was too fast for her, and while she showed speed in the early stages was far back when the real battle came in the stretch.

Pretty Pose was ridden by Jockey W. Johns and her defeat was a bitter blow to the Ralph Gallet stable, which had won the first race with Toney's Star. She never threatened Dr. Parrish nor Brown Brutus and Buddy Basil, which finished second and third.

EAST AURORA IS 53 TO 0 VICTOR OVER WHEATON

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—East Aurora administered Wheaton High its first defeat in three years here tonight, 53 to 0. Foster and Schindelbeck were the scoring combination for the victors. Burlington and Bowen Elevens Play 0-0 Tie

Burlington, Ia., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Bowen High school of Chicago and Burlington High played a scoreless tie here Friday night in the first game of the season for the local team. Burlington had a decided edge throughout the game and had the ball in Bowen territory most of the time. Burlington made thirteen first downs and Bowen seven. The offensive work of Coulter, Burlington full back, was the feature of the game.

Allison, Van Ryn Win in Pacific Southwest Net Play

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Displaying the best game they have shown in the Pacific southwest tennis championships, Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and Johnny Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., today won their way to the finals in the men's doubles by defeating Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, and Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Blair Starts Rally Again.

Blair started the third with a double to left and English walked. Cuyler singled to right, scoring Blair, but English again was run down between third and second. Cuyler stole second and went on to third when Gooch threw the ball into center field. Ki scored when Hack got a wind tossed single back of first base. Dan Taylor forced Hack and Hartnett fouled to Gooch.

During the first five innings Blake had held the Reds to two hits, both doubles, but in the sixth he weakened and the Reds chased across two runs on two singles, a wild pitch, a walk and a sacrifice fly.

In the seventh, Blake's last inning, the visitors made three runs to take a 5 to 3 lead. Durocher started it with a homer into the center field bleacher. Benton fanned, but Swanson beat out a bouncer to Bell and scored on Meusel's double to left center. Crawford singled to center, scoring Meusel. There was no further damage.

Grimm Tries Delay.

As the Cubs went to bat in the seventh rain was falling and Capt. Grimm sought to delay things with an argument at the plate, the idea being that if it had rained hard enough to stop the game the score would have reverted to the sixth, making the Cubs victors, 3 to 2, in stead of losers, 5 to 3.

Umpire Pfirman halted the plot by chasing Capt. Grimm and Stevie went to the plate to bat for Blake. He singled to right and Teachout was put on first to run for him. Blair then knocked the ball over Center Fielder Swanson's head for a triple, scoring Teachout. Durocher took the relay and threw the ball into the Cub dugout, permitting Blair to walk home with the tying run. Cuyler singled and came home ahead of Wilson when Hack lined the ball over the right field screen for his 54th homer. Dan Taylor walked and went to third on Hartnett's single but Kelly fanned and Bell popped to Ford.

Bush pitched the last two innings and escaped trouble, although he walked the first two batsmen to face him.

State Hatchery to Boost Stock of Silver Bass

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen in the state of Illinois will welcome the news that the conservation department is going to boost the stock of white bass and make more of these game fish available for anglers by producing them in a hatchery.

The Spring Grove hatchery in northern Illinois is the "fish plant" in this section that is planning to devote space and attention to the handsome white or silver bass, according to Ed St. Clair, the district game warden, who has supervision over it. A rearing pond has been set aside for the species and breeding stock for it will be secured this fall. If all goes well there should be a large number of fingerling "whiteys" to stock our lakes with by the end of next summer.

We visited the Spring Grove hatchery a few days ago to see how the state is rehabilitating the equipment and also to map the hatchery grounds for bird houses and feeding stations, as it is the plan of St. Clair to raise fish and provide a sanctuary for bird life at the same time.

The ponds are being improved with the construction of concrete retaining walls. As soon as they are completed water will be turned into them and then they will be stocked with adult fish of several species. Bluegills, crappies, white bass, and black bass are the species which will be produced in the rearing ponds.

The move to do something with the white bass is a happy one. This fish is hardy, grows rapidly, puts up a pretty good fight, and can be taken with either live bait or artificial lures. Formerly it was quite abundant in this state. In Indiana it has flourished remarkably well in the artificial lakes formed in the Tippecanoe river.

Anglers consider it a pretty sporty proposition. Wisconsin also has a lot of these white or silver bass which are true bass, being members of the Serranidæ family.

JEWEL ENS TO GUIDE PIRATES AGAIN IN 1931

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Jewel Ens will manage the Pittsburgh Pirates again next year, he said this afternoon at the second Cardinal-Pirate game when questioned about his future. Ens said while no new contract has been signed with Barney Dreyfuss' club, terms had been agreed upon for a one year contract.

40 INJURED WHEN STAND FALLS AT OHIO PREP GAME

Columbus, O., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Between forty and fifty persons were injured when a grandstand collapsed at the Central High school football field here tonight. About 3,000 persons, mostly students, were seated in the stand when it fell, during a game between Youngstown Chaney High and Columbus Central.

Ambulances were called to take the more seriously injured to hospitals. The game was resumed as soon as the victims were removed from the field.

JONES TO MEET HOMANS TODAY IN GOLF FINAL

Bobby Nears 4th Major Title of Year.

at the 11th, for Bobby drove into some realistic rough and took a five. But Jess put his ball into a trap and wasted two coming out. Bobby tossed one hole back at the 12th, where for the third time he took three putts, but he took it back with a birdie three on the 15th, being thus 2 up again. Sweetser was trapped on the 17th and 18th, and Bobby was four up when they went to change clothes.

The athletes and the customers were a clammy lot by now, stewing in their juice by the heat of the sun, and as most of the customers had nowhere to store a change of shoes, not having guest cards but only admission tickets, the gait of the mob was becoing a decided limp. Smooth soles slide on slick fairways and shin splints were slowing down many gallant gallopers.

22d Is Turning Point.

Jess hooked out of bounds on the 20th, losing the hole, but Bobby gave it back on the short 21st when his drive missed the green. On the 22d Jess missed a putt which might have left him only 3 down, with a chance to struggle up even yet. This seemed to be the deciding point. Bobby got birdie 3s on the 23d and 25th. On the 26th Jess bounced his drive off a customer's chin and the ball caromed back onto the fairway as the honored devotee reeled away.

Souvenir collectors offered the fortunate patron generous amounts for a loosened tooth, but he took it home to have it mounted in a brooch for the little woman's Christmas.

Jess put his next shot over the green and took a 5, losing the hole. As the end neared the patrons whispered excitedly. Bobby got another birdie, a 2, on the twenty-seventh hole, and was 8 up at the turn. The marshals on the gallery and the marine detail were struggling with the crowd, but strictly in a spirit of fun, as the players fired away at the twenty-eighth, where the match was to end. Here Bobby drove about 275 yards and pitched his second within 3 inches of the little bamboo mast. Jess tried a long putt, missed, conceded Bobby's putt, and grabbed him by the hand, grinning, and apparently sensible of the distinguished honor of losing to so fine a friend, sportsman, and competitor.

Homans Rallies to Win.

The crowd loosed a quick holler and again the ground shook and rumbled under the beat of weary dogs as the whole pack tore off to witness the end of the match between Homans and Seaver.

Five down at midday, the venerable young Homans, long a competitor in tournaments in his 22 years, was only three down at the 27th and was steadily pulling Seaver back to him. He won the 29th to be only two down, and reduced the margin to one at the 33d.

At the 35th Seaver hit a high fifty yards to the right of the green, pitched within five feet of the hole and missed a putt. Homans was down in two putts, though stymied on his second, and squared the match as the mob charged down the valley struggling against the ropes when the next stand was made. Homans made the 36th green with his brassie and Seaver lost the hole and the match when his approach shot, hit from the rough, landed to the left with a tree intervening. His chip was overlong, his first putt failed and Homans had come from far behind to win.

Without access to the turnstile readings, I should guess that the amateur golf championship, Mr. Jones for the drawing card, has reached a fine commercial maturity. The United States Golf association is assured an interesting profit even now and the Merion Cricket club, which receives half of the gross, would be much ahead but for the fact that the golf course probably will have to be replaced when the show is over.

Sharkey-Campolo Bout Is Canceled; Both Free Agents

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—There will be no fight between Jack Sharkey and Vittorio Campolo this fall. The bout, rained out last night, was definitely canceled today when Campolo decided that if he couldn't fight Sharkey tonight he wouldn't fight him at all.

As a result Sharkey must return to Madison Square Garden corporation $100,000, his share for meeting the Argentine heavyweight. The money was deposited in a Boston bank last month.

Both Sharkey and Campolo were declared free agents by the Garden. The Garden paid Sharkey's training expenses but Campolo would not accept anything.

AL ESPINOSA TAKES ILLINOIS PRO GOLF TITLE

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Al Espinosa of the Sportsman's club, Chicago, won the annual Illinois open golf tournament held here today with a 36 hole total of 145, scored under almost impossible weather conditions, which found the majority of the golfers in the 80's.

Jock Hutchison, Glen View club, Chicago, was second with 148. Espinosa scored a par 71 on the morning round and 74 on the afternoon.

Wheaton Opens Season Against Monmouth Today

Monmouth, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Wheaton college will meet the Monmouth football team in the opening game for both schools on Monmouth field tomorrow. Wheaton has a veteran line and a fast back field. Monmouth will start four or five sophomores who will be in intercollegiate competition for the first time.

DECIDE 4 CHAMPS IN TRIBUNE GRID CONTEST TODAY

40 Boys in Final at Mills Stadium.

Four Chicago boys will be crowned champions this morning in THE TRIBUNE'S drop kicking and forward passing contests. The finals of the city-wide competition, in which more than 800 boys took part last week, will be held at Mills' stadium starting at 9 o'clock.

Forty boys are entered in the fianls. The winners will be THE TRIBUNE'S guests at either the Notre Dame-Navy football game at South Bend Oct. 11, or the Northwestern game with Illinois at Champaign Oct. 18.

Today's competitors are:

JUNIOR DIVISION.

FORWARD PASSING [Five trials at 15 yards.]—William Lipp, Jack Barnhardt, Ernest Kelly, Dick Beardsley, Robert Pitcash, Jennings Pemberton, Ralph Christensen, John Cosgrove, Al Pierstein, Wilbur Gutknecht, James Santon, and Leon Stone.

DROP KICKING [Five trials at 20 yards.]—Ernest Kelly, Ralph Christensen, Everett D. Mann Jr., Samuel Odlaboo, David Schwartz, Richard Jenkins, Charles Paluch, and Leon Warner.

SENIOR DIVISION.

FORWARD PASSING [Five trials at 20 yards]—Albert Rosen, Kenneth Groot, Emmett Conley, Jay Kearney, Chester Snow, Sydney Weiner, Ray Saddle, Joseph Simba, Arthur Bolgenio, and James Cunningham.

DROP KICKING [Five trials at 30 yards]—Robert Lewis, John Miskowitz, Harry Barber, Paul Fritz, Donald McGinty, Joseph Simba, Warner Kieefisch, Rudolph Hora, William Grippe, and Arthur Olsen.

The leading scorer in the junior boys' preliminaries naturally has the best chance for the championship today, although the additional week of practice may have helped the others who failed by one throw to score perfectly. Leon Stone, competing at Loyola university field last week, had five successful passes at the 3 foot target. Winning marks in four of the other sections were four out of five.

Kelly, Jenkins Perfect, too.

Ernest Kelly, entered at Washington park, and Richard Jenkins of Bessemer park, kicked five successive goals from the 20 yard line last week. They are the favorites for the title today.

While no perfect scores were registered in the senior division in the preliminaries, two competitors at De Paul tied with four out of five passes. They are Emmett Conley and Jay Kearney. Donald McGinty, Douglas park, led the qualifiers in the drop kicking, scoring four goals. Five other boys had a mark of three goals in five attempts.

McKinley vs. Fullman Tech at Fullman.

Austin of the west section of the City league and Oak Park of the Suburban league will meet in their nineteenth annual practice battle today on the latter's field. Oak Park has won sixteen games in the series, while the City leaguers have taken two, including last year's. Oak Park took the Suburban title last year, while Austin won the west section crown in the City league.

Other important prep games today include the batttle between Tilden Tech and Crane at White City; Lane Tech and De Paul at the latter's field; St. Rita vs. St. Philip on the south sider's gridiron, and Calumet and Leo at Shewbridge field. Schurz, City league champion, will journey to Elgin for its annual game with the high school there, while Lindblom, runner up in the city loop last year, plays South Side High at Fort Wayne, Ind.

HAGEN, SMITH PLAY CHICAGO PROS TOMORROW

Chicago golfers will have an opportunity to see four of the best professionals in the country tomorrow at the Bryn Mawr Country club. Al Espinosa and Frank Walsh will pair against Horton Smith and Walter Hagen in an exhibition match.

Walsh and Espinosa are outstanding pros of the Chicago territory. Walsh led the field in the district qualifying round for the national professional tournament, and Espinosa yesterday won the Illinois P. G. A. championship. Frank is the pro at Bryn Mawr and Al is at the newly organized Sportsman club.

Horton Smith and Walter Hagen are expected to give the local representatives all the opposition they can handle, although Hagen has not been at his best lately. Smith has a reputation of finishing in the money in most tournaments, and lived up to that reputation recently by taking third place in the St. Louis open.

The club has put up two special purses to make sure that all putts will be holed out. Prizes are offered to the player who shoots the lowest medal score and to the one who breaks the course record.

Competition will be at 18 holes and will start at 2 p. m. The club is located at Lincoln, Devon, and Crawford avenues.

Five of Big Ten Football Teams Open Season Today

Five Western conference football teams will open their schedules today against nonconference opponents. Other Big Ten squads will swing into action next Saturday.

Michigan's opener will be a double-header with Denison college and Michigan State Normal, with Coach Harry Kipke sending his first stringers against the Normal gridders.

Ohio State will oppose Mount Union college at the Buckeye stadium, while Fritz Crisler will make his debut as coach at Minnesota when he sends his team against South Dakota State. Indiana will play Miami university and Iowa will entertain Bradley Tech.

IRISH TEAMS SCRIMMAGE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The first day of real football weather was used by Coach Rockne to scrimmage his first two teams in spite of a varsity-freshman game scheduled for tomorrow.

Assistant Coach Anderson, who scouted the Southern Methodist-Howard Payne game yesterday, called Rockne this morning and warned him that Notre Dame will have to work hard to win its opening game with S. M. U., Oct. 4, in the new Notre Dame stadium. Anderson said that in its 26 to 7 victory over Howard Payne, S. M. U. used the first string only seven minutes and ran up three touchdowns in this time. He describes several new freak passes to Rockne and before this afternoon's scrimmage the first three varsity teams were put to work readjusting their aerial defenses to meet these.

WILDCATS TO MEET FROSH.

A thorough rehearsal of all the tricks learned to date was staged by Coach Dick Hanley and his Northwestern gridders yesterday in preparation for another test against the freshmen today. The game will be played on the regular stadium field and will give the players their first opportunity to try out the new Kentucky blue grass turf which was installed during the summer.

Secrecy will prevail with not even holders of practice passes admitted. Coach Hanley plans to put the Wildcats through the complete offense which is to be used against Tulane next Saturday.

RAIN SLOWS MAROONS.

After two strenuous weeks of drills twice daily Coach A. A. Stagg gave his University of Chicago squad a light workout yesterday. A driving rain made anything else an impossibility in the afternoon and the coach devoted the morning session to instruction on trick plays he has mapped out.

Capt. Errett Van Nice will be kept out of the opening game with Ripon next Saturday to make sure he will be in trim for the Wisconsin game on Oct. 11. Lou Karine, reserve back last year and the best kicker on the squad, has been filling Van Nice's place in the backfield the last two days. Don Birney and Bob Wallace, two sophomore back field candidates, also will get a chance in the position.

Paul Stagg, Walter Knudson, and Joe Temple continue to be Stagg's other first choices in the back field.

PURDUE HAS EASY DRILL.

Lafayette Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Purdue's varsity football squad today had an easy drill that amounted to a dress rehearsal for the scrimmage that is expected to be on the program tomorrow afternoon. As a result of yesterday's scrimmage with the freshmen several changes in the first and second team lineups appeared imminent. Coach Kizer served notice on several candidates that no one holds a lease on any position on the squad.

Minor bumps and bruises accumulated in scrimmage were evident today. Alex Yunevich was walking with a slight limp, while Ed Risk, Lewis Pope, and George Stears were not in the best of shape.

BADGERS DRILL ON ATTACK.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—For the first time in a week Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite excused the Wisconsin football squad from scrimmage today. With the thermometer registering near the freezing point he drove them through two hours of hard work in which he reviewed their entire offense. The drill was snappy and all the men finished fresh. Bucketts Goldenberg showed that his injury Thursday was not serious. He put in a full afternoon in which he shoved a new bucking machine farther and faster than any one.

ZUPPKE SEEKS PUNTER.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Working on the theory that the test of a good punter lies in his ability to kick against the wind, Coach Robert Zuppke allowed the stiff breeze which whistled across the campus today to select the best punters on his squad.

Stan Bodman, a tackle, withstood the test admirably, getting away several soaring punts. Pete Yanuskus, regular half back last season, also punted well, although he has not been used in this capacity heretofore.

John Snook, a sophomore from Aurora, has sown punting and passing ability and his talent in these may compensate for his inability to hit the line. Gil Berry, another sophomore, did most of the long passing, while Yanuskus, Evans, Snook, and Root also were tried.

Hyde Park Prep Eleven Beats Mount Carmel, 12-0

Hyde Park of the City league opened its season yesterday by defeating Mount Carmel of the Catholic league in a practice game at White City, 12 to 0.

ATHLETICS TAKE 7 TO 6 WIN FROM YANKS IN NINTH

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Rallying in the ninth inning of a close game the Athletics scored their second triumph of the season's final series over the New York Yankees today by a 7 to 6 score.

With the score tied, one out and a man on second through a walk and an error, George Pipgras relieved young Frank Barnes, who had lasted through the first eight and a half innings, despite bad streaks of wildness. Pipgras pitched only to Al Simmons and the Philadelphia slugger clouted a double that brought Schang home with the winning run. Score:

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The lowly Red Sox cost Mr. Bumps Hadley of Washington, D. C., $500 bonus money here today by tagging a 7 to 1 defeat on the Senators. Hadley has an agreement with his management that he gets $500 for every victory over 15 and as he won his 15th a few days ago, he was out for his bonus today.

It was the second straight win out of three games played for the Sox and Milton Gaston, a former Washington hurler, gave his old mates but seven scattered hits. Score:

Lyons Wins 22d Game as Sox Defeat Tigers, 3 to 1

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The White Sox opened their final series of the season today by taking a 3 to 1 decision from the Tigers. Ted Lyons allowed but five hits in recording his 22d victory of the season. With the game well in hand he waxed a bit careless in the ninth and was robbed of a shutout when Gehringer, the first batter, walloped the first pitch into the far stands for a homer.

Waite Hoyt, who took the mound for the home club, gave up eight hits in the eight innings he worked but had the misfortune of not keeping them separated in the first and of underestimating his pitching opponent's batting ability. Sullivan, who succeeded him in the ninth, was touched for a pair of hits and a run.

The White Sox became aggressive in their very first frame, and scored a run on two hits. With Kerr out, Alexander to Hoyt, Watwood doubled advanced a base on Reynolds' single, and scored while Alexander retired Jolly, unassisted. Clancy singled to open the fourth frame, but was forced by Tate, who in turn was forced by Mulleavy.

The Sox scored their second run in their half of the fifth when Lyons, first man to face Hoyt, hit for a circuit drive into the bleachers. Reynolds, with two of his mates down, singled, but died on the path when Gehringer tossed out Jolly.

In the seventh, with Lyons out, Kerr singled, but was left on third when Watwood popped and Reynolds was thrown out by Wise. They came back for the third and final run of the afternoon in the ninth inning. Kamm led off with a single, went to third when Lyons came through with his second hit, and scored on Kerr's sacrifice fly.

VIRGINIA VAN WIE WINS GOLF MEET WITH 325 SCORE

Miss Virginia Van Wie of the Beverly club added another major championship to her list yesterday when she won the women's western medal play tournament at Glen View club by eight strokes from Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City. Miss Van Wie had 325 strokes for the 72 holes, one over par, to 333 for Mrs. Hill. Miss Van Wie also won the east Florida coast and the south Atlantic championships this summer.

Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit finished third with 353, and Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire took fourth from Mrs. Lee W. Mida of Butterfield by one stroke with 355.

Gale Lifts Player Off Tee.

Yesterday was anything but conducive to good golf. The gale that swept over the course brought with it a drop in temperature of nearly 20 degrees. A sudden blast nearly caused the undoing of Mrs. Mida while she was on the eighth tee. Taking her usual long back swing and with arms extended, the gale caught her and lifted her off the ground. After she regained her stance the Butterfield star shot the ball down the fairway 215 yards.

Miss Van Wie started the last round five strokes ahead of Mrs. Hill. The Beverly player got around in 42—44—86, five over par, while Mrs. Hill needed 46—43—89. Miss Van Wie started out with three pars and a birdie, but after that it was different. Nearly every shot that raised any distance from the ground was blown off its course. Twice she had short chips for a possible birdie, but each time the wind shifted the ball away. It was the same with Mrs. Hill. At the 18th the wind was extremely strong and Mrs. Hill looked up on her second and third attempts, missing both.

Miss Van Wie, in addition to winning the championship cup, was also given the medalist's prize for her record breaking 77 of the first day's play. Mrs. Hill received a medal for her 77 on the second round.

New Yorker Leads 1st Flight.

The field was graded according to handicaps. The winner of the first flight was Mrs. Betty Trounstein of North Hills, N. Y., with 358, and Miss Ernestine Pearce of Pistaqua Heights was runnerup with 371.

In the second flight Mrs. Stanley Jaicks of Oak Park was the winner with 401. She also won low nine award with 44, besides a set of matched clubs for the blind bogey, presented by Jock Hutchison, Glen View pro. Mrs. Edna Aicholzer of Lincolnshire was runnerup with 406.

DR. E. W. BEMIS, NOTED UTILITY APPRAISER, DIES

Represented Public in More than 200 Cases.

Dr. Edward W. Bemis, noted as an economist and appraiser of public utility properties, died Thursday night at Springfield, Mo., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Doubler, where he was visiting. He was 70 years old. Death was due to heart trouble, from which he had suffered for more than a year. Mrs. Bemis, who formerly was on the board of county commissioners of Cook county, was with him when he passed away.

Dr. Bemis was a prominent figure in many famous litigations between communities and public utilities, notably the Illinois Bell Telephone company rate case here in 1911 and 1912, and the city of Chicago against the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, in which he was the sole appraiser for the city.

In More Than 200 Cases.

Mr. Bemis was also appraiser in the Indianapolis Water company case, which was carried to the United States Supreme court, where his recommendation in the matter was upheld. He had represented the public as consulting engineer, investigator, economist and evaluator in more than 200 cases.

Mr. Bemis was born at Springfield, Mass., April 7, 1860. He was educated in the east, taking two degrees at Amherst and one at Johns Hopkins. For three years he was on the faculty of Vanderbilt university as professor of history and political economy, was for the same length of time professor of political economy at the University of Chicago, and later went to Kansas State Agricultural college as professor of economics. Early in 1910 he was appointed by Mayor Gayner of New York as deputy commissioner of water supply, gas, and electricity of that city.

Member of Several Clubs.

Dr. Bemis was on the executive committee of the Public Ownership league and was a member of the University, Cosmos, and City clubs, and of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Louise Sargent Bemis, one daughter, Mrs. Doubler; two sons, Walter Sargent Bemis of Winnetka and Lloyd Edward Bemis, 1214 Elmdale avenue, and ten grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Doubler home in Springfield. Interment will be in the Kensico cemetery in New York City where Mrs. Bemis' parents are also buried.

U. S. SHIPS FIGHT GUN DUEL WITH CHINESE REDS

Battle River Ambush with Shell Fire.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Exchanges of fire between American gunboats and communist forces along the Yangtse river below Hankow were reported to the state department today by Frank P. Lockhart, American consul general at Hankow. On Sept. 24 Mr. Lockhart reported communist soldiers fired upon several ships with field pieces on the banks of the river 45 miles from Kiungchau. Among the vessels attacked was the U. S. S. Oahu at which 19 shells were fired.

"The Oahu returned the fire with 19 rounds of 3 inch shells, 13 of which are believed to have taken effect," Mr. Lockhart stated in his report. "The Oahu was fired at again a few miles farther down the river and fired seven 3 inch shells in return. Other vessels were heavily fired upon in the same area."

Answer with Machine Guns.

Mr. Lockhart further added that the U. S. S. Guam was fired upon by rifle fire emanating from a communist group on the right bank of the river, 193 miles above Hankow. The communist fire was returned by the Guam in the form of 300 machine gun rounds and some three inch shells. Other vessels are stated to have been fired upon in the same area.

The Guam reports large numbers of communist soldiers with red flags on both banks of the river from a point a few miles above Yochow to a point 200 miles above Hankow.

The consul general informed the department that no casualties occurred on either the Oahu or the Guam.

Feng Prepares Retreat.

NANKING, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Nationalist dispatches tonight announced government troops were battering Chengchow, rebel base in Honan province, with expectation of driving the northern forces beyond the Yellow river and ending within two weeks the rebellion which has wracked China since May.

Plan New Russian Parley.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26.—Dr. C. T. Wang, foreign minister of the Nationalist government, announced today that the Chinese government will open negotiations with Moscow on Oct. 11 with the object of resuming full trade and diplomatic relations. He stated that the Nanking government will immediately dispatch diplomatic representatives to Moscow in order to assist Mo Teh-hui, the Chinese delegate who has been in Moscow for more than two months futilely trying to reach an understanding over the problem of the Chinese Eastern railway.

NAVY PREPARES TO PUT ITS BUILDING NEEDS UP TO HOOVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Ranking navy department officials today took steps to expedite the preparation of the new five year naval building program in anticipation of White House action following the return of President Hoover from his October speaking trip.

Present indications are that the navy department will recommend a warship building bill that includes virtually all the cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, and submarines which this country could build under the pact during the five year period before it expires in December, 1936. It is also probable they will recommend $75,000,000 worth of actual construction work each year for new ships.

NEW TRUE BILL AGAINST HEAD OF DEFUNCT BANK

The grand jury yesterday voted an additional true bill against Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, president of the defunct Exchange State bank of Chicago, and named as a new defendant, Lee A. King, a former vice president of the bank. The new true bill charges the men with embezzlement of the funds of the bank in a real estate transaction. Luckenbill and three others were named in true bills voted earlier in the week.

The grand jury voted a no bill in the case of Attorney Mary Belle Spencer. The jurors held that inasmuch as she received no money from the transaction she was not involved.

Assistant State's Attorneys Henry Ayers and Leonard Rice said that Attorney Spencer bought a five acre tract of land near Steger, Ill., on April 5. The land was purchased for $5,520 and the title was placed in the woman lawyer's name. The next day a trust agreement was executed whereby she held title for the two defendants as well as hrself. A note secured by the trust deed was then executed and signed by Attorney Spencer and was put up as collateral at the bank for a $10,520 withdrawal. It is charged that nearly twice as much was taken from the bank as the property was worth.

30 POLICE WILL GUARD TRANSFER OF BANK ASSETS

Six police shotgun squads of five men each will stand guard this afternoon while assets of the Guardian National bank at Monroe and Dearborn streets are transported a block and a half north in Dearborn street to the Union Bank of Chicago, with which the Guardian bank is consolidating. The transfer is scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. and is expected to be completed in about an hour. Lieut. Walter Storms will be in charge of the squads.

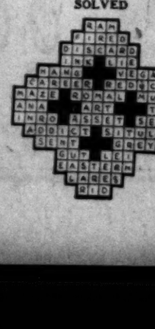
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



BELGIAN SENATOR ACCUSES DUCE OF LAYING WAR PLAN

Aids Man Who Tried to Kill Prince.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The dark, granite figure of Mussolini, rather than the fair, slim young man in the dock, filled men's minds today at the trial of Fernando de Rosa, young Italian student, for the attempted assassination of the Italian crown prince in Brussels last October.

"It is the Fascist rule that is being tried," declared De Rosa's counsel, at the end of an impassioned speech.

War Scare Is Raised.

The belief that the Mussolini government is preparing for war on both sides of the Albanian border as well as along the Alps was expressed by one of the Belgian witnesses, Senator Louis De Brouckere, president of the aviation commission at Geneva. Senator De Brouckere said he based his conclusions on observations which he made personally while he was a member of an official mission on disarmament.

German Nationalists, he declared, would not behave as they are if they were not assured of support by the Fascists.

Denies Intent to Kill.

Prominent Italian anti-Fascists, including former Premier Nitti, and Belgian Liberals today took the witness stand to suggest that Fascism being what, in their view, it is, De Rosa's action was natural to an emotional young man who is also a patriot.

According to the public prosecutor Fascism has nothing whatever to do with the case. He insists the purpose of the trial is to determine whether De Rosa attempted to assassinate Prince Umberto and declared the evidence showed clearly the youth did attempt such a crime.

To this declaration the defense counsel replied that, on the contrary, De Rosa obviously did not intend to kill the prince, since he was too far from the royal visitor when he fired the shot to make a reasonable attempt against his life. Furthermore, the defense pointed out, De Rosa did not fire a second shot.

CARRINO KILLING LAID TO FIGHT AMONG ROBBERS

Chief of Detectives John Norton stated last night that he believes the killing of Patsy Carrino, a minor hoodlum, who was dumped from an automobile in front of the University hospital early yesterday, can be attributed to a fight between gangsters over the division of robbery spoils.

PATSY CARRINO.

To support the theory that Carrino had been shot by one of his own companions was the fact that his coat and shirt were powder burned. The police pointed out this could not have happened had he been shot from across the street. Hospital internes carried Carrino into the hospital and found he had been shot in the side. He died before he could be placed on the operating table.

Police records show that Carrino had been picked up for attempted robbery and larceny and had once been committed to a state penal institution in Indiana.

7 MORE MEN OF TAMMANY SHY OFF EWALD QUIZ

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Nine more Tammany district leaders refused today to sign waivers of immunity from prosecution when they appeared before the extraordinary grand jury investigating the Ewald-Healy case, but a sixth came through with his autograph and a seventh said in advance that he will sign and, under oath, tell the grand jury what he thinks of it.

Harry C. Perry, William L. Cavanagh, David Lazarus, John J. Deitz, Clarence Neal Jr., James J. Hines, William P. Kenneally, Michael Cosgrove, and H. Warren Hubbard were the nine who refused to waive immunity this morning, following in the footsteps of their leader, John F. Curry, the big boss.

Barrett Carmody, secretary of Supreme Court Justice Ingraham, signed a waiver and Nathan Burkan, himself a lawyer, said he'd sign and tell the jurors what he thought of the investigation, which is looking into the charge that George F. Ewald paid a premium to Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader, for a seat as magistrate.

Writes Miss Klug

"For some years I have had a rough and pimply skin. I tried many kinds of skin lotions and creams, but none of them seemed to do any good. One day I saw your advertisement for Resinol Ointment and sent for a sample. The results were so good I bought a full size jar. It cleared away the redness and roughness, and healed every pimple. Now I always keep a jar on hand, and am glad to pass along a word for Resinol."

MIDDLE WEST WORKERS HANG ON TO SAVINGS

Illinois Deposits Are Ahead of 1929.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Illinois and Chicago are riding out the present slack period in industry with the minimum of discomfort. In fact, the middle west is going along in fairly good shape. This is indicated by the monthly review on industrial employment conditions and savings deposits published by the Chicago federal reserve banks.

It is noteworthy that the volume of savings deposits in Illinois increased last month and also was larger than a year ago, although employment conditions were less favorable. For the entire seventh federal reserve district, which comprises Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin, savings deposits also were slightly larger on Aug. 31 than on Aug. 1, but were lower than on Aug. 31, 1929.

The data indicate that the industrial workers have largely squared their living expenses with income and have not been forced to any appreciable extent to draw on their savings. And it is these savings that represent future purchasing power whenever a revival in trade and industry appear plainly enough to convince the workers that temporary spending of savings may be recouped by larger earnings later on.

Employment Situation.

Between July 15 and Aug. 15 employment in the seventh district declined 2.1 per cent, but earnings receded only 1.5 per cent. Between Aug. 1 and Aug. 31, savings deposits increased one-tenth of 1 per cent but were 2.3 per cent lower than on Aug. 31, 1929. However, in Illinois there was a gain of 1 per cent last month and an increase of 3.2 per cent over August 31, 1929.

"While trade and industry employed fewer men and had smaller pay roll aggregates in August than in July," the review says, "the percentage decline in pay rolls was smaller than in number employed for the total of ten manufacturing groups and there was a slight increase in wage payments on non-manufacturing activities. Notwithstanding the general decrease in employment and pay rolls, there is evidence of increased time schedules in certain instances, the effect on pay rolls not being apparent because of reductions in number of workers in some establishments."

The report also reviews recent government data showing extensive damage to crops from the drought, resulting in production of corn, potatoes and beans being the smallest in many years. However, it says that small grain turned out better than had been anticipated earlier in the season and that corn has made satisfactory progress.

Note of Optimism.

The weekly mercantile reviews appearing last night again were couched in mildly optimistic terms.

"Even in a situation which still has many confusing and uncertain elements, with accentuated unsettlement in speculative markets, the more promising signs in business are not obscured," Dun's review says.

"Surveys of individual lines continue to disclose numerous irregular and unsatisfactory phases but conditions viewed in their entirety reveal a moderately better trend. Reports from the different sections of the country, covering widely diversified trades, reflect a maintenance of the gradual gains that began with the passing of the summer and a slow broadening of the circle of improvement."

"While there have been numerous cross currents visible in general business, this being especially displayed in lower prices for many staples, and religious holidays and warmer weather have been additional drawbacks, the necessities imposed by the advance of the season have on balance made for a further moderate advance in fall trade," Bradstreet's review says.

"This is especially noticeable in wholesale and jobbing lines where buying has had to be done and in small but none-the-less encouraging accessions to working forces employed in seasonal industries. Taken as a whole, the situation may be said to grade as nearer fair than for some months past but with industrial output and general trade volume still leaving much to be desired as compared with a year ago."

N. Y. Telephone to Spend Additional $12,951,325

New York, Sept. 26.—The directors of the New York Telephone company today announced the authorization of the expenditure of an additional $12,951,325 for new construction throughout the state. The new authorization brought the total appropriations since the first of the year to $80,687,760, according to J. S. McCulloch, president. Of the total appropriated $66,108,510 was provided for extension of facilities in the metropolitan area.

Sulphur Is Important in Many Trades

BY SCRUTATOR.

This civilization is developed largely from the test tube of the chemist, who plays an important part in the development of modern machines and materials.

Discussions of the vast possibilities of properties like Muscle Shoals center as much about nitrates and the fertilizer supply as about the manufacture and distribution of electrical energy derived from waterpower.

Refrigerants and oils and gasoline attract some attention as to chemical properties, but more mystification. When we go back to chemical bases, few laymen know anything at all about the sources of supply and their importance. Sulphur, for instance, is the stuff that is in batteries or on the end of matches. Perhaps it may recall memories of rooms being fumigated with a burning candle of it.

Found Indispensable.

Sulphur, as a matter of scientific fact, is an indispensable part of the fertilizer, petroleum refining, iron and steel, paper and rubber industries. Consumption of sulphuric acid alone in 1929 reached a total of nearly eight million long tons, or about 150 pounds for each man, woman and child in the country.

Production of elemental sulphur in the United States last year was 2,363,389 long tons, of which 855,000 tons were exported. As late as 1903 this country produced only a negligible amount of it. Sicily had almost an ironclad monopoly of it. In that year the important deposits in Louisiana were opened and within ten years the United States was producing twice as much as the Mediterranean isle. Now the ratio is eight or ten times as much.

A sulphur export corporation was formed in 1922 and the American and Italian interests are now reported to be working in harmony on agreed supply to the markets outside the United States.

Distribution of the use of sulphur in industry is: In heavy chemicals, 560,000 tons; fertilizers and insecticides, 415,000; pulp and paper, 265,000; explosives, 67,000, dyes and coal tars, 47,000; rubber, 43,000; electro-chemicals, 23,000, and other industries, 162,000, a combined total of 1,582,000 long tons.

Used in Gasoline.

Its use makes phosphate rock readily soluble and available for plant food. There is from one to four pounds of sulphuric acid in a barrel of gasoline or naphtha. Before steel plate can be galvanized the oxides on the outside must be removed by passing through a sulphuric acid bath. Rubber without sulphur is a soft, soluble gum. With it rubber becomes tough and resists hard wear.

World production and consumption have more than tripled in twenty years. The central states are heavy users of the product, the supply coming from Louisiana and Texas. It is one of the materials that are expected to move in heavy volume along the new gulf waterway on its completion.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Close to Bottom.

Oils still seem to lack aggressive market sponsorship. Gulf sold at a new low this week, as did Standard of Indiana, Standard of Kentucky and some of the independents. Even staid Humble is close to its 1930 bottom.

Makes New Deal.

A good deal of favorable talk has been heard in connection with New Haven Clock in the last few weeks. The stock, however, has shown little response marketwise, being available at close to the low point of the year. The chief bullish argument seems to revolve itself around an arrangement which the company has made with Westinghouse Electric whereby the two concerns will shortly offer the New Haven-Westinghouse electric clock.

Company Buying.

No matter what else one might say about Cities Service, as far as likes and dislikes are concerned, the stock continues to distinguish itself by absorbing heavy offerings at a minimum of loss. Cities Service is rated to have as good a sponsorship as any stock on the list. Last fall, it will be recalled, the market for this issue showed many air holes, severe breaks resulting. This condition has evidently been corrected. There is a constant flow of company buying on reactions.

Advises Stock Purchases.

A New York banking house is advising customers to buy at present prices. General business conditions are slowly improving and reports from abroad are reassuring, the bank says, and it thinks the worst of the decline is over.

CHICAGO STOCKS MOVE INTO NEW LOW TERRITORY

Motor and Radio Issues Under Pressure.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The steady downward trend which has held sway in the stock market for a fortnight continued uninterrupted yesterday. On the Chicago exchange a dozen or more stocks moved into new low territory. Many of these were issues which have not been actively traded in recently, but not a few of the more prominent shares scraped new bottoms.

The pressure was directed largely against the motor and radio stocks and it was in these groups that most of the record low prices developed. The selling here developed late in the day and was brought on by the renewal of offerings in New York.

As the selling appeared in the motor issues reports flew about concerning further curtailment of operation in the industry. This, coupled with the continued weakness in the wheat market and the lack of any fresh stimulating news, made for a bearish situation.

Radio Weakness.

The weakness in the radio stocks can be attributed to the fact that the industry was among the first to suffer when the business depression began. As there have been few tangible signs of general improvement in the field it seems logical that as the stock market is engulfed in new liquidation, radio shares are among the first to feel the effects of such selling.

Grigsby, Steinite and Zenith found their way to new low levels. The actual net loss in each case was moderate, but all three issues had been selling near their lows. Transformer corporation which a few weeks ago was being groomed for higher prices sold off to a new all time low of 6.

Bendix and Borg Warner, automobile accessory shares, each reached new lows. The former dropped to 24½ and the latter sold off 2¼ to 22¼. Auburn Automobile broke through 100 for the first time in weeks, closing at 98½, as compared with its 1930 bottom of 92.

In the utility group losses were confined within a one point range. Middle West, however, which closed at 26, was only a fraction from its 1930 bottom.

Reflects Support.

Continental Chicago preferred continued to reflect good market support, moving up a fraction to close at its 1930 high of 47¾. The common was also steady at 14. Chicago corporation issues each slipped a fraction on fair volume of trading.

Majestic Household shares were the center of professional activity and led the market in sales. The last sale was made at 19¾, off 1¾ from the previous day's close, but 2 points above the new low established several days ago.

Divides Work, Makes No Cut in Daily Wage

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York Sept. 26.—Notwithstanding the decline in the steel industry this year, the United States Steel corporation has employed almost as much labor as it averaged during the far busier year 1929, statistics made public by the company show.

MYRON C. TAYLOR. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

The average number of workers for the corporation during the first half of 1930 was 220,591, the company reveals in an application to list additional stock on the New York stock exchange. That compares with an average of 224,980 for the entire year 1929, the decrease amounting to only 4,389, or about 1.9 per cent.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, today said that the officers of the U. S. Steel corporation had worked out a plan for distributing the work to be done.

States Company's Policy.

"The policy of this corporation as we have undertaken to develop and define it and particularly since the recession in business last fall," he said, "is to distribute the work equitably as nearly as possible among the workers, hoping through this system to provide under all circumstances a ratable portion of work that is going on for our own people, and thus far this plan in the main has been effective."

It was learned today that the United States Steel corporation not only has worked out a plan whereby unemployment in its works has been reduced to a minimum, but also has made no wage cuts. Workmen on its pay rolls draw down wages at the same daily rate as last year.

The plan of the corporation is understood to have been first to divide the regular mill work in such a way that the men work three days a week instead of six, where such a distribution was necessary to keep all employed. In the second place, the corporation has taken surplus labor on its own pay rolls out of the mills where there was insufficient work to go around and put the men on new construction work the corporation is doing instead of going outside the organization for all its labor requirements.

Ford Operates Three Days.

Ford Motor company operated three days this week, according to a Detroit dispatch. The company has been on a four day basis recently. The reduction was considered preferable to reducing working forces and maintaining the four day rate. Some departments will still operate on a four day plan, and a few on a five day plan.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has placed 35 per cent of its working force, comprising the mechanical and electrical departments at the Bayonne, N. J., plant, on a five day week, against a 6 day week formerly.

Bell Telephone of Penn. to Vote on Capital Increase

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A special meeting of stockholders of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania has been called for Dec. 4 to vote on a proposed increase in capital stock to $250,000,000 from $110,000,000. The increase will be in common stock, which is to be issued only as needed for capital expenditures to care for the growth of business.

BOND MARKET NOW GETS ITS TURN AT BAT

Cheap Money Rates Boost Prices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—The easiest time money rates in more than fifteen years spurred bond prices to higher levels today.

The volume of trading increased and equaled some of the brisk sessions of two years ago. At that time, however, sales of convertible issues accounted for a sizable proportion of the transactions. In the current markets convertibles are neglected.

With time money ruling at 2 to 2¾ per cent for the various short maturities, a powerful incentive is provided for the purchase of bonds.

Dominate Trading.

Domestic rails and utilities of the better grade and United States government issues dominated the trading in the current session. Foreign issues were forced to the background by the strong advance in the domestic list. German issues lost part of the ground that they had regained after the declines of a week ago. Second grade domestic issues failed to share in the advance to any appreciable degree, although dealers report a slight increase in inquiries.

One of the features of the bond rally today was the broad demand that developed for United States governmental securities at the highest prices of the year. Transactions reached large proportions in the leading Liberty bond and treasury issues. The strength in this group reflected, of course, the easing money rates.

Fourth Liberty 4¼ per cent bonds were bought in large numbers at 103¼, a new peak for 1930. There was active trading in 3½ per cent Liberty bonds at the best current levels. Treasury 4s and 4¼s were active and higher, but somewhat under the 1930 peaks.

Among New Highs.

As was the case yesterday almost the entire legal railroad list was in new high territory. Other rails were at peak prices for the most part, except for distinctly second grade offerings.

Among the new highs in the railroad group were Atchison adjustment 4s, Hocking Valley 4½s, New York Central 4½s, Pittsburgh and West Virginia 4½s, and Union Pacific 4s. The demonstration in the Pennsylvania railroad list was most impressive. New highs were recorded by six separate issues, including the gold 6½s, general 5s, consolidated 4½s, debenture 4½s, general 4½s, and 3½s series D.

AUGUST NETS OF 44 RAILS SHOW 27.3% DECREASE

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The first forty-four railroads to report their August earnings had a net operating income of $44,828,000, against $61,797,000 in August, 1929, a decrease of 27.3 per cent, and $55,086,000 in 1928, a decrease of 18.6 Net operating income in August compares with $35,160,000 in the preceding month, an increase of 27.3.

Railroad reports of net operating income for the month of August continued today to show, with few exceptions, decreases from figures for the same month last year. Roads reporting today, with comparative figures for August, 1929, included:

Form Merger of Two North Side Banks

Plans for consolidation of the Builders and Merchants' State bank and the Capital State Savings bank were announced last night. The former is located at Clark street and Foster avenue and the latter at Clark street and Rascher avenue. The directors of both banks approved a basis of merger and will submit it in detail to their stockholders for ratification.

"To provide the great north side with a larger banking institution," O. A. Christensen, president of the Capital State Savings, explained, "the directors have agreed to unite their institutions into one unit to better serve the constantly increasing need for a larger and more serviceable bank. This action brings to a close negotiations which have been in progress for many months and should be a great stimulus for the further upbuilding of this community.

Retain Both Staffs.

"All officers, employés, and directors will remain in the joint institution, and all customers will be able to retain their contacts with those with whom they have transacted their business in the past."

The directors of the consolidated bank will be Mr. Christensen, Paul C. Mellander, president of the Builders and Merchants' State; Axel W. Anderson, Charles Bostrom, John P. Friedlund, Maurice Friedman, Arthur Goodwillie, A. L. Hansen, Alfred E. Holmes, Simon Johanson, Carl J. Johnson, Andrew Kilander, H. Kinzelburg, Harry E. Koeber, H. J. Lind, J. H. McFarland, Ralph L. Peck, Oscar Peterson, John A. Sandgren, August H. Skoglund, and Eric E. Skoglund.

Last Statements.

On June 30, the date of the last published reports of Chicago banks, the Capital State Savings had total resources of $4,462,466, deposits totaling $3,406,941 and capital, surplus and undivided profits aggregating $507,822.

The Builders and Merchants' State had total resources of $3,994,531, deposits of $3,173,153, and capital, surplus and undivided profits of $532,599.

WOOL RETURNS OF AUSTRALIA WORST IN YEARS

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Australia's wool returns are the worst for some years and all sections that make up the wool industry are getting together for a big effort to save the situation.

Wool production in 1927 was valued at $375,000,000; the 1928 production realized $345,000,000. The 1929 clip will not reach $200,000,000.

Silk largely has displaced wool throughout the world to the detriment of the great pastoral industry and Australia has to come to a realization that if its ledger is to be balanced it must find greater use for its wool. How it is to be done is a question occupying the attention of the wool campaign committee, which the government has organized.

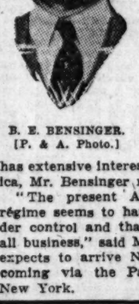
BENSINGER SAYS SOUTH AMERICA TRADE IS STEADY

South American business has suffered no serious check because of revolutionary activities and is rapidly getting back to normal, according to B. E. Bensinger, president of Brunswick-Balke-Collander Company, who reached Buenos Aires from Paris Tuesday. Mr. Bensinger sent this information to his Chicago offices by telephone yesterday. Everything in connection with the company, which has extensive interests in South America, Mr. Bensinger reported, is sound.



B. E. BENSINGER. [P. & A. Photo.]

"The present Argentine political régime seems to have everything under control and that speaks well for all business," said Mr. Bensinger. He expects to arrive Nov. 5 in Chicago, coming via the Panama canal and New York.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—Having donned its sackcloth for a more or less extended gloomfest, speculative Wall street put in another day refusing to be comforted. There was nothing much in the news to account for the heavy mood but, on the other hand, there was nothing particularly calculated to inspire jubilation. When in doubt, it seems, Wall street generally looks for the worst.

And so the bears had it by a large majority and the popular thing was to sell stocks. The liquidation wave reached its crest in the late trading when such a flood of offerings poured in on the exchange as to distance the new high speed stock ticker for a full five minutes and send nearly a hundred issues of assorted classification to new low price levels for the year. The losses ranged from 1 to 10 points and, except for New York traction shares and a number of specialties which moved against the trend on short covering, they were general for the list.

Turnover 3,704,590 Shares.

The turnover was the largest since last June, amounting to 3,704,590 shares.

The bear forces centered their heaviest fire today on the motor, radio, and oil share groups and on a number of special stocks considered especially vulnerable in the street's present state of mind. From a professional standpoint the successful attack on Radio, which drove that old line leader to a new low of 28, was the big feature of the day. Shares of this stock were dumped into the hopper in big bales and word was put about that another of those constructive pools popularly supposed to have been trying all these many weeks to start something really worth while was standing from under.

Some show of support for the belabored favorite appeared just before the close, but it was not enough to cheer about. The final sale was recorded at 28¾, which left it a net loss of 2¼ points on the day's business.

Motor Shares Suffer.

The motor shares fairly agonized. Chrysler was an outstanding target of the group and was dropped to 20⅛, a new low for the year. The others followed in turn, new bottoms being touched by Nash, Packard, Auburn, and one or two others. General Motors managed to keep above 40.

Oils were given little respite from the selling, which seems to be gaining momentum in this department as it becomes more generally realized that the earnings of the chief corporations of the industry for the first six months are not going to make such an engaging picture, what with the continued price cutting, over-production, and everything.

LIQUIDATION IN WHEAT KEEPS PRICES SLIDING

December Sells Down to 80½c—A New Low.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on again in the wheat market yesterday with the December selling down to 80¼c, a new low on the crop. The other months stopped, declining a fraction above the previous inside figures. At no time, however, was there disposition to take the buying side freely, and had it not been for aggressive support toward the last by houses which the trade frequently identifies as filling orders for the coöperatives the break might have gone further.

The finish was within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of 2@2½c. September being 76⅝c; December, 80⅜ to 80½@80¾c, and May, 86¾@86⅞c at the last.

The uncertainty of the general business situation, as indicated by the declining tendancy in the grain, stock and cotton markets tended to make traders cautious, but houses with eastern connections were rather persistent sellers of wheat and some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down. The weakness in Winnipeg, which was off 2⅝@2½c for the day, was said to have been due almost entirely to scattered liquidation and lack of demand, as there was little evidence of aggressive hedging.

Wheat Trade Pessimistic.

There was nothing in the news to account for the selling movement in wheat, as there was a material expansion in the foreign demand with sales of around 2,500,000 bu Manitobas reported in all positions, part of the business being done late Thursday to the orient. Drought reports and crop deterioration was claimed in Australia. The latter had some effect on Liverpool early, but that market also weakened toward the last and finished ⅛@⅜d lower. Buenos Aires was 1⅜@1⅝c lower for the day.

Brokers who have been in the wheat pit for years said that they have never seen such a condition of disorganization as prevailed during the day. Pessimism was rampant and buyers scarce at times, which resulted in rapid price fluctuations, although it was noticeable that when any buying of consequence developed early that there was a scramble on the part of the pit element to take the buying side.

Fortcast for better weather in the Canadian northwest offset the deliveries of only 1,282,000 bu at interior points in the prairie provinces, against 3,967,000 bu last year. So far this season there has been 125,000,000 bu delivered, which with 50,000,000 bu allowed for seed and feed, suggested that about half of the total crop had been accounted for.

Corn Weakens with Wheat.

Local bulls were on the buying side of corn and had the assistance of wet and cold weather over the greater part of the belt, and a better cash demand in their favor. The weakness in wheat, however, induced scattered holders to liquidate persistently and the finish was at the bottom with net losses of 1⅛@2⅜c, the former on September and the latter on March. September closed at 84⅝@84¾c; December, 80¼ to 80⅜@80½c; March, 81⅜@81½c, and May at 83⅜@83⅝c.

Frost was forecasted for parts of Missouri, Iowa and the Dakotas over night, but had little effect. At no time were prices above the finish of the previous day. Local handlers sold 100,000 bu to the domestic trade and it is expected that 240,000 bu will be moved out of here via lake in the next few days. Country offerings were again small.

LARD IN EASY CLOSE

While a good demand for cash product was reported, there was little confidence shown yesterday on the part of buyers of provisions, the break in the grain, stock, and cotton markets serving to restrict operations. The finish was 10@17½c lower on lard, while bellies were unchanged on September, 20c lower on October and $1 lower on the July, the latter as compared with the nominal close of the previous day. Liverpool lard was 6d lower to 9d higher. Deliveries on September contracts aggregated 50,000 lbs bellies. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today under increased offerings from Cuba and only an indifferent demand. Prices declined 3 points, with sales confirmed of 20,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to an operator at 3.10c, with more available at the same level. New low records for the season were established in raw futures under rather heavy general liquidation and hedge selling, promoted by the easier spot market, with final prices 5 to 7 points net lower. Top yesterday, $7.75; average, $7.20.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 1,000 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep.

Following a 10@15c higher opening in the hog market yesterday, demand narrowed and gains were erased before mid-session. The close was 10@ 15c below the previous day's general selling.

There was a good clearance when prices weakened and only 3,000 pen holders and inferior kinds remained at the close. The extreme top moved up 15c at $10.70, while the general average gained 5c at $9.55, comparing with a top of $10.75 and average of $9.90 at the close of last week. A break in wholesale prices of fresh pork loins caused some of the smaller packers and city butchers to remain out of the market.

Deliver Many September Hogs.

During the last two days a total of 29 carloads of September hogs were delivered to buyers of September contracts. Trading in September contracts continued active yesterday. Seven contracts for light sold at $10.00@10.25 and medium were sold at $10.70. A total of 62 contracts have been sold so far this week, 54 of them being for this month's delivery.

October mediums yesterday sold at $9.50, highest in more than three weeks. January mediums were bought at $9.10.

Yesterday's meager supply of 2,500 cattle changed hands at Thursday's decline, but prices are still 50c above the close of last week. Quality was unusually good for Friday. A string of 71 yearlings averaging 865 lbs. sold at $12.80 and about 100 averaging 940@1,010 lbs reached $12.75. Some 1,466 lb averages sold at $11.75.

Cows and heifers were generally steady. Calves showed strength, due to scarcity. Stockers and feeders continued fairly active, but prices are generally 25c under early this week.

Aged Sheep Slump.

A break of 50c in the market for aged sheep yesterday brought top ewes down to $3.50, the lowest in some time. Lambs were plentiful and held barely steady, only closely sorted ewe and wether natives to city butchers making the $8.00 line. Bulk sold at $7.50@7.75, with buck lambs at $4.50@6.75.

"Tops" from the supply of western range lambs sold at $7.75 and below. Yearlings were scarce and steady. The feeding lambs available yesterday cleared slowly at $6.00@7.00, showing 50c to $1.00 loss for the week. Fat lambs are 50@75c lower than a week ago, but are selling $1.50@1.75 lower than two weeks ago and $2.50@3.00 lower than five weeks ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 6,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep, against 354 cattle, 6,678 hogs and 3,340 sheep the previous Saturday and 960 cattle, 6,245 hogs and 3,173 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 31,000 to 43,000. N. R. Denny marked 43,000; J. A. Bunyan, 42,000; A. G. Welhener, 40,000; W. T. Reneker and E. S. Waterbury, 38,000; H. O. Heague, 37,000; W. C. White, F. W. Young and J. T. Brown, 36,000; H. C. Carlson, S. Lund and H. Pattison, 35,000; F. M. Sherwood, 34,000; F. Knutzen, 32,000, and J. M. Waters, 31,000.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A further advance occurred in coffee futures here today as continued covering and buying promoted by the steadier ruling of Rio exchange. COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL was only moderately active today, and while the early tone was quite steady the closing was barely steady, reflecting the late easiness in other markets. Old contracts closed 3 points higher to 5 lower, and new contracts 10 points higher to 3 net lower. Total sales were 4,450 bbls, including 700 bbls in the old contracts and 3,750 in the new. BEARS TRAMPLE DOWN STOCKS IN SELLING SPREE horses" of many a bull campaign, afforded dogged resistance to the selling pressure most of the day. American Can had to capitulate in the end, taking one on the chin for the count of three points or so, but U. S. Steel held out for a loss of only a small fraction. Among the other leaders, General Electric proved difficult to budge and such old-timers as Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse, Johns Manville and Standard Gas emerged with losses of only a point or two.

Vanadium, Auburn Sink.

Vanadium Steel, which has been on the run for the better part of the week, collected a few more barbs and suffered another net loss of more than a point. Auburn Auto, always an erratic performer, dropped 10 points, but recovered 2 of them in time for the evening roll call.

The copper shares continued their decline and the rails were weak. New lows were touched by Pere Marquette, Frisco, Missouri Pacific and others. The amusements did a little better.

Call money was again available in the "outside market" at 1 per cent, although the official rate continued to hold at 2 per cent. A year ago traders had to pay 6 to 10 per cent for their accommodations.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Print cloths were advanced ¼ of a cent a yard in some houses after large sales this week. There was moderate trading today in finished goods. Raw silk continued unsettled and low. Silk goods were in light request for late delivery, filling in lots for cutting making up a large part of the business. Wool goods were in fair request for filling in needs for fall and winter. Burlaps were slightly easier.

CHICAGO CURB EXCHANGE STOCKS

Prices of Chicago curb stocks swung lower yesterday. Declines of 1 or 2 points were marked up against Standard of Indiana, Hammond Clock, Nehi, and Solvay. Chicago Rapid Transit 6½s of 1944 provided a feature of the bond list, selling nearly 3 points lower. Two additions to the bond list made their initial appearance during the day, Nelser Bros. 6s of 1948 chaging hands at 92 and F. & W. Grand 6s of 1948 making their bow at 88.

POWROZNIK TO BUILD 32 HOMES ON MANGO AVE.

To Be 4th Unit in Fullerton Central Manor.

BY AL CLASE.

Martin Powroznik, builder of Fullerton Central Manor, with offices at 5600 Fullerton avenue, yesterday announced construction work on the fourth unit of his development, comprising thirty-two new homes. Approximately 200 brick houses already have been erected in Mr. Powroznik's project. He also states that within a short time work will start on the fifth unit, comprising thirty more homes.

He reports a steady demand for small homes and states that with the present low prices and surplus of labor he is building homes at exactly one-third less than he has been able to do for the last fifteen years. He predicts a record breaking program of small home building in Chicago next year.

Will Build on Mango Avenue.

The thirty-two new homes anounced by Mr. Powroznik for his Fullerton Central Manor will be erected on both sides of North Mango avenue, extending north from Altgeld street to a point one-half a block north of Wrightwood avenue.

The six apartment building at 5634 Calumet avenue, lot 50x160, has been sold by John Greider to Nana Breuning, who then transferred title to Otto H. Bergmann.

Ridgeland Avenue Sale.

The twelve apartment building at the southwest corner of 77th street and Ridgeland avenue has been sold by William and Anna Wall to Charles A. Clark of Elkhart, Ind., for a reported $70,000 subject to $55,000. The three flats at 8619 Yates avenue were given in part payment. Jack Levinson was broker.

Title to the Hotel Coolidge, a three story, 120 room hostelry at 2950 West Jackson boulevard, has been transferred by Louis Pearlman, Ike Fishman, and Jacob Pollack to the Hotel Coolidge company. The hotel occupies a site 75x125.

A Distinguished Place to Live.

THE
105 E. Delaware-pl.

21 stories of large and small apartments view the four corners of the city. Marvelous views of the lake, boulevards, park, and skyscrapers. So near to the loop you can walk it in a few minutes—yet far enough away to be out of the smoke and din. People like the Whitehall for originality, its strict management policies, meticulous service and unusual Early American furnishings. Miss Lawson will gladly exhibit available apartments from 1 room to 4.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

IT'S A SHAME TO DO IT!

We Must Liquidate Our Used Stock in Order to Make Room for More Trade-Ins—So Every Car in Our Place Now Offered at $200 Under the Market Price!

Compare our prices, car for car, with any other dealer in Chicago. You will be surprised to note that in many cases our prices are as much as $2000 to $3000 under the market valuations. And in addition, every car is sold under the terms of the Studebaker Used Car Plan, which guarantees five days' free driving trial.

HUDSON SEDAN—4 dr., 5 pass., finished in attractive color. Has thousands of miles of unused transportation and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, spare tire, bumpers, etc. $335.

CHRYSLER SEDAN—Model 75. This car is in marvelous condition. Every feature of this upholstery, finish, tires and motor will please the most exacting buyer. 6 wire wheels, side mounts, snubbers, bumpers, etc. $745.

WILLS STE. CLAIRE ROADSTER—A late model with a comfortable rumble seat. The finish gleams and the upholstery looks like new. Good tires, and the motor is 100% Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, hydraulic shock absorbers, bumpers, etc. Priced at $450 for quick sale.

CHEVROLET SPORT COUPE—This car must be seen to be appreciated. The motor runs smoothly and the upholstery, tires and finish are in dandy condition. Spacious rumble seat. $125.

BUICK SEDAN—This 7 pass., is an ideal car for the family. Sweet running motor. Many extras. Nice original finish and good upholstery. A real bargain at $195.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA—1929 Commander. Examine this car from bumper to bumper and you'll agree that it's one of the most handsome cars you've ever seen. Have your own mechanic to inspect the motor and he'll testify that it's okay in every respect. A real bargain at $845.

NASH COACH—Late model 2 dr. Adv. 6, painted an attractive color. The interior is very clean and the motor is in dandy shape. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Reduced to $385.

LINCOLN SEDAN—7 pass. that was owned by a wealthy family in conjunction with three other cars. Result is this car was driven little. It's in fine condition today. Wire wheels, 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, etc. $645.

PONTIAC CONV. COUPE—1929, painted an attractive color. This car is like new in every respect, for the finish, upholstery and motor show any signs of use. Comfortable rumble seat and hundreds of dollars' worth of extras. $545.

ERSKINE SEDAN—Was oiled and greased every 500 miles, so it's in wonderful shape now. Appearance is very attractive and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, spare tire, etc. $295.

BUICK BROUGHAM—1929 five pass. Mod. 6 that looks and runs absolutely like a brand new car. The attractive finish has not a mar on it and the upholstery shows no signs of wear. Small trunk rack all around. Equipped with 6 wire wheels, side mounts, trunk rack, spotlight, etc. This car is de luxe in every respect. $985.

DE SOTO COACH—1929, with brand new tires, 6 whl. brakes, bumpers, etc. The finish, upholstery and motor are in the original new condition. $485.

PACKARD SEDAN—7 pass. Single Six. Here's an expensive car at an inexpensive price. Every feature is still in new car condition and it's equipped with every essential extra. $550.

AUBURN 8 SEDAN—1929, with a sweet running motor. Finish is bright and gleaming. Upholstery and tires are in fine shape. Was driven very little, so it's like a new car today. $795.

DODGE SEDAN—A school teacher owned this car and she gave it very good attention. We went over the motor, equipped the car with new tires and painted it unusually low for immediate disposal. $165.
